

FOR RENT

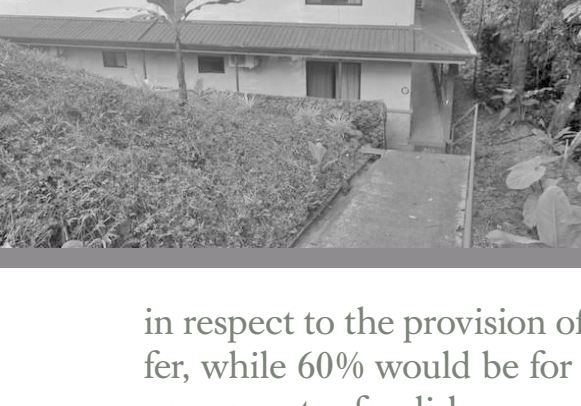

over the last 10 years, the number of people who have been killed in car accidents has increased by 10 percent. The number of people who have been injured in car accidents has increased by 20 percent. The number of people who have been killed in car accidents has increased by 10 percent. The number of people who have been injured in car accidents has increased by 20 percent.

from Alexandra Egypt who died along with his family in Siber airline that crashed into sea at Isreal on 4th October 2001.

Since I got information about his death I have been expecting his next of kin to come over and claim his money because we can not release it unless somebody applies for it as the next of kin or relation to the deceased as indicated in our banking guidelines, but unfortunately we learnt that all his supposed next of kin or relation died alongside with him in the plane crash leaving nobody behind for the claim. It is therefore upon this discovery that I decided to make this business proposal to you and release the money to you as next of kin or relation to the deceased for safety and subsequent disbursement since nobody is coming for it and I don't want the money to go into the bank treasury as unclaimed bill.

Am contacting you because our deceased customer is a foreigner and a Burkinabe can not stand as a next of kin to foreign customer. The banking guidelines stipulate that the fund should be transferred into the bank treasury after 12 years if nobody is coming for the claim. I have agreed that 40% of this money will be for you as foreign partner in respect to the provision of your account for the transfer, while 60% would be for me, after which I shall visit your country for disbursement according to the percentage as we agreed on.

Please I would like you to keep this transaction confidential and as a top secret as you may wish to know that I am a bank official. Yours sincerely, Mr. Mousa Haruna.

A fun, reversed-stress sans, Signo introduces its message with a slightly unsettling texture and voice. Turn your head 90 degrees to see that its horizontal strokes are slightly heavier than its verticals. The face comes in six well-developed weights, each including companion italics.

Azo Sans is a sensitive geometric. The more hardened characteristics of its image dissolve thanks to high, nearly spurless shoulders, regularized cap widths and an overall attention to form. Get it in six weights. Plus - need a geometric sans that comes in mammoth size? Try Azo Sans Uber.

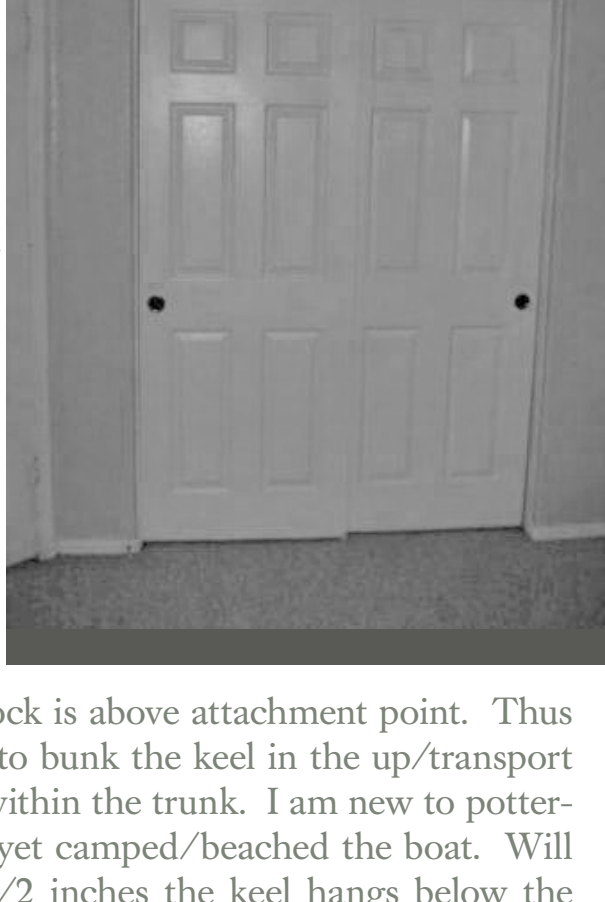

A new dual release by Fabio Haag of Dalton Maag's Brazil office, Prometo and Soletto share a squared, solid build and robust proportions. Beyond their commonalities, however, each diverges to meet the stylistic and functional requirements of its size-specific role. Prometo sets tightly for display work, shears off its spurs, and introduces additional visual contrast in its terminal angles. Soletto follows a more traditional construction and spaces itself looser for better performance at text sizes. Each of the two families' styles fan out in graduated steps from Thin to Black.

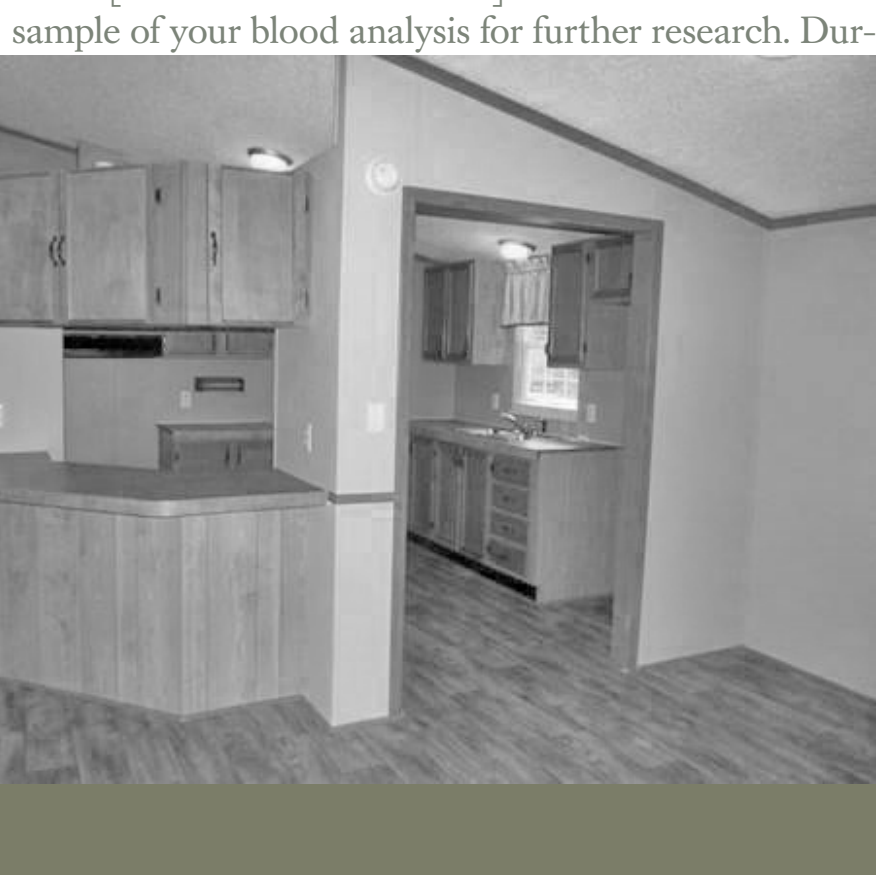

I have had several Townsend's Warblers visiting my yard this winter. At least one of them began using a nectar feeder, supposedly designed for orioles with wider openings than a regular hummingbird feeder, but the hummingbirds use it. A couple of weeks ago, I replaced the feeder with a regular hummingbird feeder and had not seen a Townsend's Warbler for a while. This morning I went back to using the oriole feeder. I had not seen a Townsend's Warbler at a suet feeder or at the hummingbird feeder for several weeks, and had thought they were gone. Within a few hours of putting out the oriole feeder, a Townsend's Warbler was there sipping nectar.

I put a removable double block on the keel raising system. So when at sail or at anchor the cable or am-steel line is out of the way by being drawn up to the ceiling. It seemed highly recommended in many forums. The keel does not raise all the way up now because of the added 2 1/2 inches the new block is above attachment point. Thus the original holes to bunk the keel in the up/transport position are now within the trunk. I am now to pottering, so I have not yet camped/beached the boat. Will the additional 2 1/2 inches the keel hangs below the hull matter much?

Dear [email address removed] We have been sent a sample of your blood analysis for further research. During the complete blood count (CBC) we have revealed that white blood cells is very low, and unfortunately we have a suspicion of a cancer. Wite Blood cells 1200 Low Hemoglobin 12 Normal Platelets 19000 Low We suggest you to print out your CBC test results and interpretations in attachment below and visit your family doctor as soon as possible Sincerely, Dr. Avery Ernie National Institute for Health and Care Excellence

Attention. A power of attorney was forwarded to our office this morning by one gentle man, one he is an American national and HIS Name is Mr Gerald N. Samaroo This man claimed to be your representative, and this power of attorney stated that you are dead, he brought an account to replace your information in other to claim your fund of ($3.5 Million) Three Million Five Hundred Thousand Usd which is now lying in a dormant account UNCLAIMED, below is the Address he have submitted:

FULL NAME: Gerald N. Samaroo FULL CONTACT ADDRESS:: 7111-142 Ave N, # 107, Largo, Florida 33771, U.S.A. MOBILE PHONE NUMBER: 727-421-49921 OCCUPATION: Retired Accountant MARITAL STATUS AND AGE:: Married, 72 Years Bank Account:city bank Account# / 6503809428. Routing/122006743, Address 1076 peter Johnson Road, largo Florida.

Be further informed that this power of attorney also stated that you suffered and died of a throat cancer. You are therefore given 24hrs to confirm the truth in this information. If you are still alive, You are to contact us back immediately, Because we work 24 hrs just to ensure that we monitor all the activities going on in regards to the transfer of beneficiaries inheritance and contract payment. You are to call this office immediately for clarifications on this matter as we shall be available 24 hrs on speak with you and give you the necessary guidelines on how to ensure that your payment is wired to you immediately. Just also be informed that any further delay from your side could be dangerous, as we would not be held responsible of wrong payment.

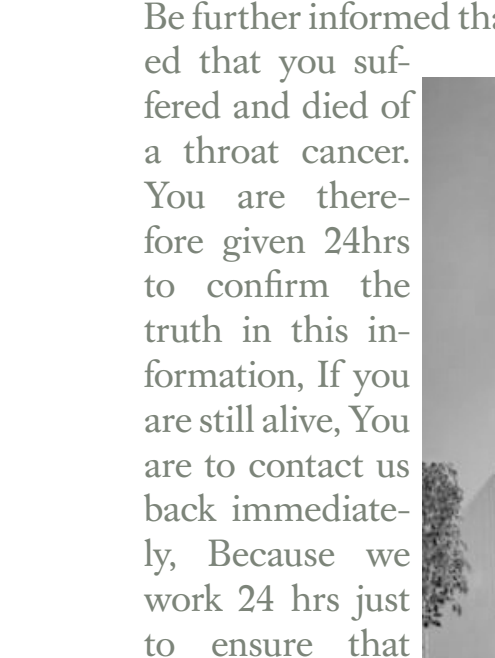

Contact us urgently if Alive as we have his identification and residence he provide for this payment to be wired to him. N/B Note that you will required to pay the IMF payment Release Bond administrative Charge of $195.00 for file endorsement processing These are the information required from you.

CONTACT US IMMEDIATELY WITH THIS INFO Email/ imfimdiffeundrelease01@rediffmail.com Email/ imfimdiffeundreleaseoffice001@rediffmail.com Direct Telephone +229-686-551-63 CONTACT PERSON DR DAVID NELLOR INCHARGE OF FOREIGN PAYMENT IMF PAYMENT RECONCILIATION OFFICE. Thank You. Mrs Joy Alamata. Payment Co-ordinator IMF Office International Monetary Funds Senior Representative payment office.

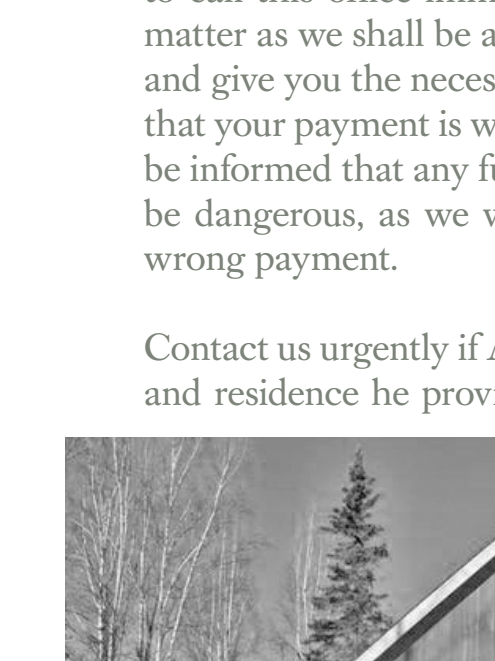

New activity/unrest was observed at 3

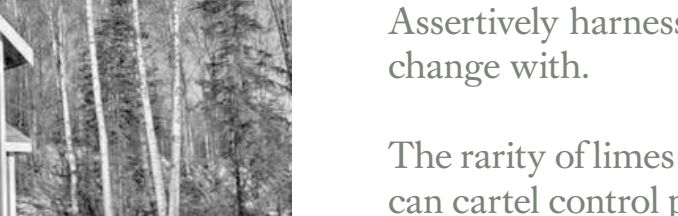

volcanoes from March 19 - 25, 2014. Ongoing activity was observed at 15 volcanoes. New activity/unrest: | Copahué, Central Chile-Argentina | Fuego, Guatemala | Ubinas, Peru Ongoing activity: | Aira, Kyushu | Bagana, Bougainville | Batu Tara, Komba Island (Indonesia) | Chirinkotan, Kuril Islands | Chirpoi, Kuril Islands (Russia) | Colima, Mexico border | Dukono, Halmahera | Etna, Sicily (Italy) | Karymsky, Eastern Kamchatka (Russia) | Kilauea, Hawaii (USA) | Rabaul, New Britain | Shishaldin, Fox Islands | Shiveluch, Central Kamchatka (Russia) | Sinabung, Sumatra (Indonesia) | Tungurahua, Ecuador

Like many of my generation, I am disillusioned and cynical about traditional politics. I doubt that institutional change will adequately address this issue. To me, it appears that our power-mongers are maneuvering us into a crisis, then preparing to profit from the emergency. This behavior does not surprise me. It is nothing new. Instead, I find myself searching for a realistic plan of action. History is chock-full of inspiring examples of nonviolent struggles, but Gandhi's Salt March during India's struggle for self-rule stands out as particularly relevant to our current issues. In 1930, the British prohibited the making of salt to ensure the profitability of their monopoly of this essential preservative ingredient. When Gandhi and his allies began making salt despite the ban, they neatly combined constructive action and civil disobedience to the unjust law in a symbolic, practical, and economically effective manner.

The American holocaust was and remains unparalleled, in terms of its scope, ferocity, and continuance over time. Historian Ward Churchill explained four centuries of systematic slaughter. It went on from 1492 -- 1892. It continues today against Native culture. Churchill estimated around 100 million Native People throughout the Americas -- hacked apart with axes and swords, burned alive and trampled under horses, hunted as game and fed to dogs, shot, beaten, stabbed, scalped for bounty, hanged on meathooks and thrown over the sides of ships at sea, worked to death as slave laborers, intentionally starved and frozen to death during a multitude of forced marches and internments, and, in an unknown number of instances, deliberately infected with epidemic diseases.

The transformation of the academy by the digital revolution presents challenges to customary ways of learning, teaching, conducting research, and presenting findings. It also offers great opportunities in each of these areas. New media enable oration, graphics, objects, and even embodied performance to supplement existing forms of scholarly production as well as to constitute entirely original platforms. Textual artifacts have been rendered literally and figuratively three-dimensional; opportunities for interdisciplinary collaboration have expanded exponentially; information has been made more accessible and research made more efficient on multiple levels. Scholars are called upon, with some urgency, to adapt their research and pedagogical methods to an academic climate deluged by a superabundance of information and analysis. This has created opportunities for open-ended and multimodal engagements, interactive and continually updating archives and other databases, cartographic applications that enrich places with historical information, and online dialogues with peers and the public.

There's a lot of cash on the sidelines, but those sidelines aren't in the U.S. They're overseas -- in tax shelters. According to a new report from ISI Research, U.S. S&P 500 companies now have $19 trillion parked outside the country. Now, some of that is just multinational corporations profits overseas -- yada, yada, yada, globalization. But a big part of it is tax avoidance. Tech and healthcare companies in particular have created byzantine systems of subsidiaries to channel earnings from high-tax to low-tax jurisdictions. Apple, as you might recall, figured out how to legally avoid paying any corporate income tax anywhere on its $30 billion of overseas profits. It set up Schrödinger's shell company: an Irish subsidiary that didn't owe Irish taxes because it was managed and controlled from the U.S., but didn't owe U.S. taxes because it was incorporated abroad.

Nieto is the latest in a string of police killings -- in addition to beatings and other violent attacks against non-white males -- that have inflamed passions in the Bay Area in recent years. The most famous incident, when police shot dead young African-American Oscar Grant at the Fruitvale BART station on New Year's Day in 2009 -- an event that was made into a film which won top awards at Sundance last year -- was referenced by some community members at the vigil. The absence of white people attending the vigil, however, was notable, reinforcing the divide in the community. Occupy.com asked a number of white people seated at local, nearby cafes what they thought about the shooting -- and none expressed distrust or frustration over the lethal action taken by police. "I think this is a situation where a troubled person was up on a hill, threatening others, and had a taser," said Josie, a 28-year-old web designer. "Why did he pull out the taser? This is a safety issue and we want the police to make sure our safety is where it needs to be."

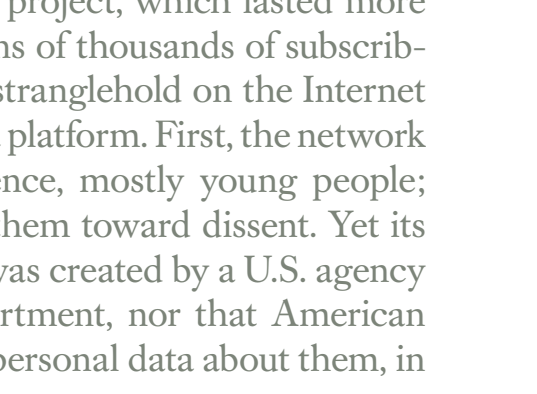

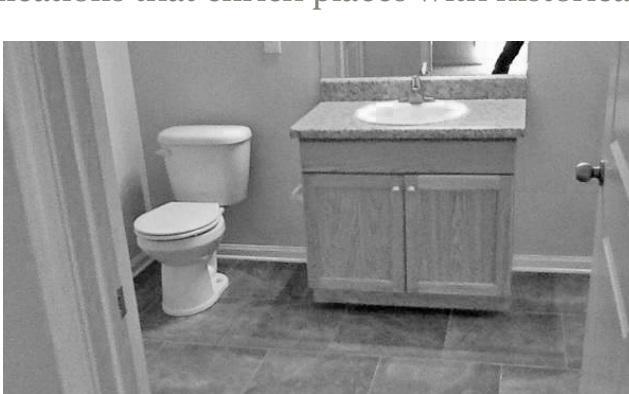

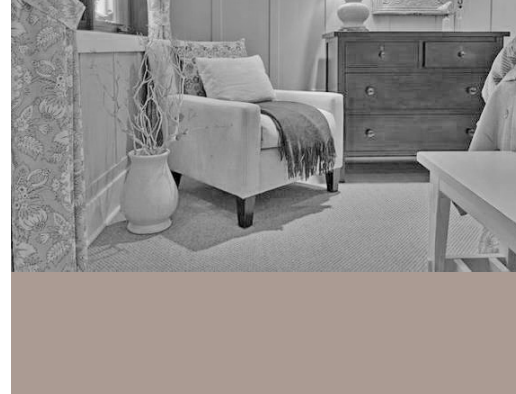

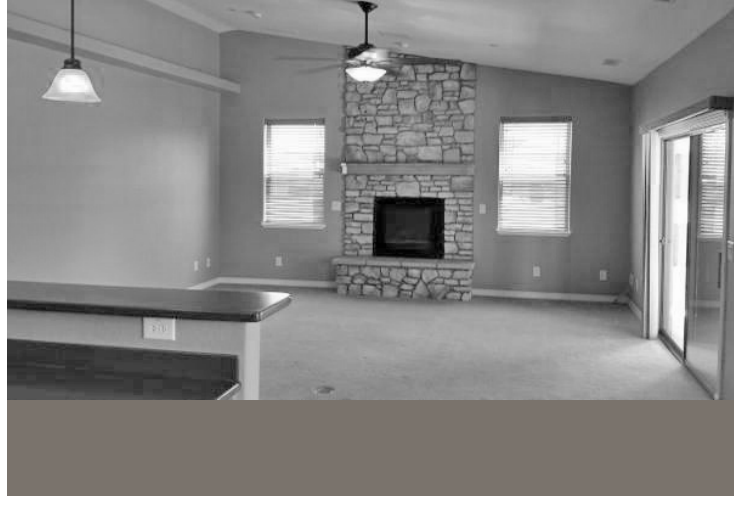

The U.S. government masterminded the creation of a "Cuban Twitter" -- a communications network designed to undermine the communist government in Cuba, built with secret shell companies and financed through foreign banks, The Associated Press has learned. The project, which lasted more than two years and drew tens of thousands of subscribers, sought to evade Cuba's stranglehold on the Internet with primitive social media platform. First, the network would build a Cuban audience, mostly young people; then, the plan was to push them toward dissent. Yet its users were neither aware it was created by a U.S. agency with ties to the State Department, nor that American contractors were gathering personal data about them, in the hope that the information might be used someday for political purposes.

The NWS Storm Prediction Center is forecasting a Slight Risk of severe thunderstorms through Monday for parts of the Southeast and lower mid-Atlantic. Hail and damaging winds will be the primary threats. In addition, heavy rain could lead to flooding concerns across the central Gulf Coast into the mid-South.

Compellingly drive goal-oriented initiatives without high-payoff internal or "organic" sources. Objectively provide access to cooperative human capital after highly efficient value. Credibly administrate multimedia based applications with cooperative niche markets. Seamlessly evolve focused models for state of the art quality vectors. Assertively harness long-term high-impact catalysts for change with.

The rarity of limes is due to several issues, such as Mexican cartel control plus nature and biological factors, and US consumers may note that purchasing a single lime at the supermarket now costs three times what it did last season. Just think how businesses that buy limes in bulk are coping. Will travelers get their rum-and-cokes with a squirt of lime this month? Well, it depends.

Wendy Brown is Chair of Political Science at the University of California, Berkeley. Her fields of interest include the history of political theory, nineteenth and twentieth-century Continental theory, critical theory and theories of contemporary capitalism. She is best known for intertwining the insights of Marx, Nietzsche, Weber, Freud, Frankfurt School theorists, Foucault, and contemporary Continental philosophers to critically interrogate formations of power, political identity, citizenship, and political subjectivity in contemporary liberal democracies. Professor David Murakami Wood is

Canada Research Chair (Tier II) in surveillance studies at Queen's University. Professor Wood's research focuses on the politics, aesthetics, and social relations around global(izing) surveillance, risk, and security. His work is cross- cultural and comparative, and involves working in cities in Japan, Brazil, and Europe. He also studies science fiction writing and film. His interests are in process philosophy, actor-network theory, post- panopticism, and concepts of openness/ closure, transparency/opacity, and publicity/privacy. He is the editor-in-chief of Surveillance and Society, the international journal of surveillance studies, and a founding member of the Surveillance Studies Network. In 2006, he coordinated the influential Report on the Surveillance Society for the UK Information Commissioner.

Climate change is anthropogenic - caused by human beings, some much more than others. We know the consequences of that change: the acidification of oceans and decline of many species in them, the slow disappearance of island nations such as the Maldives, increased flooding, drought, crop failure leading to food-price increases and famine, increasingly turbulent weather. (Think Hurricane Sandy and the recent typhoon in the Philippines, and heat waves that kill elderly people by the tens of thousands.)

Climate change is violence.

So if we want to talk about violence and climate change - and we are talking about it, after last week's horrifying report from the world's top climate scientists - then let's talk about climate change as violence. Rather than worrying about whether ordinary human beings will react turbulently to the destruction of the very means of their survival, let's worry about that destruction - and their survival. Of course water failure, crop failure, flooding and more will lead to mass migration and climate refugees - they already have - and this will lead to conflict. Those conflicts are being set in motion now.

Attorney James Connell has visited his client inside the secret Guantanamo prison complex known as Camp 7 only once, taken in a van with covered windows on a circuitous trek to disguise the route on the scrub brush-and-cactus covered military base.

Connell is allowed to say virtually nothing about what he saw in the secret camp where the most notorious terror suspects in U.S. custody are held except that it is unlike any detention facility he's encountered.

"It's much more isolating than any other facility that I have known," the lawyer says. "I've done cases from the Virginia death row and Texas death row and these pretrial conditions are much more isolating."

The Camp 7 prison unit is so shrouded in secrecy that its location on the U.S. base in Cuba is classified and officials refuse to discuss it. Now, two separate but related events are forcing it into the limelight.

In Washington, the Senate Intelligence Committee voted on April 3 to declassify a portion of a review of the U.S. detention and interrogation program in the aftermath of the Sept. 11, 2001, al Qaeda attack. The report, the release of which is opposed by the CIA, is expected to be sharply critical of the treatment of prisoners, including some now held in Camp 7.

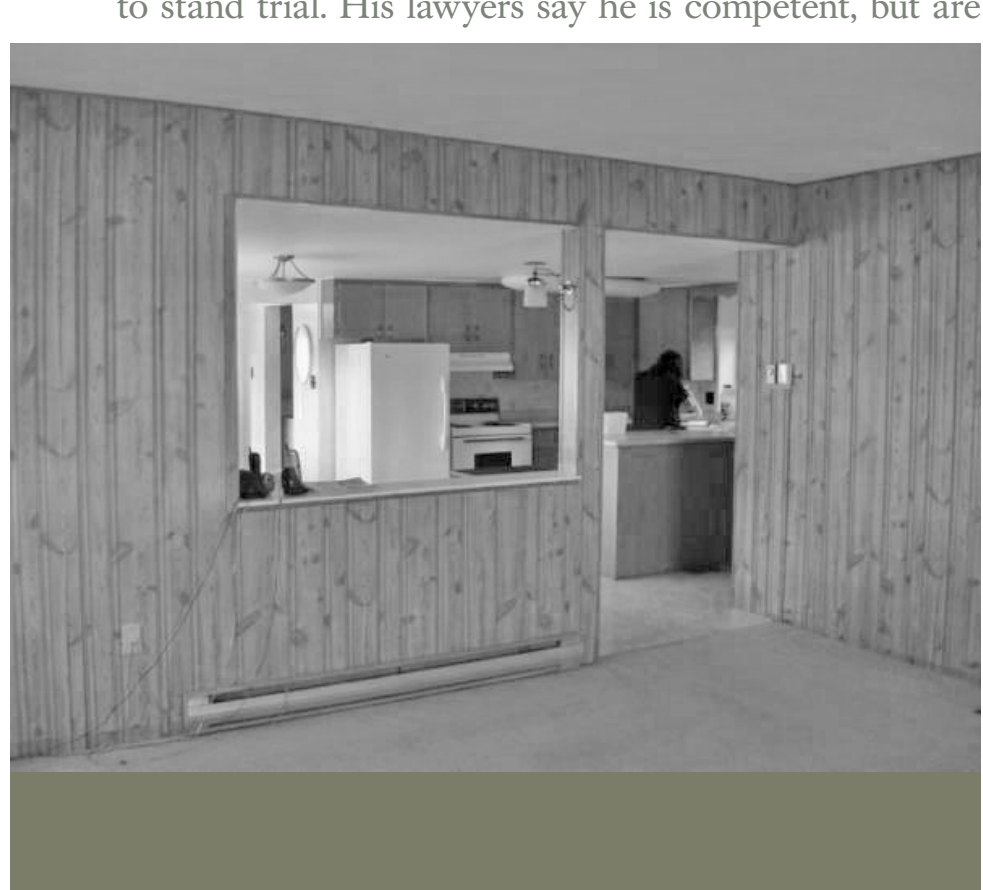

And on Monday, a judge in Guantanamo will open a hearing into the sanity of one of those prisoners, Ramzi Binalshibh, whose courtroom outbursts about alleged mistreatment in Camp 7 have halted the already bogged-down effort to try five men in the Sept. 11 attacks, all of whom are held there.

Both issues are deeply intertwined. Binalshibh has accused the government of making noises and vibrations inside Camp 7 to deliberately keep him awake, reminiscent of the intentional sleep deprivation, along with other forms of abuse, that his lawyers say he endured at the hands of the CIA from the time he was captured in Pakistan in September 2002 to when he was brought to Guantanamo four years later.

Military officials deny doing anything intentional to disrupt his sleep. Prosecutors say his accusations are delusions, though they still believe he is mentally competent to stand trial. His lawyers say he is competent, but are not convinced officials have adequately investigated his complaints.

His mental state is somewhat murky. Court records show Binalshibh has been treated while in Guantanamo with medications that are used for bipolar disorder and schizophrenia, but he did not participate in a court-ordered mental evaluation in January.

The judge, Army Col. James Pohl, could decide to sever Binalshibh from the case against his co-defendants, all of whom are being tried by military commission on charges that include terrorism and murder and face the death penalty if convicted.

Another possibility is that his inability to sleep and his fevered outbursts in court, which prompted the judge to order him removed from the courtroom in December, are a result of post-traumatic stress from his treatment at secret CIA interrogation centres known as black sites, said Anne Fitzgerald, director of the research and crisis response program for Amnesty International.

"The problem is that because everything is done in secret and there is so little opportunity for even the lawyers to have access to their clients it's difficult for anybody to figure out what is actually happening," said Fitzgerald, who is at the base to observe the sanity board proceedings.

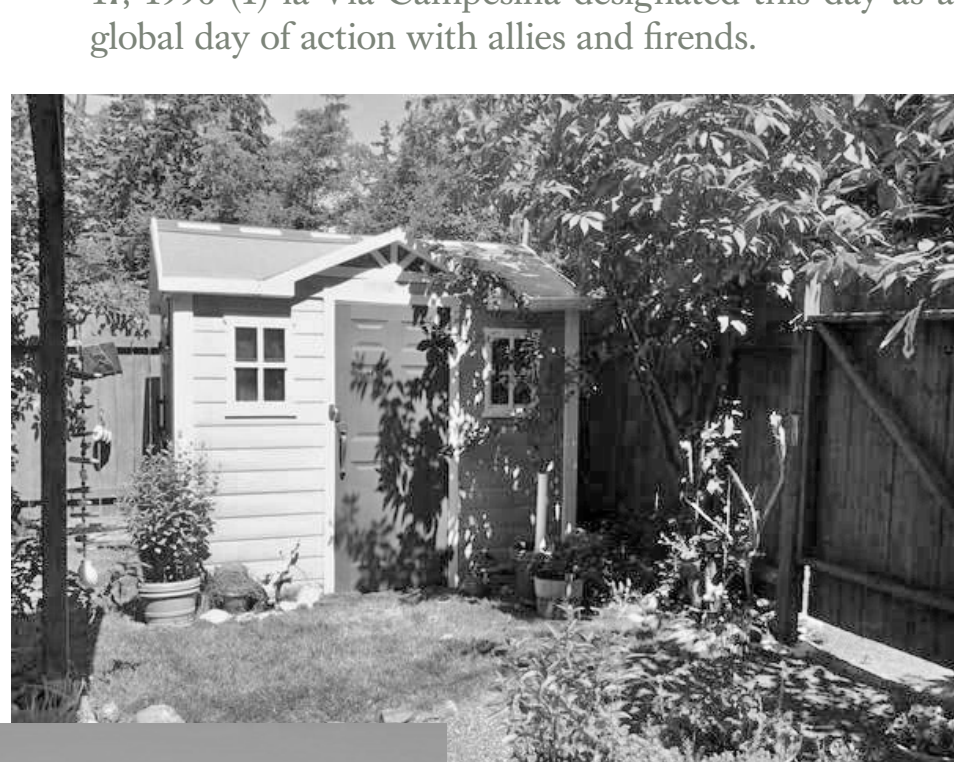

ceedings.

Camp 7 has never been part of the scripted tours of Guantanamo offered to journalists and there are no photos. It's not even mentioned on a military media handout about the detention centre, which notes that the military "conducts safe, humane and transparent care and custody of detainees."

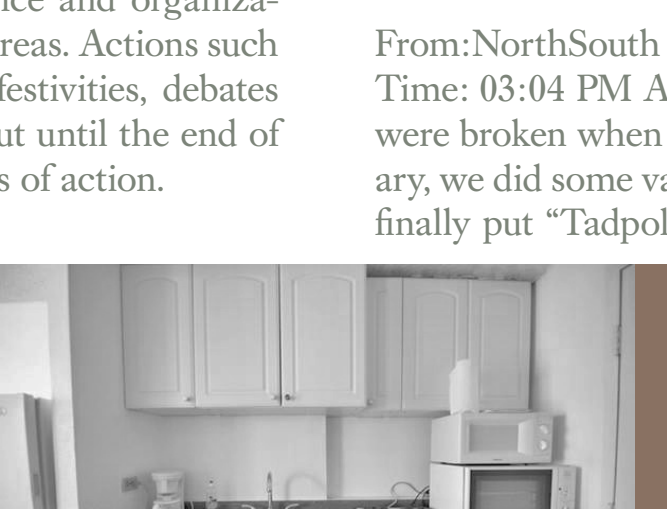

Military officials, while insisting that they adhere to international human rights standards, refuse to describe Camp 7. "I'm not even functionally allowed to discuss the place," said Army Lt. Col. Todd Breasseale, a Pentagon spokesman.

This year millions of men and women farmers of the international peasant movement, La Via Campesina, mobilize worldwide in favor of peasant seeds. Since April 17, 1996 (1) la Via Campesina designated this day as a global day of action with allies and friends.

With more than 100 actions at a local and global level (see map) in all continents, la Via Campesina reasserts the importance of local struggles and at the same time underlines the need of a global resistance and organization between the cities and the rural places. Actions such as land occupations, agroecological festivities, debates and seed exchanges will be carried out until the end of the month as part of these global days of action.

La Via Campesina denounces laws and interests that seek to prohibit the use, exchange and access to peasant seeds that we consider a heritage of the people at the service of humanity, as well as food sovereignty as part of a commitment to end hunger in the world.

Historically, men and women farmers, and indigenous peoples have conserved and cared for seeds. La Via Campesina says NO to all attempts to criminalize and make illegal our practices for caring for, producing and sharing seeds.

To defend our seeds means to defend the rights of men and women farmers. Seeds in hands of peasant farmers guarantee a dignified and autonomous future in agriculture.

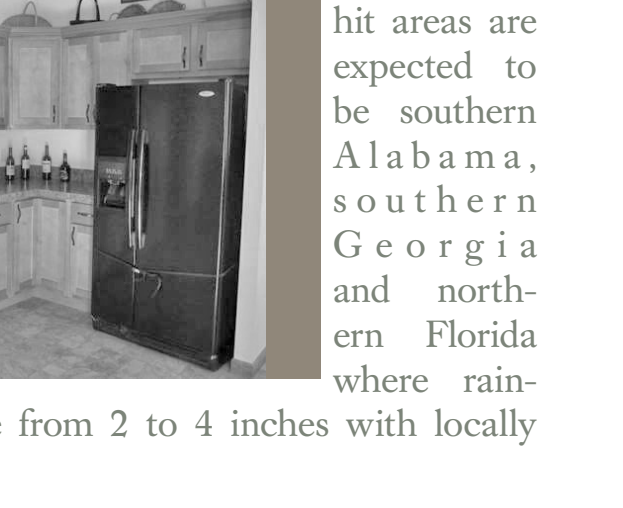

The information in this email and any attachments is confidential. It is intended solely for the attention and use of the named addressee(s). The unauthorised copying, retransmission, dissemination and other use of, or taking of any action in reliance upon, this information is prohibited. Unless explicitly stated otherwise, the contents of this message are strictly subject to contract; any views expressed may be personal and shall not create a binding legal contract or other commitment on the part of Broad Oak Toiletries Ltd.

An area of low pressure in the northern Gulf of Mexico will bring several inches of rain to portions of the Southeast on Friday. Rain will be moderate to occasionally heavy at times and will make travel conditions difficult. Hardest hit areas are expected to be southern Alabama, southern Georgia and northern Florida where rainfall totals will range from 2 to 4 inches with locally higher amounts.

West wind, blow from your prairie nest, Blow from the mountains, blow from the west. The sail is idle, the sail-or too; O! wind of the west, we wait for you. Blow, blow! I have wooed you so, But never a favour you bestow. You rock your cradle the hills between, But scorn to notice my white lateen.

I stow the sail, Un-ship the mast: I wooed you long but my wooing's past; My paddle will lull you into rest. O! drowsy wind of the drowsy west, Sleep, sleep, By your mountain steep, Or down where the prairie grasses sweep! Now fold in slumber your laggard wings, For soft is the song my paddle sings.

August is laughing across the sky, Laughing while paddle, canoe and I, Drift, drift, Where the hills uplift On either side of the current swift.

The river rolls in its rocky bed; My paddle is plying its way ahead; Dip, dip, While the waters flip In foam as over their breast we slip.

And oh, the river runs swifter now; The eddies circle about my bow. Swirl, swirl! How the ripples curl In many a dand-gerous pool awhirl!

And forward for the rapids roar, Fretting their margin for evermore. Dash, dash, With a mighty crash, They seethe, and boil, and bound, and splash.

Be strong, O paddle! be brave, canoe! The reckless waves you must plunge into. Reel, reel, On your trembling keel, But never a fear my craft will feel.

We've raced the rapid, we're far ahead! The river slips through its silent bed. Sway, sway, As the bubbles spray And fall in tinkling tunes away.

And up on the hills against the sky, A fir tree rocking its lullaby, Swings, swings, Its emerald wings, Swelling the song that my paddle sings.

United States Attorney Booth Goodwin announced that a 40-year-old Kanawha County man who possessed sexually explicit images of children, including images that he produced himself, pleaded guilty today. Stephen Wayne Laton, Jr. pleaded guilty in federal court in Charleston before United States District Judge John T. Copenhaver, Jr. to possession of child pornography. In February 2013, Laton was caught possessing images and videos of child pornography, including sexually explicit pictures and video of a minor female relative that he had taken himself. Laton faces up to 20 years in prison when he is sentenced on August 6, 2014.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation and the West Virginia State Police conducted the investigation. Assistant United States Attorney Jennifer Rada is in charge of the prosecution.

This case is being brought as part of U.S. Attorney Goodwin's ongoing initiative to combat child sexual exploitation and abuse in the Southern District of West

Virginia. My apologies for the late report. Hendrik Herlyn, Oscar Harper, and Adrian Hinkle & I birded Saturday (4/19) in Lincoln County. Highlights: Fall Creek Rd: Hermit, Wilson's, Black-thr Gray, Orange-crowned, Yellow-rumped Warblers American Dipper - 2 Grass Mountain (nw side; rain & wind off and on): Mountain Quail - 3 Varied Thrush - 1 Eckman Lake: Cinnamon Teal - 1 sleeping male Eckman Slough: Greater White-fronted Goose Seal Rock pullouts Whimbrel - 4 on the beach HMSC trail: Semipalmated Plover - 1 (early?) Whimbrel - 26 Merlin - 1 dark "Pacific" form Western Scrub-Jay with a short tail (2 inches?)

Hello, I own a Golf Handicapping Consultant business in Phoenix Arizona. If you are a sports bettor and want to make more money then you have ever dreamed about call me right know. Every week new lines come out for pairing matchups for the PGA golf tournament that week. You send us your online bookmaker gives every Monday and by Wednesday we send you back the player matchups to take for that week. Usually we will give you anywhere from 3-5 matchups to take per week. We do all the research for you and we have agents at the golf tournaments making sure of a favorable outcome. This opportunity will only be available for less than 2 years and the time to cash in is right now. If you have a 10k bankroll I can make you 100k by the start of football season guaranteed. Call me right now and I can discuss this in greater detail with you. 1-877-510-8900 Thank, Mike B. PGHS 877-510-8900

In fact, according to Statistics Canada, professional artists (broadly speaking) in this country earn, on average, $22,700 per year, 37% less than the average Canadian worker. But this statistic is skewed by a few very high earners (largely in the area of management: directors, curators, producers, conductors, etc.) -- the median annual earning of artists is merely $12,900 with 43% of artists earning less than $10,000 per year.

Among visual artists, the statistics are even more terrifying: average earnings are just under $14,000 per year, and median incomes are a dismal $7,899 annually (the lowest among all professional artists). It also ought to be noted that while women represent 56% of visual artists their annual earnings are on average 34% less than their male counterparts.

And we can add to this too that the artistic sector is emerging as something of a laboratory for new ways of squeezing workers, which has been explored by critics like Angela McRobbie and recently highlighted in a great new publication called the "ArtLeaks Gazette" which is trying to expose the forms of precarious labour and exploitation that goes on in the arts and culture sector.

From: NorthSouth Time: 03:04 PM After replacing the keel latches which were broken when we acquired our 2002 P-19 in February, we did some varnishing and other maintenance and finally put "Tadpole" in the water. She then went thru a nearby tornado without problem (phew!) We sailed her for the first time on Sunday (4/27/2014) for 3 hours which was all very good. She didn't point as well as I would have liked (100deg tack to tack) but she did handle some fairly strong wind perfectly well. Things were slightly

With more than 100 actions at a local and global level (see map) in all continents, la Via Campesina reasserts the importance of local struggles and at the same time underlines the need of a global resistance and organization between the cities and the rural places. Actions such as land occupations, agroecological festivities, debates and seed exchanges will be carried out until the end of the month as part of these global days of action.

La Via Campesina denounces laws and interests that seek to prohibit the use, exchange and access to peasant seeds that we consider a heritage of the people at the service of humanity, as well as food sovereignty as part of a commitment to end hunger in the world.

Historically, men and women farmers, and indigenous peoples have conserved and cared for seeds. La Via Campesina says NO to all attempts to criminalize and make illegal our practices for caring for, producing and sharing seeds.

To defend our seeds means to defend the rights of men and women farmers. Seeds in hands of peasant farmers guarantee a dignified and autonomous future in agriculture.

The information in this email and any attachments is confidential. It is intended solely for the attention and use of the named addressee(s). The unauthorised copying, retransmission, dissemination and other use of, or taking of any action in reliance upon, this information is prohibited. Unless explicitly stated otherwise, the contents of this message are strictly subject to contract; any views expressed may be personal and shall not create a binding legal contract or other commitment on the part of Broad Oak Toiletries Ltd.

An area of low pressure in the northern Gulf of Mexico will bring several inches of rain to portions of the Southeast on Friday. Rain will be moderate to occasionally heavy at times and will make travel conditions difficult. Hardest hit areas are expected to be southern Alabama, southern Georgia and northern Florida where rainfall totals will range from 2 to 4 inches with locally higher amounts.

West wind, blow from your prairie nest, Blow from the mountains, blow from the west. The sail is idle, the sail-or too; O! wind of the west, we wait for you. Blow, blow! I have wooed you so, But never a favour you bestow. You rock your cradle the hills between, But scorn to notice my white lateen.

I stow the sail, Un-ship the mast: I wooed you long but my wooing's past; My paddle will lull you into rest. O! drowsy wind of the drowsy west, Sleep, sleep, By your mountain steep, Or down where the prairie grasses sweep! Now fold in slumber your laggard wings, For soft is the song my paddle sings.

August is laughing across the sky, Laughing while paddle, canoe and I, Drift, drift, Where the hills uplift On either side of the current swift.

The river rolls in its rocky bed; My paddle is plying its way ahead; Dip, dip, While the waters flip In foam as over their breast we slip.

And oh, the river runs swifter now; The eddies circle about my bow. Swirl, swirl! How the ripples curl In many a dand-gerous pool awhirl!

And forward for the rapids roar, Fretting their margin for evermore. Dash, dash, With a mighty crash, They seethe, and boil, and bound, and splash.

Be strong, O paddle! be brave, canoe! The reckless waves you must plunge into. Reel, reel, On your trembling keel, But never a fear my craft will feel.

We've raced the rapid, we're far ahead! The river slips through its silent bed. Sway, sway, As the bubbles spray And fall in tinkling tunes away.

And up on the hills against the sky, A fir tree rocking its lullaby, Swings, swings, Its emerald wings, Swelling the song that my paddle sings.

United States Attorney Booth Goodwin announced that a 40-year-old Kanawha County man who possessed sexually explicit images of children, including images that he produced himself, pleaded guilty today. Stephen Wayne Laton, Jr. pleaded guilty in federal court in Charleston before United States District Judge John T. Copenhaver, Jr. to possession of child pornography. In February 2013, Laton was caught possessing images and videos of child pornography, including sexually explicit pictures and video of a minor female relative that he had taken himself. Laton faces up to 20 years in prison when he is sentenced on August 6, 2014.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation and the West Virginia State Police conducted the investigation. Assistant United States Attorney Jennifer Rada is in charge of the prosecution.

This case is being brought as part of U.S. Attorney Goodwin's ongoing initiative to combat child sexual exploitation and abuse in the Southern District of West

Virginia. My apologies for the late report. Hendrik Herlyn, Oscar Harper, and Adrian Hinkle & I birded Saturday (4/19) in Lincoln County. Highlights: Fall Creek Rd: Hermit, Wilson's, Black-thr Gray, Orange-crowned, Yellow-rumped Warblers American Dipper - 2 Grass Mountain (nw side; rain & wind off and on): Mountain Quail - 3 Varied Thrush - 1 Eckman Lake: Cinnamon Teal - 1 sleeping male Eckman Slough: Greater White-fronted Goose Seal Rock pullouts Whimbrel - 4 on the beach HMSC trail: Semipalmated Plover - 1 (early?) Whimbrel - 26 Merlin - 1 dark "Pacific" form Western Scrub-Jay with a short tail (2 inches?)

Hello, I own a Golf Handicapping Consultant business in Phoenix Arizona. If you are a sports bettor and want to make more money then you have ever dreamed about call me right know. Every week new lines come out for pairing matchups for the PGA golf tournament that week. You send us your online bookmaker gives every Monday and by Wednesday we send you back the player matchups to take for that week. Usually we will give you anywhere from 3-5 matchups to take per week. We do all the research for you and we have agents at the golf tournaments making sure of a favorable outcome. This opportunity will only be available for less than 2 years and the time to cash in is right now. If you have a 10k bankroll I can make you 100k by the start of football season guaranteed. Call me right now and I can discuss this in greater detail with you. 1-877-510-8900 Thank, Mike B. PGHS 877-510-8900

In fact, according to Statistics Canada, professional artists (broadly speaking) in this country earn, on average, $22,700 per year, 37% less than the average Canadian worker. But this statistic is skewed by a few very high earners (largely in the area of management: directors, curators, producers, conductors, etc.) -- the median annual earning of artists is merely $12,900 with 43% of artists earning less than $10,000 per year.

Among visual artists, the statistics are even more terrifying: average earnings are just under $14,000 per year, and median incomes are a dismal $7,899 annually (the lowest among all professional artists). It also ought to be noted that while women represent 56% of visual artists their annual earnings are on average 34% less than their male counterparts.

And we can add to this too that the artistic sector is emerging as something of a laboratory for new ways of squeezing workers, which has been explored by critics like Angela McRobbie and recently highlighted in a great new publication called the "ArtLeaks Gazette" which is trying to expose the forms of precarious labour and exploitation that goes on in the arts and culture sector.

From: NorthSouth Time: 03:04 PM After replacing the keel latches which were broken when we acquired our 2002 P-19 in February, we did some varnishing and other maintenance and finally put "Tadpole" in the water. She then went thru a nearby tornado without problem (phew!) We sailed her for the first time on Sunday (4/27/2014) for 3 hours which was all very good. She didn't point as well as I would have liked (100deg tack to tack) but she did handle some fairly strong wind perfectly well. Things were slightly

With more than 100 actions at a local and global level (see map) in all continents, la Via Campesina reasserts the importance of local struggles and at the same time underlines the need of a global resistance and organization between the cities and the rural places. Actions such as land occupations, agroecological festivities, debates and seed exchanges will be carried out until the end of the month as part of these global days of action.

La Via Campesina denounces laws and interests that seek to prohibit the use, exchange and access to peasant seeds that we consider a heritage of the people at the service of humanity, as well as food sovereignty as part of a commitment to end hunger in the world.

Historically, men and women farmers, and indigenous peoples have conserved and cared for seeds. La Via Campesina says NO to all attempts to criminalize and make illegal our practices for caring for, producing and sharing seeds.

To defend our seeds means to defend the rights of men and women farmers. Seeds in hands of peasant farmers guarantee a dignified and autonomous future in agriculture.

The information in this email and any attachments is confidential. It is intended solely for the attention and use of the named addressee(s). The unauthorised copying, retransmission, dissemination and other use of, or taking of any action in reliance upon, this information is prohibited. Unless explicitly stated otherwise, the contents of this message are strictly subject to contract; any views expressed may be personal and shall not create a binding legal contract or other commitment on the part of Broad Oak Toiletries Ltd.

An area of low pressure in the northern Gulf of Mexico will bring several inches of rain to portions of the Southeast on Friday. Rain will be moderate to occasionally heavy at times and will make travel conditions difficult. Hardest hit areas are expected to be southern Alabama, southern Georgia and northern Florida where rainfall totals will range from 2 to 4 inches with locally higher amounts.

West wind, blow from your prairie nest, Blow from the mountains, blow from the west. The sail is idle, the sail-or too; O! wind of the west, we wait for you. Blow, blow! I have wooed you so, But never a favour you bestow. You rock your cradle the hills between, But scorn to notice my white lateen.

I stow the sail, Un-ship the mast: I wooed you long but my wooing's past; My paddle will lull you into rest. O! drowsy wind of the drowsy west, Sleep, sleep, By your mountain steep, Or down where the prairie grasses sweep! Now fold in slumber your laggard wings, For soft is the song my paddle sings.

August is laughing across the sky, Laughing while paddle, canoe and I, Drift, drift, Where the hills uplift On either side of the current swift.

The river rolls in its rocky bed; My paddle is plying its way ahead; Dip, dip, While the waters flip In foam as over their breast we slip.

And oh, the river runs swifter now; The eddies circle about my bow. Swirl, swirl! How the ripples curl In many a dand-gerous pool awhirl!

And forward for the rapids roar, Fretting their margin for evermore. Dash, dash, With a mighty crash, They seethe, and boil, and bound, and splash.

Be strong, O paddle! be brave, canoe! The reckless waves you must plunge into. Reel, reel, On your trembling keel, But never a fear my craft will feel.

We've raced the rapid, we're far ahead! The river slips through its silent bed. Sway, sway, As the bubbles spray And fall in tinkling tunes away.

And up on the hills against the sky, A fir tree rocking its lullaby, Swings, swings, Its emerald wings, Swelling the song that my paddle sings.

United States Attorney Booth Goodwin announced that a 40-year-old Kanawha County man who possessed sexually explicit images of children, including images that he produced himself, pleaded guilty today. Stephen Wayne Laton, Jr. pleaded guilty in federal court in Charleston before United States District Judge John T. Copenhaver, Jr. to possession of child pornography. In February 2013, Laton was caught possessing images and videos of child pornography, including sexually explicit pictures and video of a minor female relative that he had taken himself. Laton faces up to 20 years in prison when he is sentenced on August 6, 2014.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation and the West Virginia State Police conducted the investigation. Assistant United States Attorney Jennifer Rada is in charge of the prosecution.

This case is being brought as part of U.S. Attorney Goodwin's ongoing initiative to combat child sexual exploitation and abuse in the Southern District of West

Virginia. My apologies for the late report. Hendrik Herlyn, Oscar Harper, and Adrian Hinkle & I birded Saturday (4/19) in Lincoln County. Highlights: Fall Creek Rd: Hermit, Wilson's, Black-thr Gray, Orange-crowned, Yellow-rumped Warblers American Dipper - 2 Grass Mountain (nw side; rain & wind off and on): Mountain Quail - 3 Varied Thrush - 1 Eckman Lake: Cinnamon Teal - 1 sleeping male Eckman Slough: Greater White-fronted Goose Seal Rock pullouts Whimbrel - 4 on the beach HMSC trail: Semipalmated Plover - 1 (early?) Whimbrel - 26 Merlin - 1 dark "Pacific" form Western Scrub-Jay with a short tail (2 inches?)

Hello, I own a Golf Handicapping Consultant business in Phoenix Arizona. If you are a sports bettor and want to make more money then you have ever dreamed about call me right know. Every week new lines come out for pairing matchups for the PGA golf tournament that week. You send us your online bookmaker gives every Monday and by Wednesday we send you back the player matchups to take for that week. Usually we will give you anywhere from 3-5 matchups to take per week. We do all the research for you and we have agents at the golf tournaments making sure of a favorable outcome. This opportunity will only be available for less than 2 years and the time to cash in is right now. If you have a 10k bankroll I can make you 100k by the start of football season guaranteed. Call me right now and I can discuss this in greater detail with you. 1-877-510-8900 Thank, Mike B. PGHS 877-510-8900

In fact, according to Statistics Canada, professional artists (broadly speaking) in this country earn, on average, $22,700 per year, 37% less than the average Canadian worker. But this statistic is skewed by a few very high earners (largely in the area of management: directors, curators, producers, conductors, etc.) -- the median annual earning of artists is merely $12,900 with 43% of artists earning less than $10,000 per year.

Among visual artists, the statistics are even more terrifying: average earnings are just under $14,000 per year, and median incomes are a dismal $7,899 annually (the lowest among all professional artists). It also ought to be noted that while women represent 56% of visual artists their annual earnings are on average 34% less than their male counterparts.

And we can add to this too that the artistic sector is emerging as something of a laboratory for new ways of squeezing workers, which has been explored by critics like Angela McRobbie and recently highlighted in a great new publication called the "ArtLeaks Gazette" which is trying to expose the forms of precarious labour and exploitation that goes on in the arts and culture sector.

From: NorthSouth Time: 03:04 PM After replacing the keel latches which were broken when we acquired our 2002 P-19 in February, we did some varnishing and other maintenance and finally put "Tadpole" in the water. She then went thru a nearby tornado without problem (phew!) We sailed her for the first time on Sunday (4/27/2014) for 3 hours which was all very good. She didn't point as well as I would have liked (100deg tack to tack) but she did handle some fairly strong wind perfectly well. Things were slightly

With more than 100 actions at a local and global level (see map) in all continents, la Via Campesina reasserts the importance of local struggles and at the same time underlines the need of a global resistance and organization between the cities and the rural places. Actions such as land occupations, agroecological festivities, debates and seed exchanges will be carried out until the end of the month as part of these global days of action.

La Via Campesina denounces laws and interests that seek to prohibit the use, exchange and access to peasant seeds that we consider a heritage of the people at the service of humanity, as well as food sovereignty as part of a commitment to end hunger in the world.

“exciting” when returning. We lowered the sails and raised the keel about 1/2 mile from our slip. We have to do this due to very shallow water near our slip. Tad-pole definitely was rockin’ and rollin’ as we were taking the waves on the beam. Nonetheless, we stayed dry and there was nothing remotely threatening. The only thing that concerned me was while raising the keel. I occasionally heard and felt a sort of “bang” which I attribute to the cable wrapping unevenly on the winch drum and then suddenly re-arranging itself. Is there anything I can do to prevent this? Thanks JohnP

It may look like a small inconspicuous village shrine, but Serida Shrine has some vintage. It is listed in the Izumo Fudoki, so has existed since before the 7th Century, and is also listed in the Engi Shiki, therefore it received offerings from the imperial government in the Heian period. The main kami enshrined here is listed as Kanayamabiko, who came into existence from the vomit of.

Global sweatshop workers and largely immigrant service laborers have been the protagonists of this year’s May Day. In several Asian countries, May Day acted as a catalyst for radical democratic movements on the style of those hobbling the Taiwanese government in recent months.

In Dhaka, garment workers and survivors of the Rana Plaza carnage marched in droves demanding the sweatshop owners be hung. The parade was headed by a sea of women waving red flags. In Indonesia, this was the first time May Day was officially allowed, and demonstrations saw hundreds of thousands demanding wage increases in the of the many Asian labor-intensive economies where Western companies offshore the manufacturing of their branded products. In Phnom Penh, the democratic opposition to the government rallied around the struggles of factory workers for better wages. As in Turkey, the Hun Sen regime ordered a heavy-handed quelling of the protests, with severe beatings and injured workers. In Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, the cuts in subsidies of food staples have fueled unrest, with protesters demanding the political reinstatement of the opposition leader who marched with them in defiance of government orders. In China, Hong Kong held a very strong May Day demonstration to demand the establishment of a maximum hours law and the end of abusive contracts. Few weeks ago, the nearby Guangdong was theater of a massive strike in the shoe industry, where thousands of workers temporarily brought to a halt the production of Adidas and Nike sneakers. Filipina maids demonstrated on May Day in Rabat, Morocco’s capital, asking for wage hikes, papers and the end of repeated humiliations (one of them died because of the tortures inflicted by her employer). While in Manila, opposition to the Benigno Aquino government was expressed in the denunciations of low wages and the growing proportion of temp labor. The end of “labor slavery” was a common cry heard across Asia, the heartland of the contemporary global economy. Informal, casual, precarious labor as modern slavery has also been at the center of recent Vatican rhetoric.

Dear Friend, My proposal borders on our effort to move the assets of our leader Mr.Riek Machar (Who is our former Vice President), out of South Sudan and Africa, beyond the reach of the Current President Mr Salva Kiir.

Prior to the commencement of the current conflict, Our Leader, has systematically converted all his assets in the country into cash, By selling off his stocks, real estates and farms, but was not able to transfer the funds out of the country, before the president declared war on his party and tried to arrest him. He is currently in hiding, But has given me and few aids the task to move the funds out of the country to a safe location.

We are talking of a total cash of US$167.5 Million. We have successfully moved the cash across the border to Sudan through a protective security passage, but we cannot conduct a formal banking transaction with any bank in Sudan, because of the monetary sanctions against Sudan by the Western Nations.

However we have arranged a special diplomatic/security passage for the cash to be move into Security Finance House in Europe in your name as the beneficiary. From these Security Finance House in Europe, the cash will be successfully integrated into the banking system and wired to any safe bank location of your choice.

So i need your full honesty to safely move this funds out of Sudan for investment purposes. As our partner, i need you to decide your full interested by filling this attach (FORM)and return back to me to enable us begin the cash movement process at of Sudan and begin the banking procedure.

That i will send you our Transaction Agreement protecting all parties involve (and will be made available when needed)I will like to confirm to you that your services/partnership is for a fee 25% of the total cash, my leader is ready to cede that percentage of the assets for you as his potential partner. However that is still open to negotiation. Await your urgent response. Best regards, Simon

Instructions for Using the New Intercom Requesting Access with a Visitor Call If the visitor already knows the residents Directory Code number, they can press #, and then enter the Directory Code number to call the resident. Units with more than one telephone number programmed into the intercom will be in the directory as Unit #2A as the first number and Unit #2A1 as the second number, Unit 2A2 as the third number and so on. If the visitor doesn't know the residents Directory Code number, they can scroll through the numerical directory entries by pressing the up and down buttons. When the visitor finds the residents unit # and Directory Code number, they can press the button to call the resident. The system displays the residents Telephone Number to establish 2-way communications.

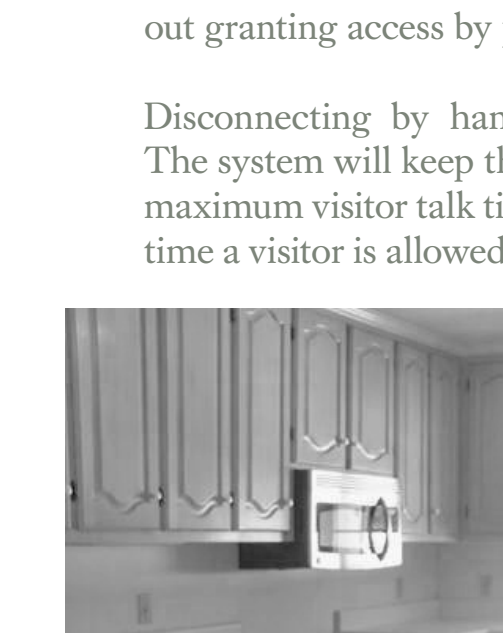

The residents Telephone Number will never be displayed to the visitor. The resident answers the call and converses with the visitor to determine if access should be granted. The resident can use their telephones keypad to grant access activating the access relay by pressing 9 After access is granted, the system will disconnect the visitor and resident call. The resident can disconnect the visitor without granting access by pressing or by hanging up.

Disconnecting by hanging up is not recommended. The system will keep the telephone line seized until the maximum visitor talk time timer runs out. The length of time a visitor is allowed to talk is limited. At ten and five seconds before the disconnect, a tone will sound on the telephone to remind the resident of the pending disconnect. To restart the talk timer, the resident can press # on their telephone.

Also, please note that the new bar on the front door has a one hand in contact with the bar in order to open (one finger is not enough surface contact to activate the switch in the bar). The red button is still operational as well and also has a one second delay.

Net neutrality meme To ensure the Internet we want, we must take action today; and people need to plan to come to Washington, DC beginning next Wednesday to join in a series of escalating protests that will undermine the legitimacy of the FCC leadership and force them to pay attention to the public interest rather than the interests of mega-corporations. Already more than a million people have written the FCC in favor of net neutrality and the Commissioners are receiving more than 100 calls per day from citizens. They know the public wants a free, open and equal Internet. Now we have to show them we will revolt if it is taken away from us. The proposal by Obama appointee, Tom Wheeler , a long-time industry lobbyist and Internet profiteer, will put in place a pay-to-play Internet where the wealthiest will have superior service to the rest of us, where big corporations will have faster websites than independent sites and where free speech is stifled by money. The Internet has become the great democratizer of media where independent and social media have flourished and allowed people to create an alternative to the concentrated corporate media. We will not let Wheeler undermine media democratization and turn most of us into second-class Internet citizens.

Hello dearest It's good writing you today although we have not known or have we met before . It is true that this letter may come to you as a surprise. However, I humbly ask the benefit of doubt and hear me out .

My name is Ms. Sandra Kufo From

Solomon Islands . I am married to Mr. RICHARD Kufo who worked and based in Cte d'Ivoire for a period of 9 years before he died. We were married for 12 years without a child. He died after a brief illness that lasted for only four days.

Since his death I decided not to remarry due to my religious beliefs. When my late husband was alive he deposited the sum of U.S. $ 11,000,000 (eleven million U.S. dollars) with a bank in Ivory Coast. This money is still currently in the custody of the bank in Ivory Coast. Recently, my doctor told me that i will not last for the next Eight months due to cancer illness .

Having known my condition I decided to donate this fund to a church, organization or good person that will utilize this money the way I am going to give instructions attached. I want the good person that will use this funds to help the orphans, widows and other people who need financial help. Using part of this money to build companies and establish businesses that will create job opportunities for the unemployed . I took this decision because I do not have any child that will inherit this money . Moreover, my husband relatives are pagans and had been their wish to see my husband dead in order to inherit his wealth since we have no child. These people are therefore not worthy of this inheritance. This is the reason why I am taking this decision.

I do not need any telephone communication in this regard because of my ill health since the presence of my husband's relatives around me always . I do not want them to know about this development for security reasons .

As soon as I receive your reply I will give you the contact of the bank in Ivory Coast where this fund is deposited. Also issue a letter of authorization to the bank that will prove you the present beneficiary of this money . I would also like to always be exalted in prayer. Any delay in your reply may give me the site to look for another good person for this same purpose. Please assure me that you will act accordingly as I Stated herein .

H o p i n g to receive your reply as soon as possible . Thanks and remain blessed. private email. sandrakufo1@gmail.com Sincerely yours, Ms. Sandra Kufo

A federal grand jury this week indicted a Florence couple on multiple charges that they exploited a minor child in their custody to produce child pornography, announced U.S. Attorney Joyce White Vance and FBI Special Agent in Charge Richard D. Schwein Jr.

A 107-count indictment filed in U.S. District Court charges Patricia Allana Ayers, 34, and her husband, Matthew David Ayers, 42, in connection with 53 pornographic images of the child produced between the summer of 2010 and January 2013. The couple has remained in jail in Lauderdale County since early last year on state child pornography, rape, and sexual abuse charges.

“I am committed to protecting children from exploitation and sexual abuse, and in no case more so than cases like this, where children are hurt by those closest to them,” Vance said.

“This case emphasizes the need for anyone with information about the potential sexual exploitation of children to report it immediately,” Schwein said. “The National Center for Missing and Exploited Children operates the Cyber Tip Line in partnership with the FBI and other federal authorities. If you have information, call the tip line at 1-800-THE-LOST.”

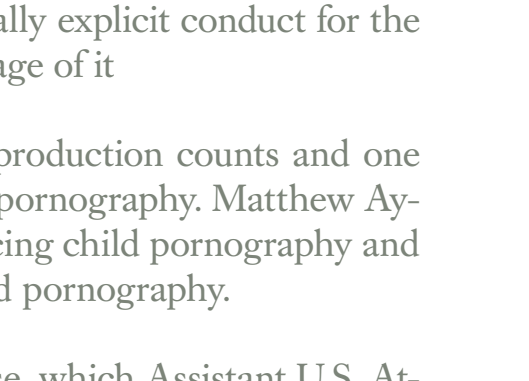

The indictment charges 106 counts of producing child pornography and one count of possessing child pornography. For each photograph involving sexual exploitation of the child, the defendant involved faces two charges: * enticing or coercing a minor to engage in sexually explicit conduct for the purpose of creating an image of the conduct * as the parent, legal guardian, or person having control of a minor, permitting that child to engage in sexually explicit conduct for the purpose of producing an image of it

Patricia Ayers faces all 106 production counts and one count of possession of child pornography. Matthew Ayers faces 50 counts of producing child pornography and one count of possessing child pornography.

The FBI investigated the case, which Assistant U.S. Attorney Mary Stuart Burrell is prosecuting.

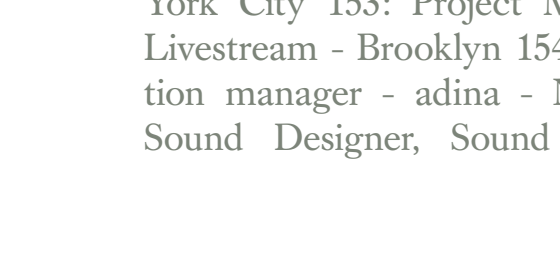

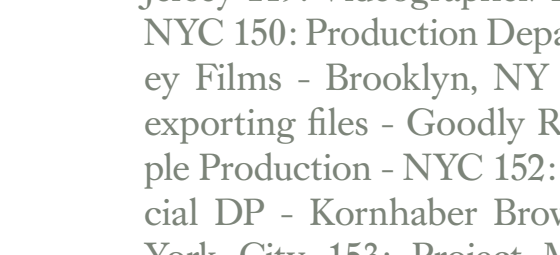

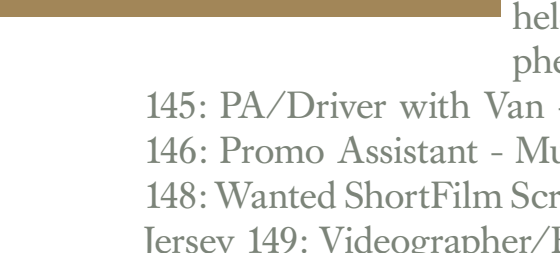

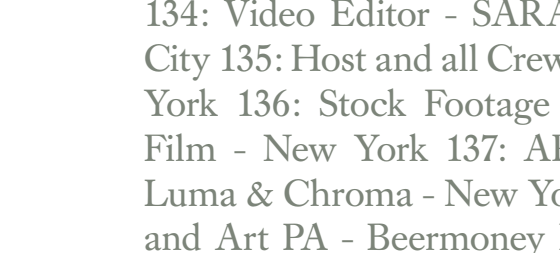

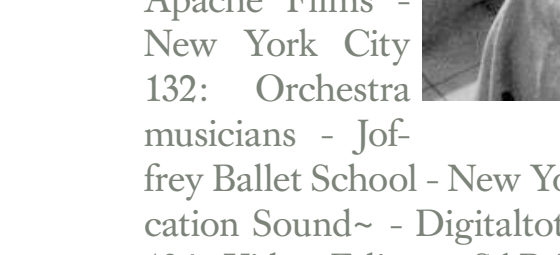

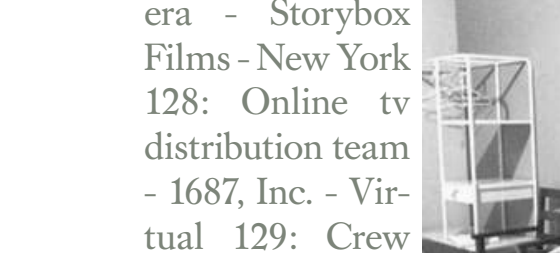

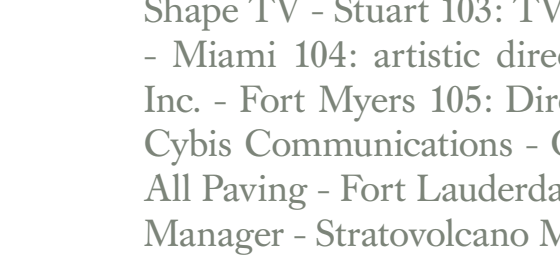

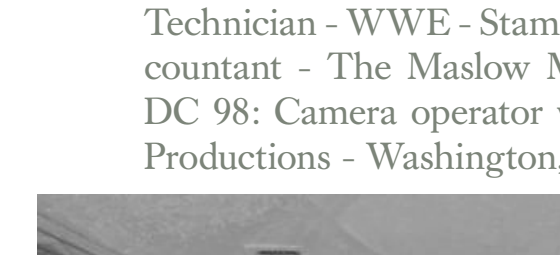

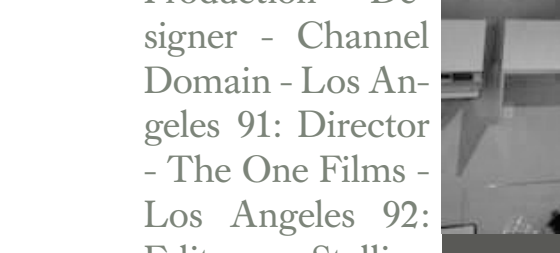

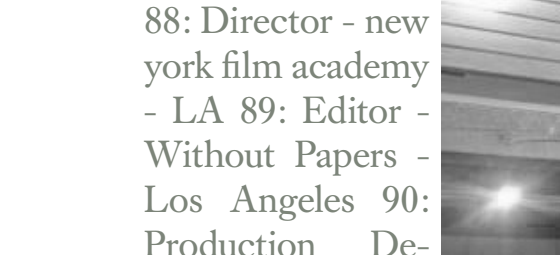

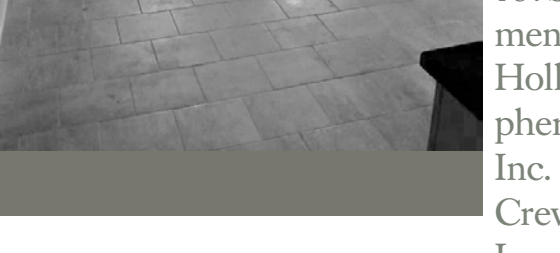

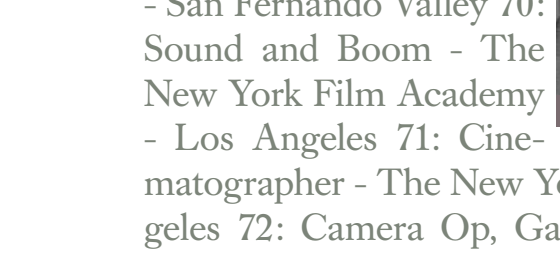

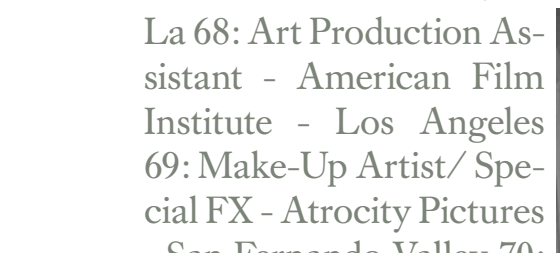

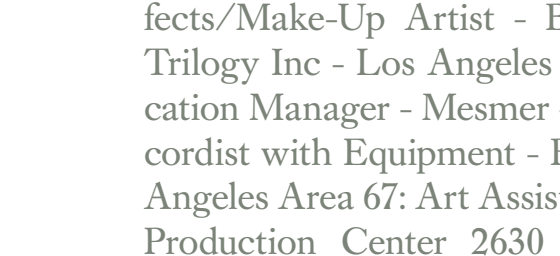

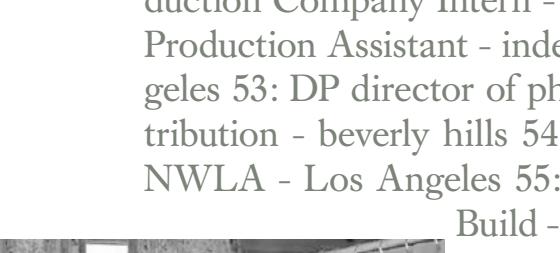

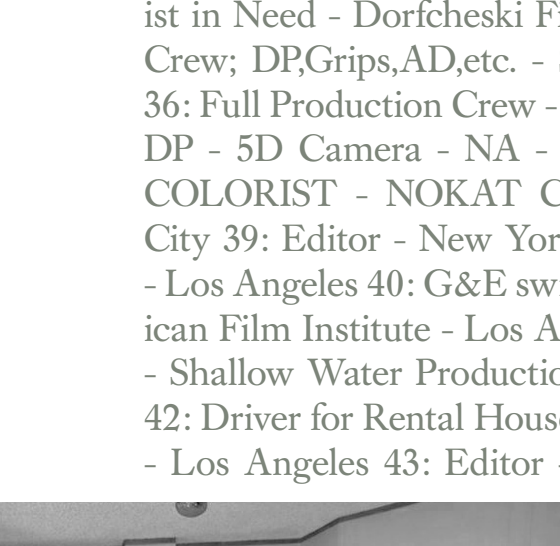

The public is reminded that an indictment contains only charges. A defendant is presumed innocent, and it is the government's responsibility to prove guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.

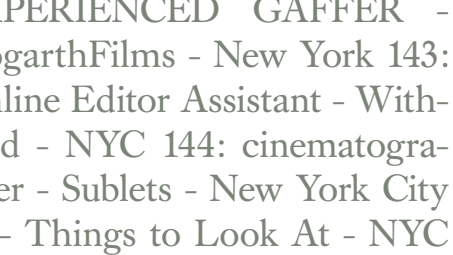

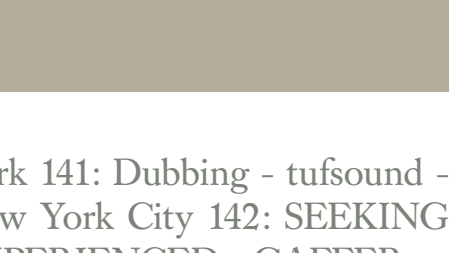

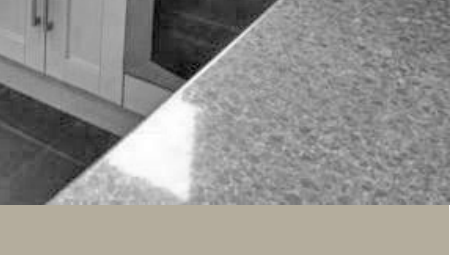

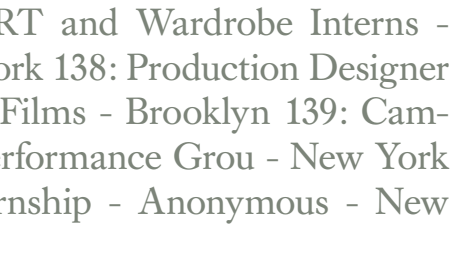

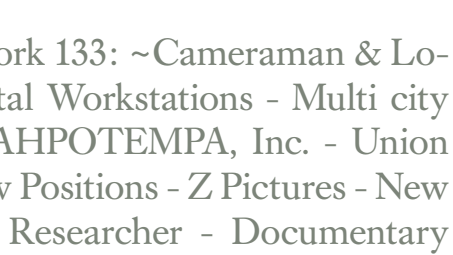

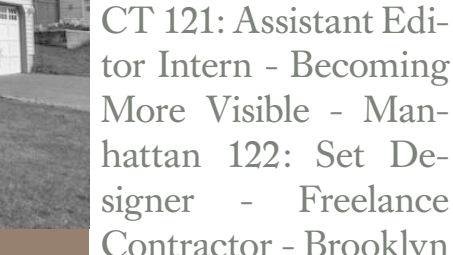

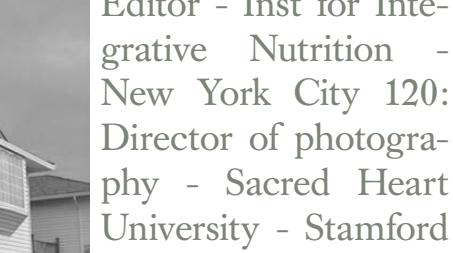

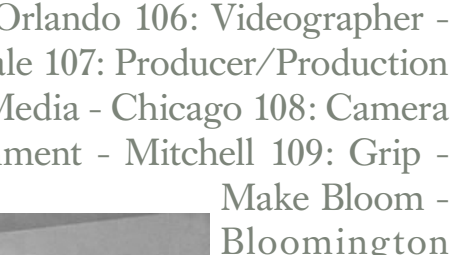

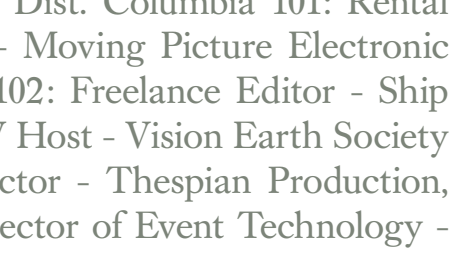

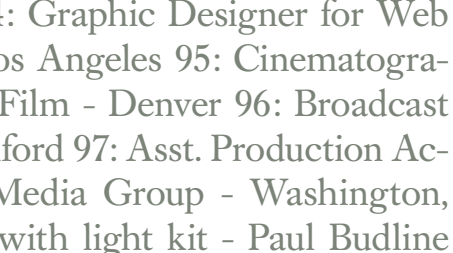

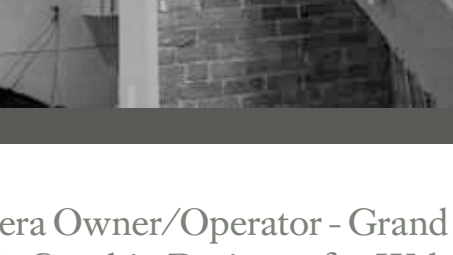

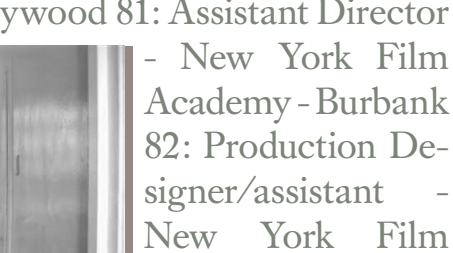

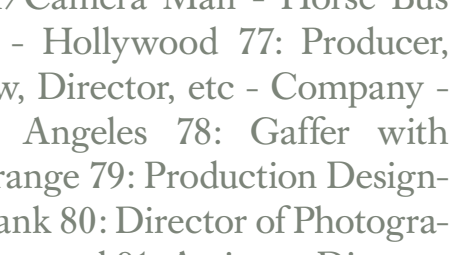

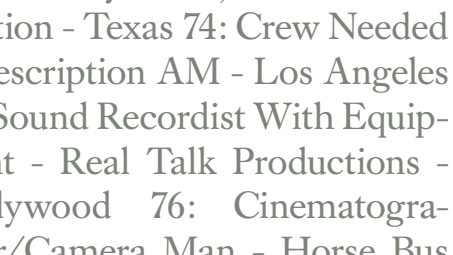

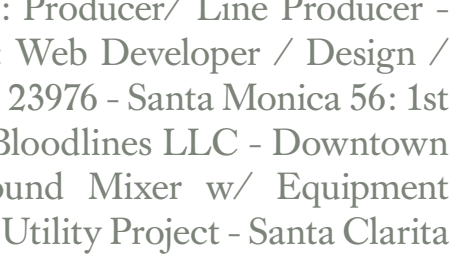

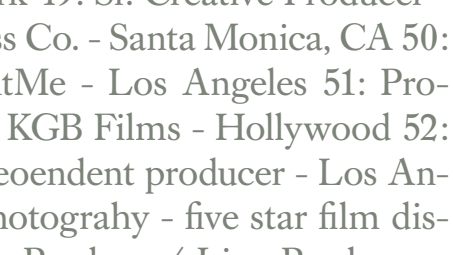

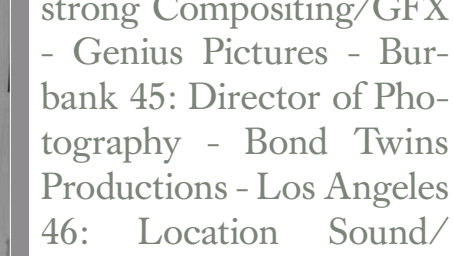

With contributions by Andrew Feenberg, Catherine McKercher, Christian Fuchs, Graham Murdock, Gunilla Bradley, Jernej Amon Prodnik, Margareta Melin, Marisol Sandoval, Mark Andrejevic, Nick Dyer-Witheford, Peter Dahlgren, Robert Prey, Sebastian Seignani, Thomas Allmer, Tobias Olsson, Verena Kreiling, Vincent Mosco, Wolfgang Hofkirchner.

1: Production Technician - TeamPeople - Chandler 2: Cinematographer - Confidential - Anywhere 3: Production Assistant - Freelance - Little Rock 4: Junior Nuke Composer - For Goodness Sake LLC - San Francisco, CA 5: Editor - Hoekstra Pictures - San Jose 6: Creative Director - TeamPeople - Santa Clara 7: Sound Mixer - NatGeo documentary - San Francisco 8: Editorial Intern - Lost Planet - Santa Monica 9: Editor - Lobos Films - Los Angeles 10: online editor - find art films - los angels 11: Studio Assistant - LKLA - Venice 12: DP, Production Design, Sound - New York Film Academy - Los Angeles 13: dp,editor - asif productions - Los Angeles 14: The Art Institute of Hollywood - Los Angeles 15: IT/Administrative Intern - This Is The Frequency - Los Angeles, California 16: Set Decorator - AFI - Los Angeles 17: Writer / Creative - EGE - Any 18: Digital Intermediate (DIT) - USC - Los Angeles 19: Storyboard Artist - InnerLight Productions - Los Angeles 20: VFX Artist - Reverie Cinema - Los Angeles 21: Set and Costume Designer - Primogenito Productions - Los Angeles 22: Colorist / Title Animator - USC Short Film - los angles 23: MUA/Hair Stylist - Independent Production - Los Angeles 24: Set Dresser - AFI Conserva-

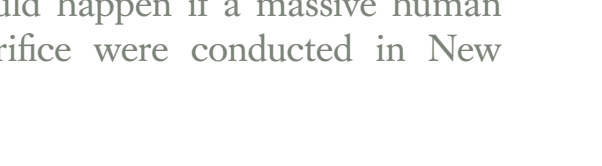

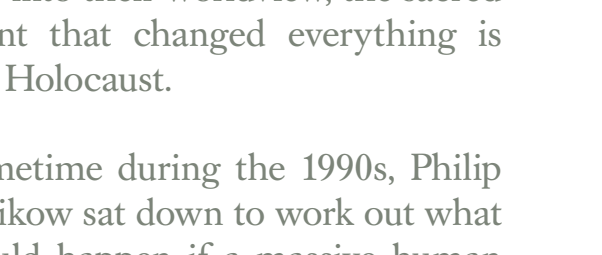

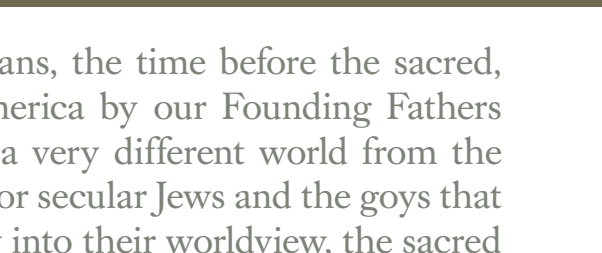

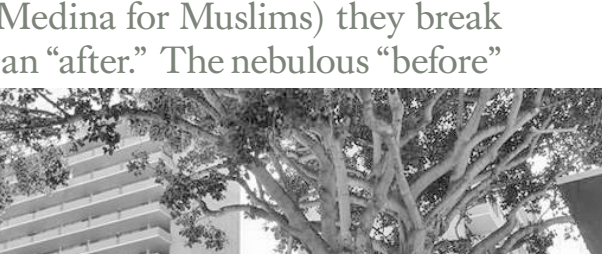

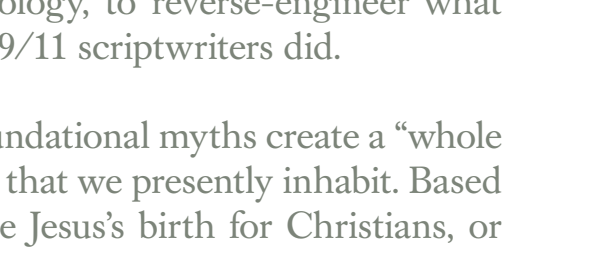

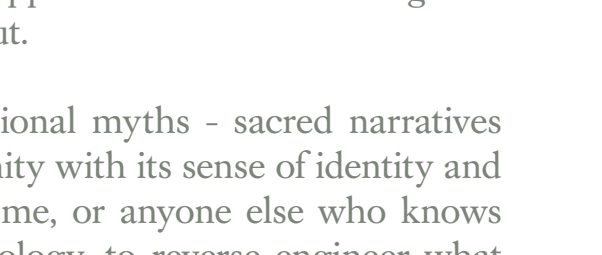

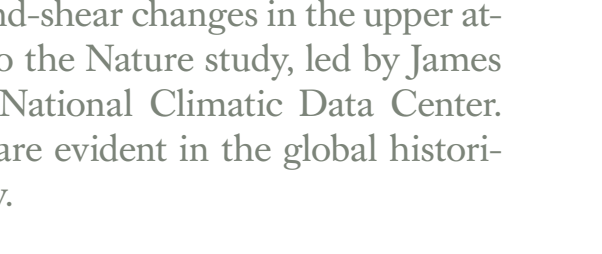

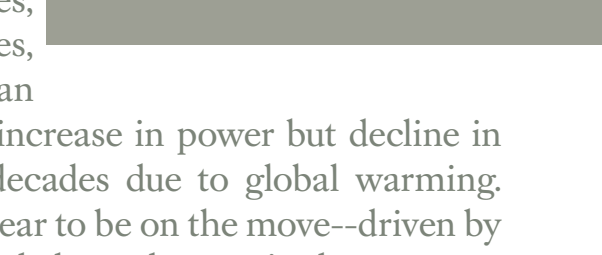

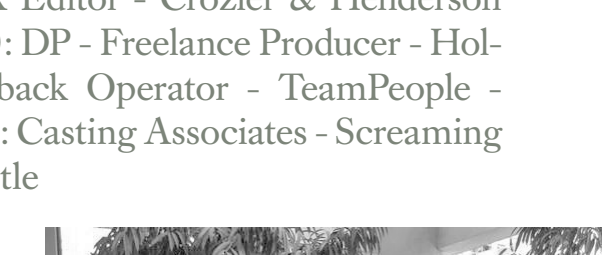

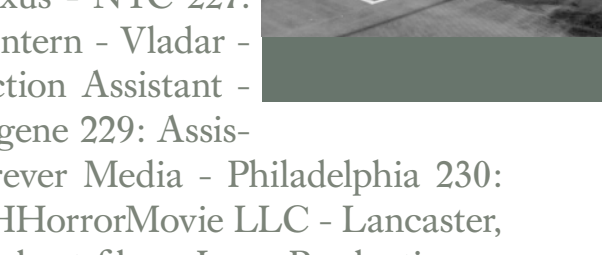

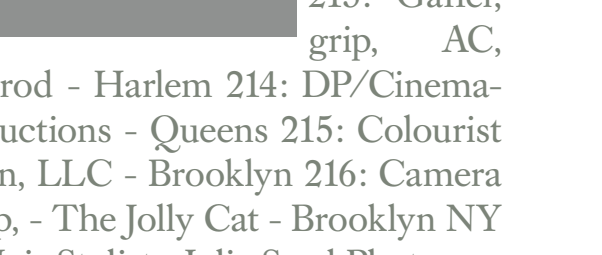

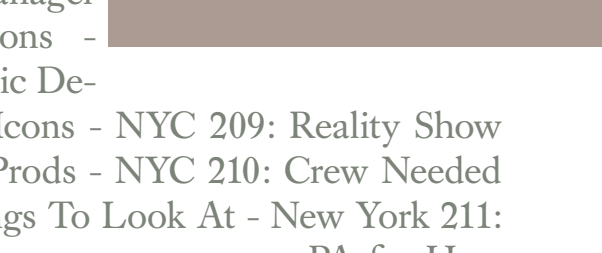

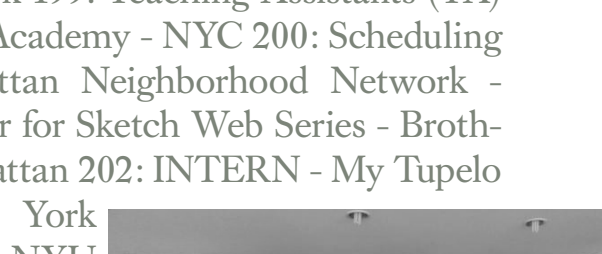

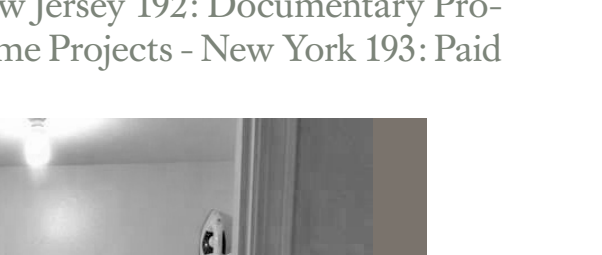

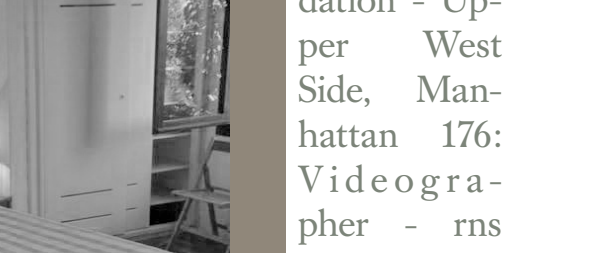

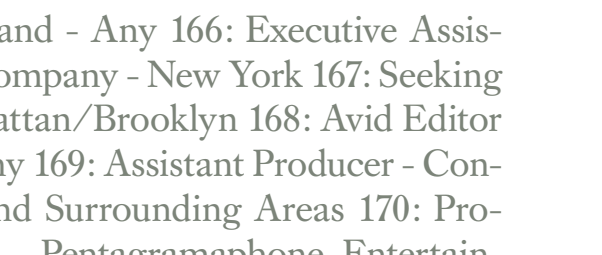

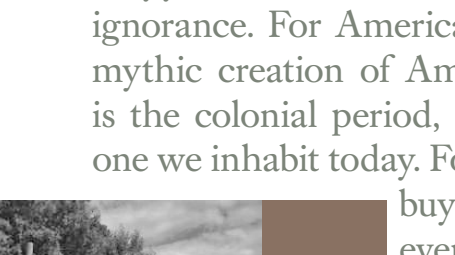

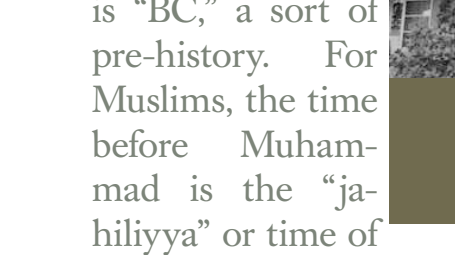

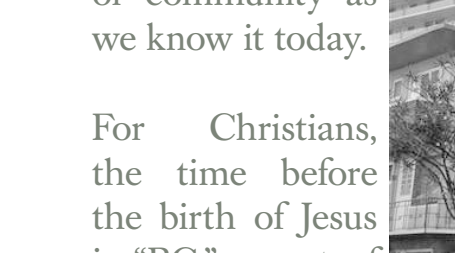

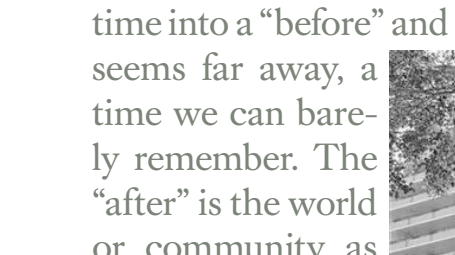

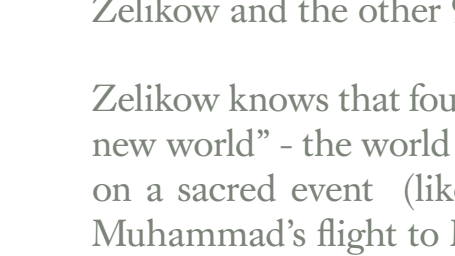

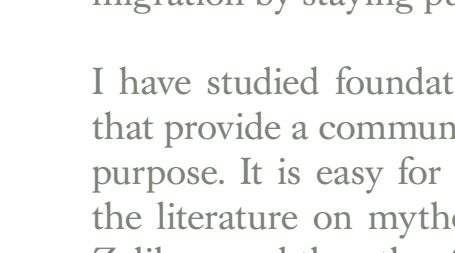

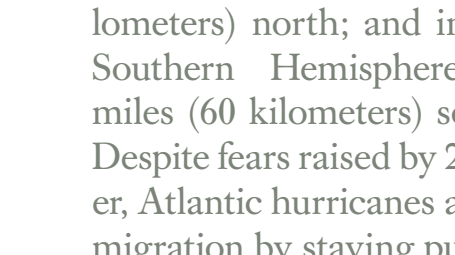

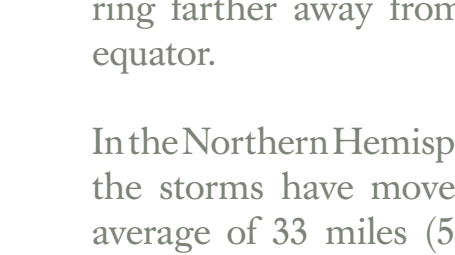

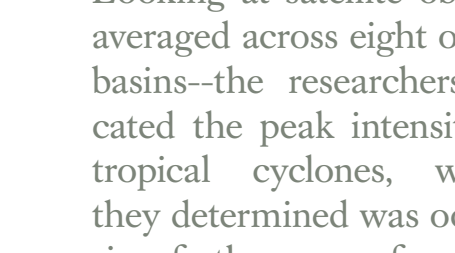

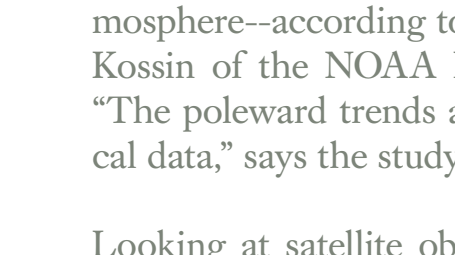

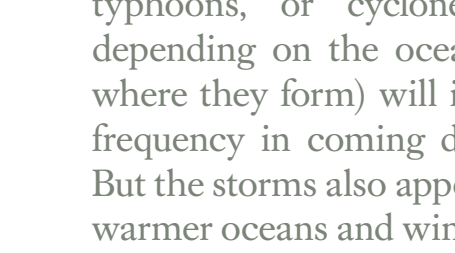

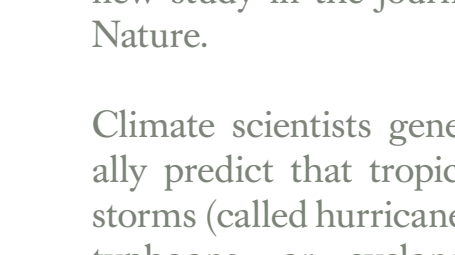

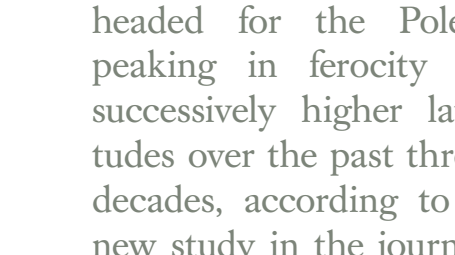

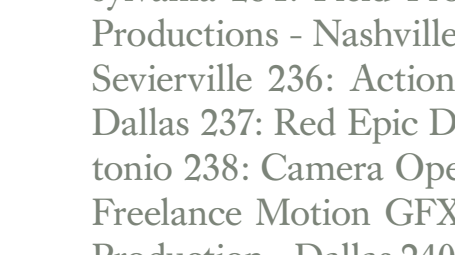

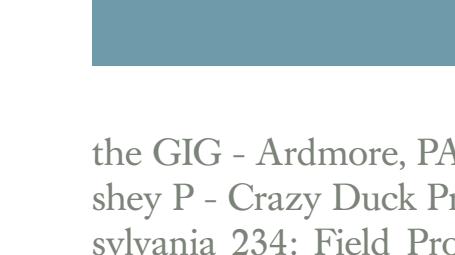

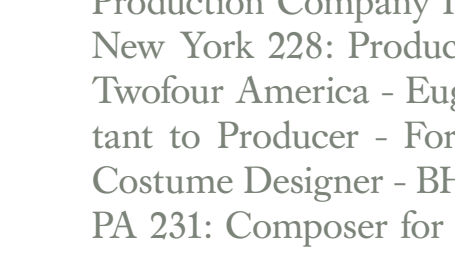

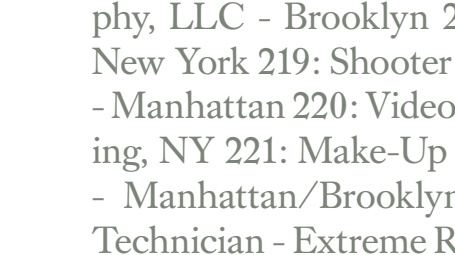

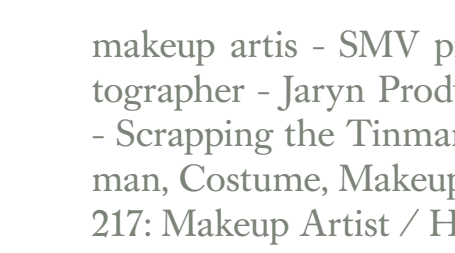

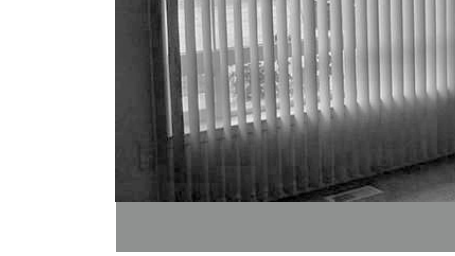

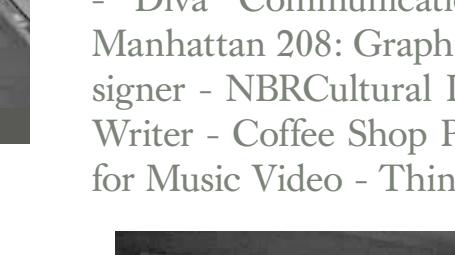

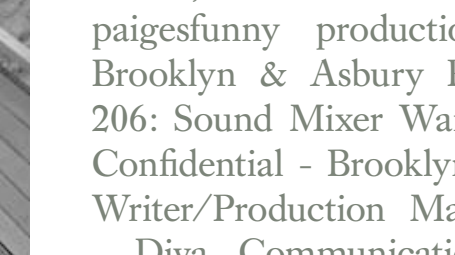

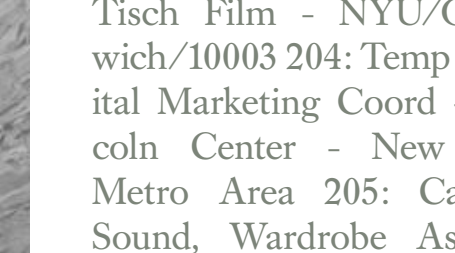

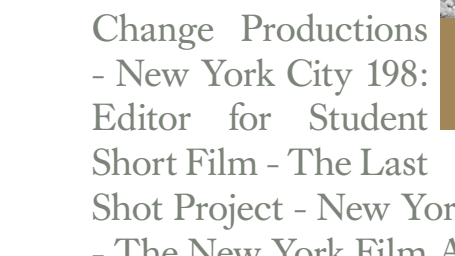

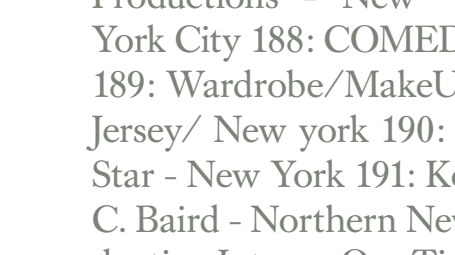

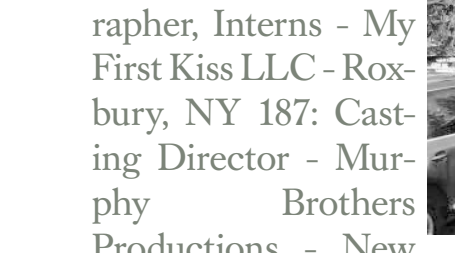

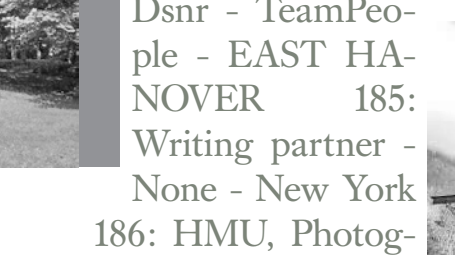

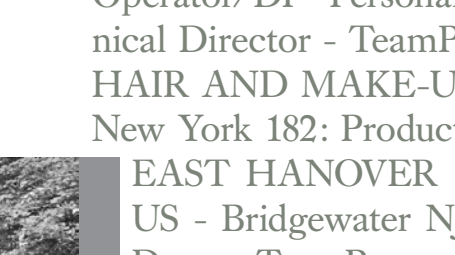

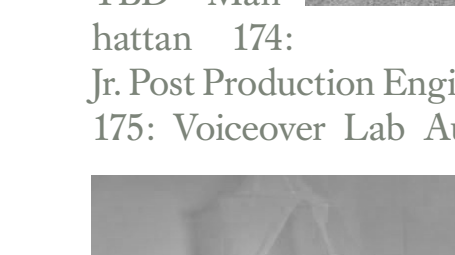

Los Angeles 25: Production Coordinator - SP Productions - Los Angeles 26: Sound Tech with Equipment - Bright Alliance Media - Anaheim 27: Stage Managers-Outdoor Theatre - Culver City Public Theatre - Culver City 28: Office Assistant for VFX House - Locktix - Los Angeles 29: Associate Producer and AD - RPMB - Los Angeles 30: Experienced Live Show Writer - V.A.G. - Hollywood/L.A. 31: Director of Photography - CSF - Los Angeles 32: Production Designer - The Haircut - AFI DWW Film - Los Angeles 33: DP Needed - Freelance - Los Angeles 34: VFX Artist in Need - Dorfcheski Films - Los Angeles 35: Need Crew; DP,Grips,AD,etc. - Smart Media - Los Angeles 36: Full Production Crew -JNG Films - Los Angeles 37: DP - 5D Camera - NA - Los Angeles 38: COLORIST - NOKAT Comedy - Culver City 39: Editor - New York Film Academy - Los Angeles 40: G&E swing crew - American Film Institute - Los Angeles 41: Editor - Shallow Water Production - Los Angeles 42: Driver for Rental House - Please Inquire - Los Angeles 43: Editor - Winnienoh Productions - Los Angeles 44: AE w/ strong Compositing/GFX - Genius Pictures - Burbank 45: Director of Photography - Bond Twins Productions - Los Angeles 46: Location Sound/ Boom Operator - Black Mirror Feature Film - West Los Angeles, CA 47: Video Editor - Palomar College TV - San Marcos 48: Graphic Artist - Sideshow Collectibles - Newbury Park 49: Sr. Creative Producer - Santa Monica-based Fitness Co. - Santa Monica, CA 50: Brand Ambassador - FightMe - Los Angeles 51: Production Company Intern - KGB Films - Hollywood 52: Production Assistant - indeoendent producer - Los Angeles 53: DP director of photagrahy - five star film distribution - beverly hills 54: Producer/ Line Producer - NWLA - Los Angeles 55: Web Developer / Design / Build - 23976 - Santa Monica 56: 1st AD - Bloodlines LLC - Downtown 57: Sound Mixer w/ Equipment $600 - Utility Project - Santa Clarita 58: Production Designer - Mae Pie Productions - Los Angeles 59: Assistant Editor - Brewster Parsons - Venice 60: Assistant Editor - A2A Productions - Los Angeles 61: Grips / Electricians / Swings - Utility Project LLC - Santa Clarita 62: Shooter/Editor for Kickstarter - The Duchess Group - Los Angeles 63: PA's - Oak Productions - Los Angeles 64: Special Effects/Make-Up Artist - Baghead Trilogy Inc - Los Angeles 65: Location Manager - Mesmer - Los Angeles 66: Sound Recordist with Equipment - Big Swing Media, LLC - Los Angeles Area 67: Art Assistant - Cedric Gamelin - Lacy Production Center 2630 La 68: Art Production Assistant - American Film Institute - Los Angeles 69: Make-Up Artist/ Special FX - Atrocity Pictures - San Fernando Valley 70: Sound and Boom - The New York Film Academy - Los Angeles 71: Cinematographer - The New York Film Academy - Los Angeles 72: Camera Op, Gaffer, Boom Op, AC - CER-CONE FILM / NYFA - Burbank 73: Social Media/Marketing (Work Anywhere) - Film Production - Texas 74: Crew Needed - Prescription AM - Los Angeles 75: Sound Recordist With Equipment - Real Talk Productions - Hollywood 76: Cinematographer/Camera Man - Horse Bus Inc. - Hollywood 77: Producer, Crew, Director, etc - Company - Los Angeles 78: Gaffer with Equipment - SLO2014 - Orange 79: Production Designer/assistant - NYFA - burbank 80: Director of Photography - Untitled - North Hollywood 81: Assistant Director - New York Film Academy-Burbank 82: Production Designer/assistant - New York Film Academy-Burbank 83: Monster Make-up Artist / Props - Wild Town Productions - Los Angeles 84: Union CLT/Gaffer and Key Grip for Featur - IMT - Los Angeles 85: Editor - Work From Anywhere - JL Productions - LA 86: DIT - New York Film Academy - LA 87: Director/Editor in Arabic - YouTube Videos - Burbank 88: Director - new york film academy - LA 89: Editor - Without Papers - Los Angeles 90: Production Designer - Channel Domain - Los Angeles 91: Director - The One Films - Los Angeles 92: Editor - Stallion Film & Video - Los Angeles area.. 93: Camera Owner/Operator - Grand Illusion - Riverside, CA 94: Graphic Designer for Web Serie - Live Bait LLC - Los Angeles 95: Cinematographer (Real Estate) - Lyra Film - Denver 96: Broadcast Technician - WWE - Stamford 97: Asst. Production Accountant - The Maslow Media Group - Washington, DC 98: Camera operator with light kit - Paul Budline Productions - Washington, DC 99: Sound Mixer - xen-

GAYS The Series - New York 156: Colorist, VFX, Sound Mixing - Purple Lemon - New York 157: Assistant Editor - IWOA - New York City 158: Vault Manager/Marketing Asst. - Confidential - New York 159: Video Engineer - Blue Man Productions - New York 160: 2nd AD, 1st AC, 2nd AC, DIT - 12th Street Films - Bayshore, Long Island 161: Production Assistant - N/A - Rochester, NY 162: Crew member, Script advisor - Thecaveman production - NYC 163: Avid Digital Editor, Immediate - The Authority Group - New Yorker Hotel 164: Sound Mixer - HogarthFilms - New York 165: Avid Editor - Bite the Hand - Any 166: Executive Assistant - Production Company - New York 167: Seeking a DP! - JBP - Manhattan/Brooklyn 168: Avid Editor - Short Thriller - Any 169: Assistant Producer - Confidential - New York and Surrounding Areas 170: Production Co-Ordinator - Pentagramophone Entertainment - NYC 171: Grant Writer for Documentary - Private - NYC 172: Short Film Screenwriter - Skye Films NYC 173: A N I M A - T O R / D E - S I G N E R / C A R - T O O N I S T - T B D - M a n h a t t a n 174: Jr. Post Production Engineer - iN DEMAND - New York 175: Voiceover Lab Audio Engineer - Screen Actors Guild Foundation - Upper West Side, Manhattan 176: Videographer - rns Videomedia - Allentown NJ 177: Daily Manager - The Actors Theatre Wokshop - New York 178: Producer Assistant - Confidential - New York City 179: Camera Operator/DP - Personal Options - Bronx, NY 180: Technical Director - TeamPeople - EAST HANOVER 181: HAIR AND MAKE-UP ARTIST - Jaffa Films. LLC - New York 182: Production Technician - TeamPeople - EAST HANOVER 183: Graphic Designer - Sanofi US - Bridgewater NJ 184: Multimedia Instructional Dsnr - TeamPeople - EAST HANOVER 185: Writing partner - None - New York 186: HMU, Photographer, Interns - My First Kiss LLC - Roxbury, NY 187: Casting Director - Murphy Brothers Productions - New York City 188: COMEDY WRITER - . - New York City 189: Wardrobe/MakeUp/PA/Set dresser - TBA - New Jersey/ New york 190: Adv. Business Dev Intern - Big-Star - New York 191: Key Grip Wanted for Short Film - C. Baird - Northern New Jersey 192: Documentary Production Intern - Our Time Projects - New York 193: Paid

ated. Thank you. KENNETH PEASLAND Overseas Investment k_peasland@yahoo.com.tw

Known as aerostats, these aircraft will hover 10,000 feet in the air above Army-owned land 45 miles northeast of Washington, D.C.. The blimp, though tethered to the ground, will have the ability to see airborne objects from up to 340 miles away and surface vehicles up to 140 miles away, giving them a view "as far south as Richmond, as far west as Cumberland, Md., and as far north as Staten Island," reports the Washington Post. Army officials say these objects will be in place for a three-year trial period of the 'Joint Land Attack Cruise Missile Defense Elevated Netted Sensor System' (JLENS), with the stated goal of detecting cruise missiles or enemy aircraft. Yet, Army officials have refused to rule out equipping the aerostats with powerful cameras and infrared sensors.

PS: This is only a sample outline of this trip.

It is not a precise description. You can also customize your own trip according to your interests. The price includes: car rent, guide, overnight at Tents, BBQ, Entrance tickets of sightseeing places/Not includes: food, meals except for the BBQ in the desert

Design Creativity is an important and interesting topic of study in design. Since it involves the profound and essential nature of design, design creativity is expected to be a key in not only addressing the social problems that we are facing, but also producing an innate appreciation for beauty and happiness in our minds. In order to elucidate the nature of design creativity, the following issues are being studied: cognitive processes underlying design creativity, computational models of design creativity, and practical processes to incorporate the human and social dimensions.

You should mention the format of your contribution (performance, lecture, talk, discussion, performative talk or walk, site-specific intervention, conceptual breakfast/dinner, etc.) and the preferred length and settings (inside (auditorium, kitchen, etc.), outside (beach, dunes, forest, town, etc.), if any specific equipment is required, etc). Please indicate in the subject line: "Proposal for Inter-format Symposium". To get an idea of the symposium's nature and atmosphere please check it's visual history and previous programmes.

United States Attorney A. Lee Bentley, III announced today that Jimmy Laverne Holmes (57, Fleming Island) has pleaded guilty in United States District Court, in Jacksonville, to receiving child pornography over the Internet. He faces a mandatory minimum penalty of five years, up to 20 years in federal prison, and a potential life term of supervised release. Holmes has been in custody since his arrest on September 24, 2013. At the time of his arrest, Holmes stated that he worked at the Barco-Newton YMCA in Fleming Island, where he taught sports to children. A sentencing hearing has not yet been set.

According to court documents, an agent with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, in Jacksonville, began an investigation to identify individuals in that area that had access to and/or were trading images and videos of child pornography over the Internet. Through his investigation, the agent determined that a host computer in the Jacksonville area, using a particular Internet protocol (IP) address, was hosting images of child pornography via a particular peer-to-peer file sharing program. The agent made successful connections to the host computer and successfully downloaded several video files directly. The downloaded files contained depictions of child pornography. Further investigation revealed that the subscriber information to the IP address resolved to a particular residence located in Fleming Island, Florida, where Holmes resided.

On September 24, 2013, FBI agents and other law enforcement officers executed the search warrant at Holmes' residence and seized several computers and other items of electronic media. At the residence, Holmes told the agents that he knew child pornography to be both illegal and morally unjustifiable and was recently downloading and watching child pornography two or three times per week. Holmes further stated that he has tried to cease such activities repeatedly but has not been able to abstain indefinitely. According to Holmes, he uses child pornography for "personal use" and further noted, "I like to watch it." Subsequent analysis of Holmes' computer media revealed that it contained a total of 174 videos and 247 images depicting child pornography.

This case was investigated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, and the Clay County Sheriff's Office. It is being prosecuted by Assistant United States Attorney D. Rodney Brown. Tammy Dickinson, United States Attorney for the Western District of Missouri, announced that a Weaubleau, Missouri man was charged in federal court today with producing, receiving, and possessing child pornography after exchanging pornographic images with a teenage girl via cell phone.

Larry Allison, 49, of Weaubleau, was charged in a federal criminal complaint filed in the U.S. District Court in Springfield, Missouri. Allison remains in federal custody pending a detention hearing.

According to an affidavit filed in support of today's criminal complaint, Springfield Police officers were contacted by the victim's mother on January 9, 2014, to report an incident that occurred earlier that day. The mother had observed another daughter walking home from school when Allison pulled up to her in his car and stopped. Allison apparently mistook the younger daughter for her sister, identified in the affidavit as "minor victim" (MV). The mother went to the victim's school, located MV, and took her cell phone. She found several text messages and photos allegedly sent between MV and Allison.

The text messaging, which started on January 4, 2014, became sexual in nature, according to the affidavit. Allison allegedly sent MV a nude photo of himself and asked her to send nude photos of herself to him, which she did.

A Springfield detective, portraying herself as MV, began texting Allison. Allison allegedly asked her sexual questions, invited her to come live with him, and suggested that she perform oral sex on his horse.

Law enforcement officers executed a search warrant at Allison's residence on Thursday, January 30, 2014. Officers questioned Allison about the text messages and the photos and placed him under arrest.

Dickinson cautioned that the charge contained in this complaint is simply an accusation and not evidence of guilt. Evidence supporting the charge must be presented to a federal trial jury, whose duty is to determine guilt or innocence.

This case is being prosecuted by Assistant U.S. Attorney James J. Kelleher. It was investigated by the FBI and the Springfield District, Missouri Police Department.

Jennifer Pruitt is 37 now, with clear blue eyes and rhinestone tortoiseshell glasses. She has been in prison for 20 years, more than half her life. She has poise and insight that, it's obvious from her carriage and her affect, are still new to her. Lifes are last on the list for prison programming, so it took her more than a decade to get into the critical thinking, assaultive offenders therapy and conflict resolution classes that she says have changed her life and her outlook.

The internet is not dead. It's undead and it's everywhere. It feels awkward, obviously completely surveilled, monopolized, and sanitized by common sense, copyright, control and conformism.

But there was never any digital revolution in the past. If we could ever talk about a digital revolution, it could only mean the third industrial revolution, which has been going on for decades and which is definitely not about to end. But as an industrial revolution, that is simply an acceleration in the continuous process of minimizing the need for human labour in the production of commodities. That process is driven by the competition over profits on the market, and the current crisis is only intensifying that competition, pushing all kinds of corporationstowards Big Data and threatening to eliminate those who fail to live up to the new standards of data mining. Some wacky conservatives are pushing a conspiracy theory that the snow that's falling in recent weeks is not real--and is being engineered by the Federal Government. Fueling the theory is the presence of snow in normally-warmer states in the South.

YouTube videos have cropped up in recent days showing people trying to melt their snow with lighters. But the snow doesn't melt. It lets off a toxic smell and produces black marks on the snow. It's proof that the snow is chemical, not real and being geo-engineered by the government, says the video bloggers.

Health care isn't the first boon that President Obama tried to give us through a public-private partnership. When he took office, more than 25% of U.S. home mortgages were underwater -- meaning that people owed more on their houses than they could get if they tried to sell them. The president offered those homeowners debt relief through banks. Now he's offering health care through insurance companies.

In both cases, the administration shied away from direct government aid. Instead, it subsidized private companies to serve the people. To get your government-subsidized mortgage modification, you applied at your bank; to get your government-mandated health coverage, you buy private insurance.

Juan Gris's Cubist still life "Nature Morte a la Nappe a Carreaux" ("The Checked Tablecloth") sold for 34.8 million at a London sale Tuesday, smashing the auction record for the Spanish artist. The 1915 work portrays a pile of objects -- including a bunch of grapes and a newspaper -- on a checked tablecloth. It smashed pre-sale estimates of 12-18 million, fetching almost double the previous record for a Gris work at auction. That was achieved in 2010 when his 1913 painting of a violin and a guitar sold for $28.6 million in New York. The Christie's sale of Impressionist, modern and Surrealist art signals the start of two weeks of auctioneering in the British capital, setting the art market's tone for the coming year. Other important items sold included Swiss sculptor Alberto Giacometti's bronze work of three men, which fetched 9 million, and Cubist master Pablo Picasso's 1955 portrait of lover Jacqueline Roque, which went under the hammer for 16.9 million pounds.

Please be prepared to pay the application fee as outlined in the property listing. In addition to this rental application, you will also be required to provide a copy of a valid form of identification and proof of income.

To complete this rental application, you must be prepared to provide 3 years of residential history as well as contact information for your rental references. You will also be asked to provide information on your monthly income, and please note that most properties require that applicant combined gross income is at least three (3) times the monthly rent amount.

Each resident over the age of 18 must submit a separate rental application. Application fee: $50.00

Last chance! This wide-reaching exhibition looks at the interaction among artists, architects and artisans, as well as critics and collectors during these fruitful years. It was an age of reform: all spheres of life became the focus for art workers as they collaborated on interior and exterior projects; clubs formed in major cities, bringing together writers, musicians, artists and

A series of storms will impact portions of the Western U.S. through this weekend. These storms will bring much needed precipitation to the Pacific Northwest, Rocky Mountains and parts of California. Northern California will be especially hard hit; with several inches of rainfall expected for the lower elevations and two to three feet of snow for portions of the Sierra Nevada. Since 1974, the highly trained Bosley physicians have been on the cutting edge of hair restoration technology and techniques, providing patients with a permanent, natural-looking hairline that gives them renewed confidence.

Request your free DVD information kit now to learn more about how their highly skilled physicians utilize state-of-the-art tech [Error: Hexadecimal character in QP encoding] While heavy snowfall was pounding Japan on Saturday parts of the Philippines were dealing with heavy rainfall and severe weather of their own.

In Cotabato near Davao a cluster of thunderstorms over the weekend spawned a Tornado that damaged a wide swath of banana crops. The tornado was estimated to have lasted 2-3 minutes but while on the ground it managed to damage or destroy 8,000 to 12,000 banana plants surely leading to a harsh economic impact on local farmers.

No injuries were reported following the storm.

Tornadoes of this magnitude are not a uncommon place in the Philippines. Most of them are spawned by thunderstorms that gather circulation due to friction caused by them moving from water over land surfaces.

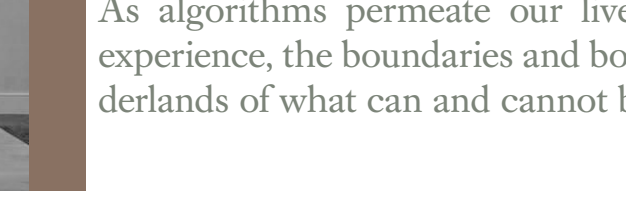

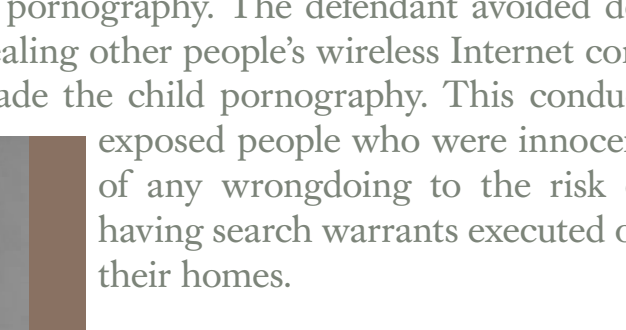

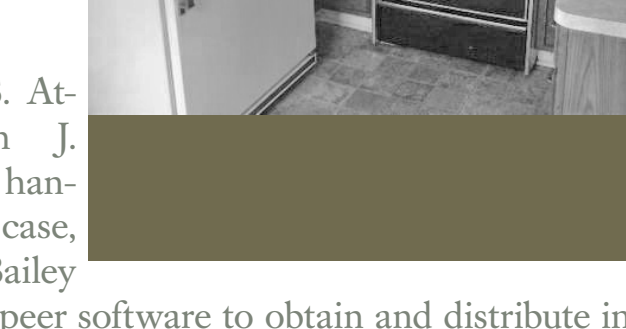

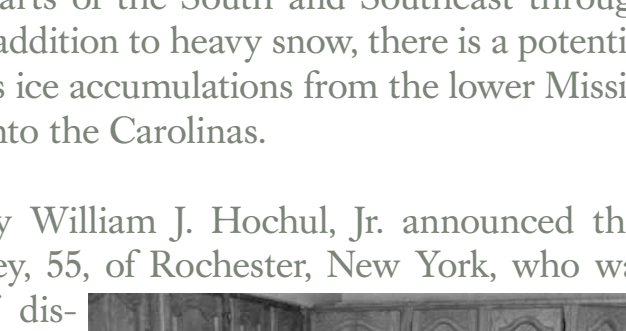

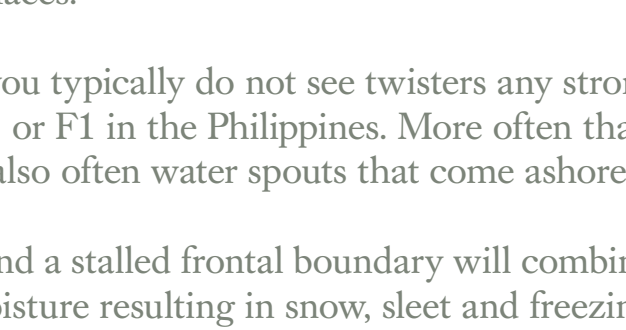

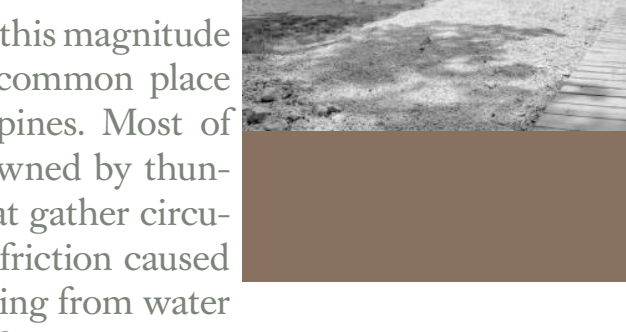

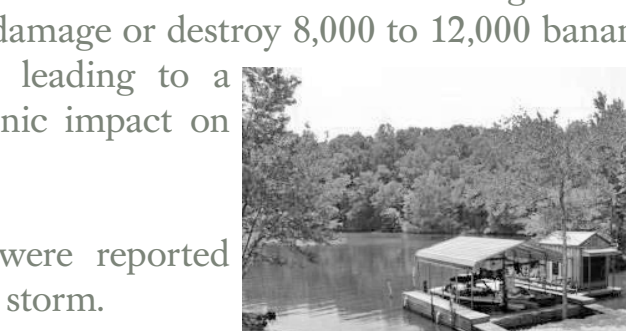

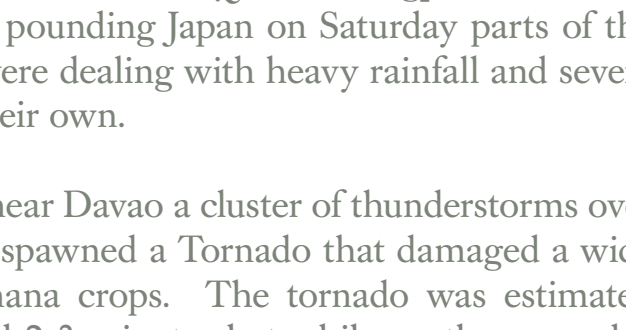

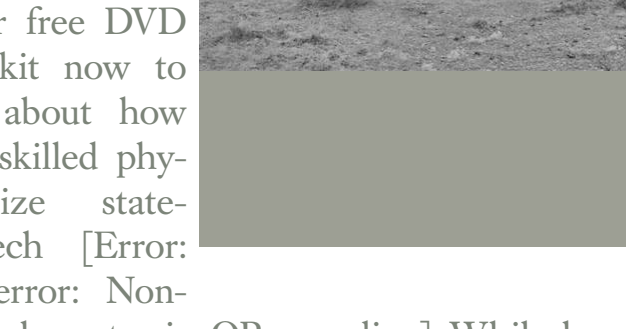

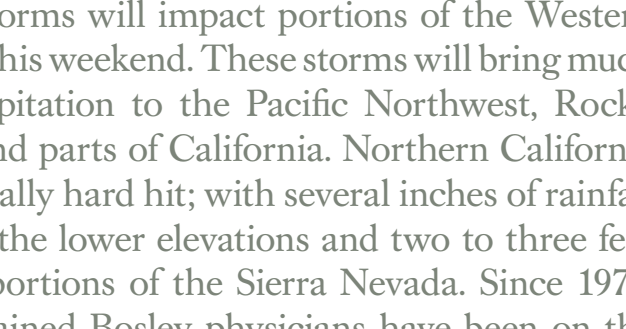

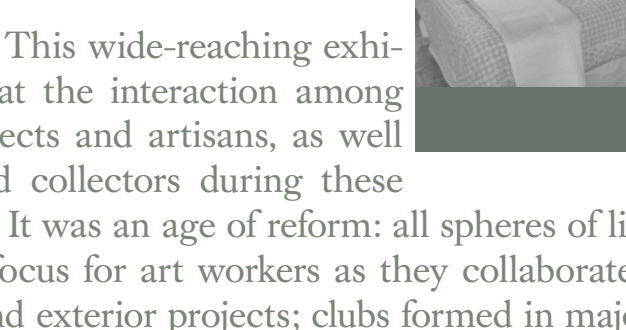

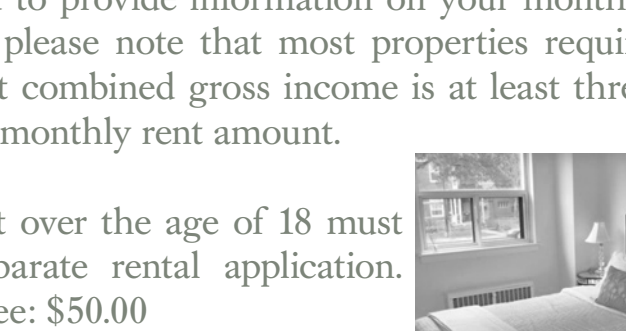

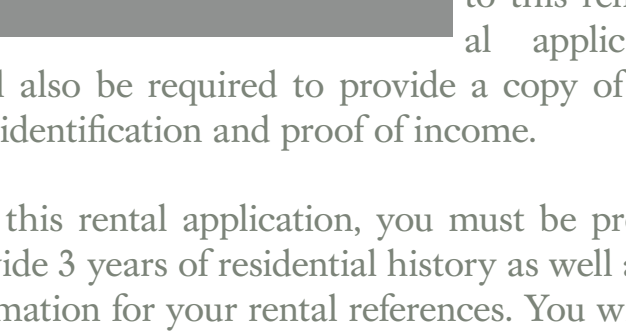

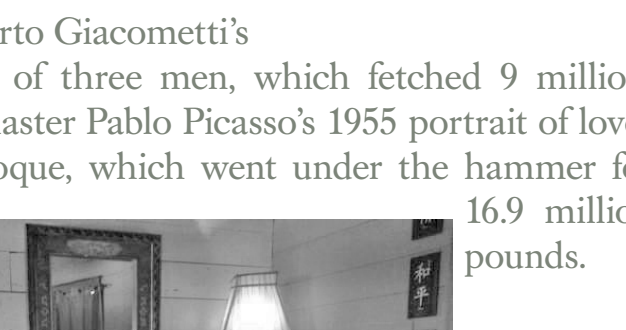

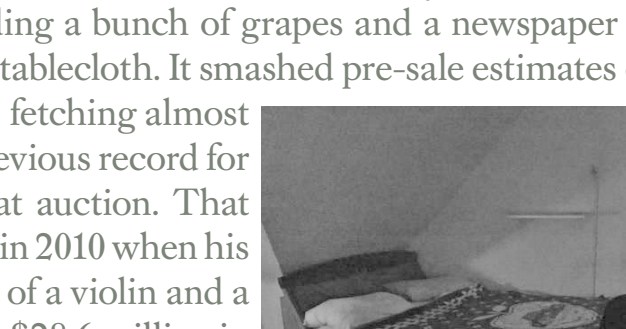

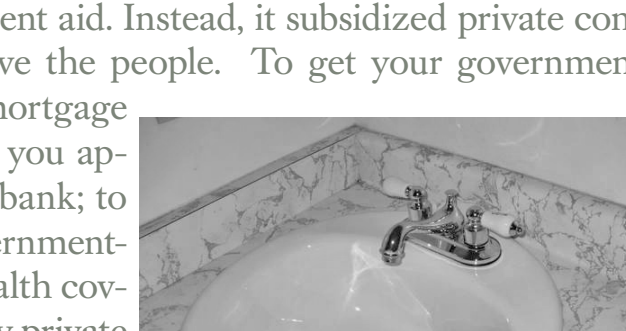

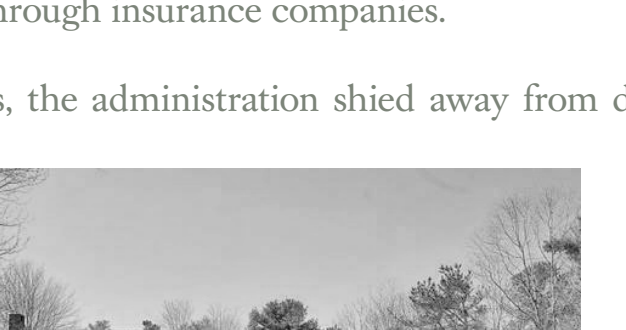

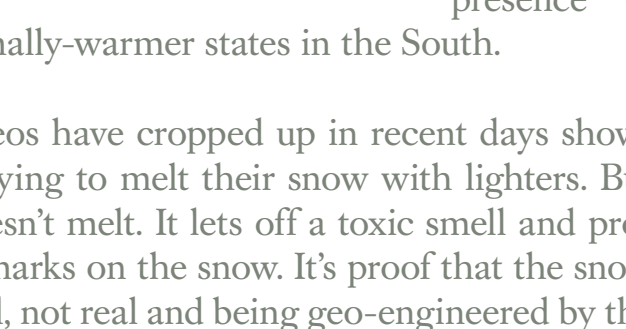

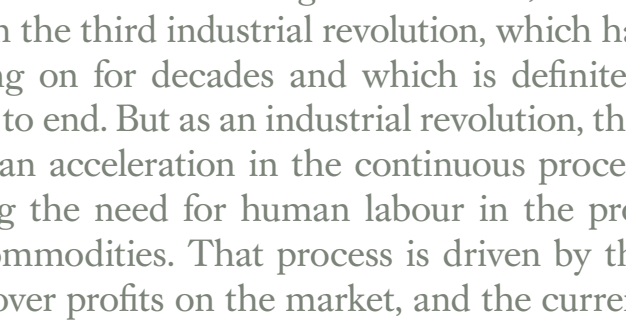

This is why you typically do not see twisters any stronger than a F0 or F1 in the Philippines. More often than not they are also often water spouts that come ashore.

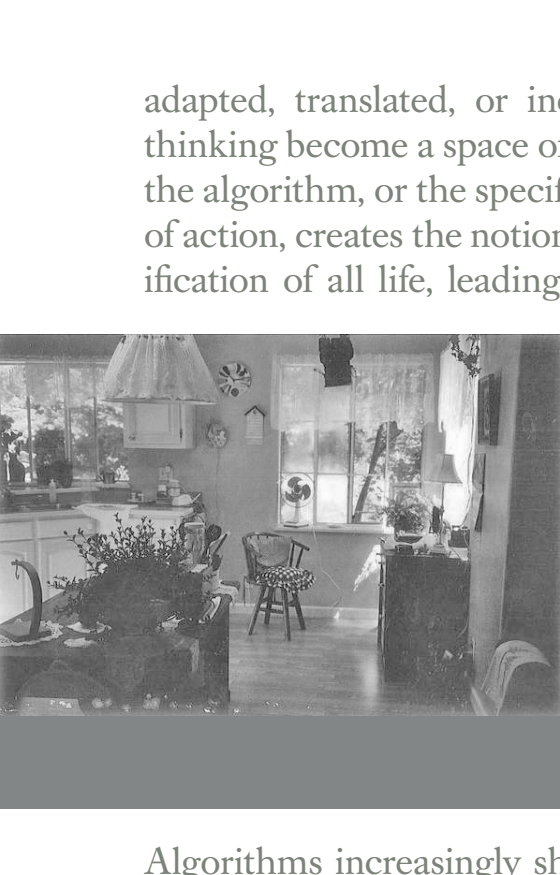

Cold air behind a stalled frontal boundary will combine with Gulf moisture resulting in snow, sleet and freezing rain across parts of the South and Southeast through midweek. In addition to heavy snow, there is a potential for dangerous ice accumulations from the lower Mississippi Valley into the Carolinas.

U.S. Attorney William J. Hochul, Jr. announced that Richard Bailey, 55, of Rochester, New York, who was convicted of distributing and receiving child pornography, was sentenced to 96 months in prison by U.S. District Court Judge Charles J. Siragusa.

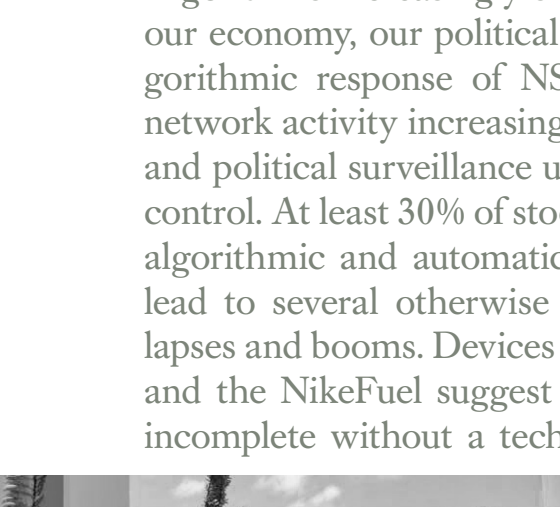

Assistant U.S. Attorney John J. Field, who handled the case, stated that Bailey used peer-to-peer software to obtain and distribute images of child pornography. The defendant avoided detection by stealing other people's wireless Internet connection to trade the child pornography. This conduct exposed people who were innocent of any wrongdoing to the risk of having search warrants executed on their homes.

As algorithms permeate our lived experience, the boundaries and borderlands of what can and cannot be adapted, translated, or incorporated into algorithmic thinking become a space of contention. The principle of the algorithm, or the specification of the potential space of action, creates the notion of a universal mode of specification of all life, leading to discourses on empowerment, efficiency, openness, and inclusivity. But algorithms are ultimately only able to make intelligible and valuable that which can be discretized, quantified, operationalized, proceduralized, and gamified, and this limited domain makes algorithms necessarily exclusive.

Algorithms increasingly shape our world, our thought, our economy, our political life, and our bodies. The algorithmic response of NSA networks to threatening network activity increasingly brings privacy and political surveillance under algorithmic control. At least 30% of stock trading is now algorithmic and automatic, having already lead to several otherwise inexplicable collapses and booms. Devices such as the Fitbit and the NikeFuel suggest that the body is incomplete without a technological supplement, treating ?health? as a quantifiable output dependent on quantifiable inputs. The logic of gamification, which finds increasing traction in educational and pedagogical contexts, asserts that the world is not only renderable as winnable or losable, but is in fact better "i.e. more effective" this way. The increased proliferation of how-to guides, from HGTV and DIY television to the LifeHack website, demonstrate a growing demand for approaching tasks with discrete algorithmic instructions.

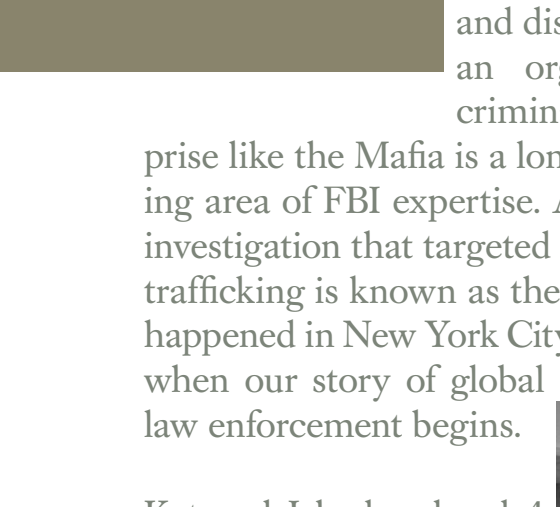

Italian criminal societies, known as the Mafia, pose broader and more complex threats to American society and beyond than ever before. Several groups of the Mafia--with about 3,000 members and affiliates--are active in the United States. Their largest presence is in New Jersey, Philadelphia, and New York.

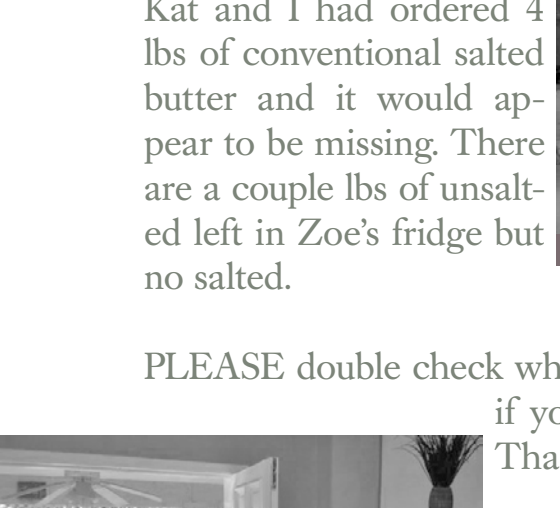

The Mafia manipulates and monopolizes financial markets and labor unions and is also involved in political corruption, murders, bombings, and drug trafficking. Industry experts in Italy estimate that their worldwide criminal activity is worth more than $100 billion annually.

Dismantling and disrupting an organized criminal enterprise like the Mafia is a longstanding area of FBI expertise. A major investigation that targeted Italian organized crime drug trafficking is known as the Pizza Connection. The case happened in New York City back in the '80s--and that is when our story of global law enforcement begins.

Kat and I had ordered 4 lbs of conventional salted butter and it would appear to be missing. There are a couple lbs of unsalted left in Zoe's fridge but no salted.

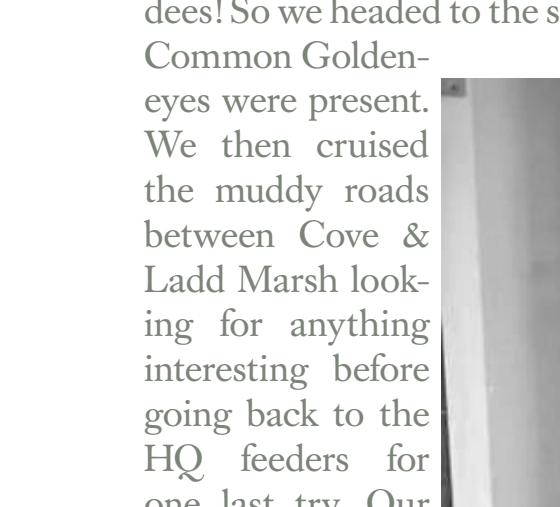

PLEASE double check what you took and let us know if you grabbed ours by mistake. Thank you!

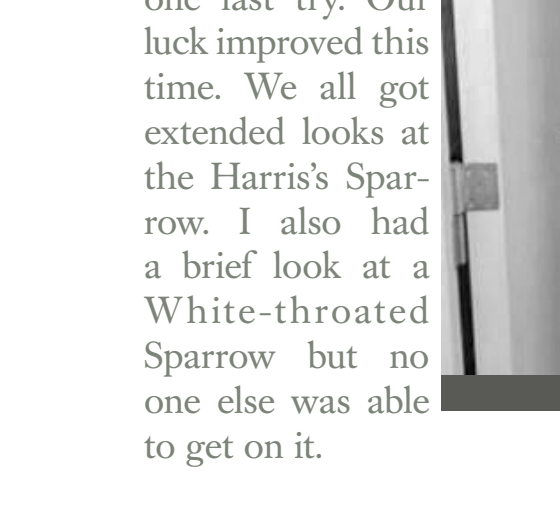

Noah Strycker, Anne Heyerly, & I arrived in La Grande mid morning on Saturday 2/15 & almost immediately (after a 5-minute search) found the RED-BELLIED WOODPECKER at the previously described Blackhawk Lane site just outside La Grande.

Trent Bray then had to update his sign on The Bobolink: "Red-bellied Woodpecker - 108 days". We cruised some neighborhoods in La Grande looking for any waxwings, but to no avail! We then visited the Ladd Marsh HQ feeders where only Noah got a brief look at a Harris's Sparrow that has been regular there. A Northern Shrike came through and then

ALL the birds left except for two Black-capped Chickadees! So we headed to the sewage ponds where a flock of Common Golden-eyes were present. We then cruised the muddy roads between Cove & Ladd Marsh looking for anything interesting before going back to the HQ feeders for one last try. Our luck improved this time. We all got extended looks at the Harris's Sparrow. I also had a brief look at a White-throated Sparrow but no one else was able to get on it.

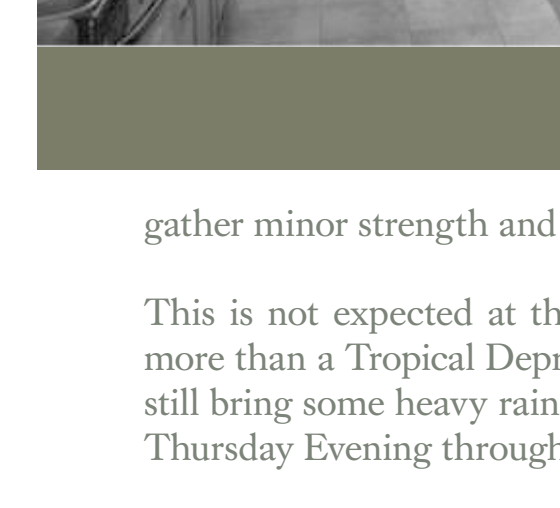

The tropics have been relatively calm for the past several weeks with our attentions geared to the north monitoring winter weather across China, Korea and Japan.

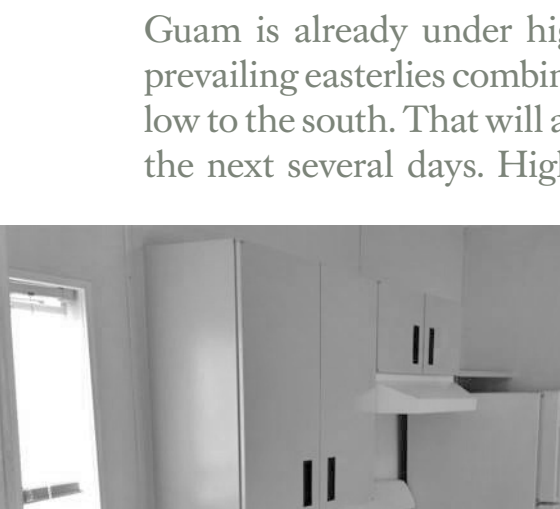

Although going through the rest of the week in to the weekend we may be seeing a change in that pattern as a new Low Pressure area now "invest 93W" starts to gather minor strength and flows north towards Guam.

This is not expected at this time to become anything more than a Tropical Depression near Guam but it will still bring some heavy rainfall across the island starting Thursday Evening through early next week.

Guam is already under high surf warnings due to the prevailing easterlies combined with the interaction of the low to the south. That will also be an issue going through the next several days. High waves and rip currents for those headed out to exposed shores on the east and north facing parts of the Mariana islands.

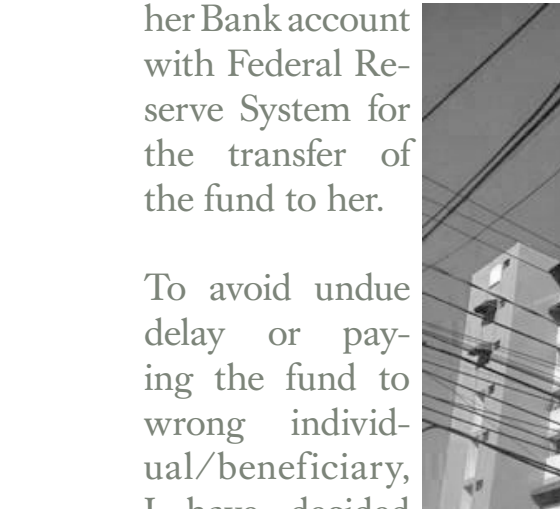

Good Day, I am Dr. Bright Ogu, of the newly inaugurated Committee in Cener Bank Nigeria. My committee has a mandate to recover unpaid debts associated with NNPC contracts, Lottery fund, inheritance fund, loans and grants etc ranging from $24.5M owed to various beneficiaries and companies across the globe (Asia, Europe, USA, Africa, and Australia) and submit the list of the unpaid beneficiaries/companies to the 2 appointed official paying Banks for immediate payment of the fund. With the accrued interest, the accrued interest will be disclosed to you when you confirm your data.

In the course of our investigation, your email address/particulars were short listed among the first fifteen individuals yet to be paid hence this email.

However, we received a petition today from one Mrs. Christina Morgan that you are dead. According to her, you died in a plane crash as such your fund should be paid to her as the apparent heir. She has also submitted her Bank Account with Federal Reserve System for the transfer of the fund to her.

To avoid undue delay or paying the fund to wrong individual/beneficiary, I have decided to contact you for confirmation. If I fail to hear from you after 72 hours, it will be assumed that the petition of Mrs. Morgan is true and the fund will be paid to her without further delay. Therefore, if you are still alive, reconfirm your particulars,

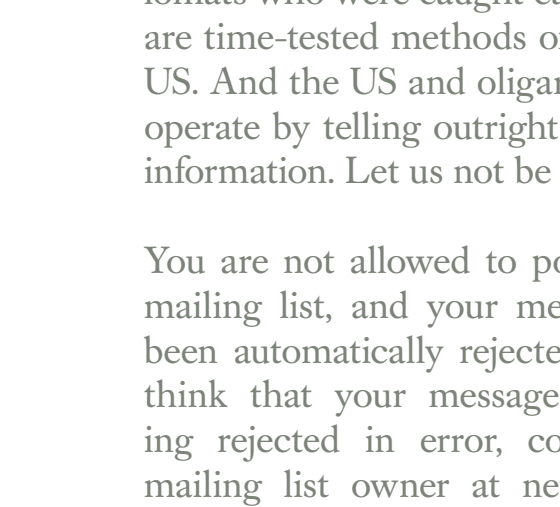

The wikileaks cable below from 2013 shows the depth of collaboration between private corporations and the US government to destabilize Chavez-Maduro government in Venezuela. This campaign is ongoing as seen in manipulation of the availability of goods and the destabilization of Venezuelan currency by the illegal influx of US dollars with the effects of manufactured scarcity and inflation that fuel unrest and as seen in the use of students to create opposition to President Maduro. In the last 6 months, Maduro has expelled 6 US diplomats who were caught causing these problems. These are time-tested methods of regime change used by the US. And the US and oligarchic media in Venezuela cooperate by telling outright lies and omitting important information. Let us not be fooled.

You are not allowed to post to this mailing list, and your message has been automatically rejected. If you think that your messages are being rejected in error, contact the mailing list owner at nettime-see-owner@nettime.org.

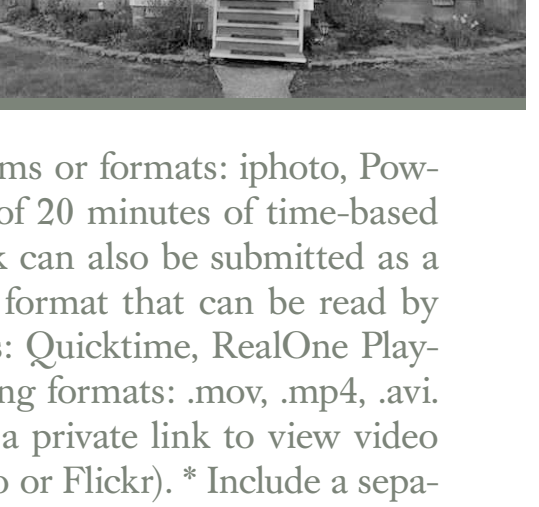

3. Support Material * a maximum of 20 images of current work related to your proposal. * Include a separate image list (titles, dimensions, dates, media). * JPEG files only * 1024 pixels wide and 768 pixels high. * 1 MB maximum. * RGB, or grayscale colour mode files only (no CMYK). * Number and title each file (digital still); the number must appear before the title so that the order of the images will correspond to the image list, example: 001RedPainting.jpg. * Do not submit images embedded in the following programs or formats: iphoto, Powerpoint. * a maximum of 20 minutes of time-based work. Time-based work can also be submitted as a computer-based media format that can be read by the following programs: Quicktime, RealOne Player, or are in the following formats: .mov, .mp4, .avi. (NOTE: you may send us a private link to view video samples on Youtube, Vimeo or Flickr). * Include a separate documentation list (title, length, year, medium).

Contemporary Canadian artists have long been required to become administrators (oppressive sycophants) in exchange for ready/exclusive survival validation -- has the internet provided the means for an effective cultural reparation?

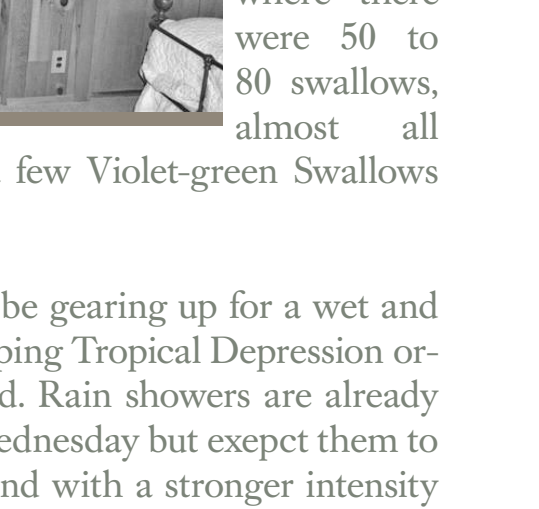

It was raining when we left, but we stopped at Pintail marsh, where there were 50 to 80 swallows, almost all

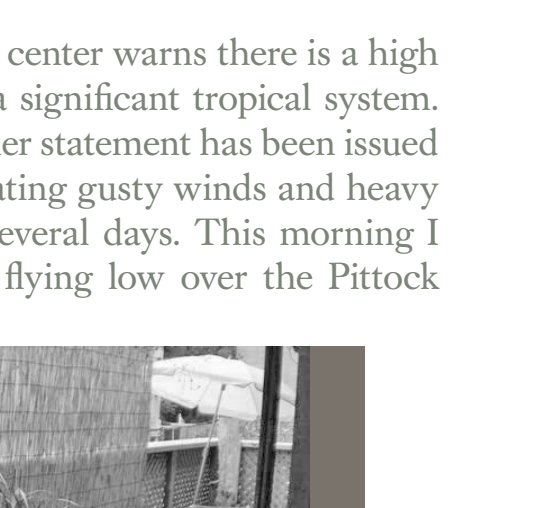

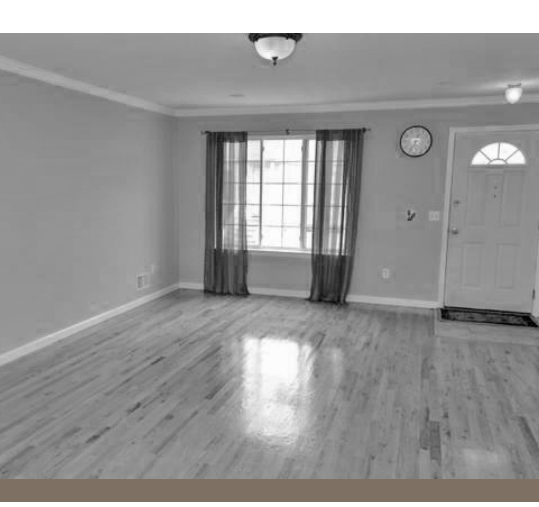

Tree Swallows, but with a few Violet-green Swallows mixed in.

Residents of Guam should be gearing up for a wet and windy weekend as a developing Tropical Depression organizing south of the island. Rain showers are already being felt in Guam on Wednesday but except them to become more frequent and with a stronger intensity through the weekend and in to the early part of the next week.

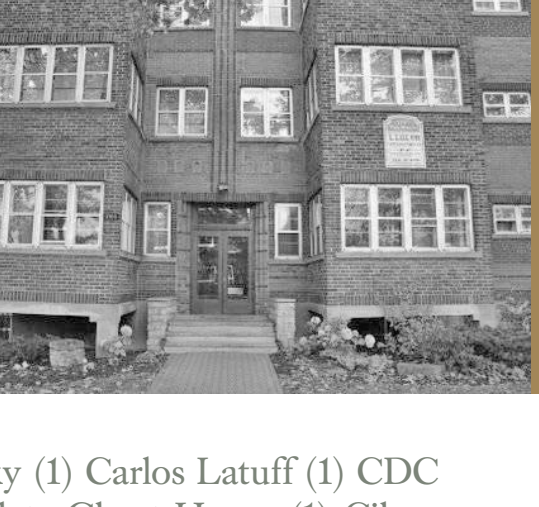

The tropical is currently gaining organization and as of writing this update has been upgraded to a Tropical Depression by JMA and the Joint Typhoon warning center warns there is a high risk of it developing in to a significant tropical system. At this time a special weather statement has been issued by the GUAM NWS indicating gusty winds and heavy rainfall through the next several days. This morning I saw a GOLDEN EAGLE flying low over the Pittock Mansion, heading SE. Huge size, all dark underneath, relatively small head and bill.

Alexandra Clotfelter (1) Andy Everson (1) ARRT (9) Artists vs Fracking (1) AshEl Eldridge (1) Backbone Campaign (7) Banksy (1) Beehive (5) Ben Zolno (1) Billy Bragg (1) bone2ART (1) Brian Cahall (1) Brian Ellis (1) Brian Tatosky (1) Carlos Latuff (1) CDC (1) Cesar Maxit (1) Chocolate Ghost House (1) Cihan Sesen (1) Clyde Gaw (2) Code Pink (3) Cori Redstone (1) Crystal Clarity (1) Dave Warren (2) David Loewenstein (1) David Rovics (4) David Solnit (1) Davide Martello (1) Dees Illustration (7) Diane Wittner (1) Earth Amplified (1) Earth Guardians (3) Emma's Revolution (1) Eric Drooker (9) Evan Greer (1) Favianna Rodriguez (3) FLAN (2) frAMED Crooks (1) Ground Zero (1) Guy Denning (2) Health Care is a Human Right (1) Iris (1) Jacquelyn Bond (1) Jared Davidson (1) Jenni Perez (1) Jenny Gonzalez-Blitz (1) Joan Baez (1) John Leavitt (1) Keith McHenry (1) Laura Lynch (1) Lmnopi (1) Lmnopi (2) Mac McGill (1) Makana (1) Mark Fiore (1) Marka27 (1) Michael Barczynski (2) Michael D'Antuono (1) Michel Gondry (1) Molly Crabapple (4)

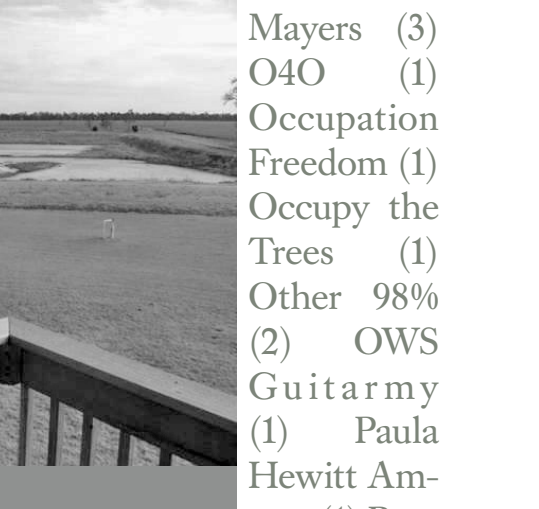

Natasha Mayers (3) O4O (1) Occupation Freedom (1) Occupy the Trees (1) Other 98% (2) OWS Guitarmy (1) Paula Hewitt Amram (1) People's Puppets (14) Puppet Underground (1) RAFTT (13) Ray Hernandez (1) Rebecca Migdal (1) Remi Kanazi (1) Reverend Billy (1) Rising Sun Dance Theater (1) Rivera Sun (1) Robert Shetterly (1) Rondall Snodgrass (2) Rooftop Revolutionaries (1) Rude Mechanical Orchestra (2) Ryan Harvey (2) Sabrina Jones (1) Serj Tankin (2) Seth Tobacman (4) Seth Tobocman (1) Sharee Anne Gorman (3) Stephen Fiske (1) Steve B.I.K.O. (1) Sue Siemsky Bietila (2) Taiji Dolphin Action Group (1) Tar Sands Blockade (2) Tatiana Makovkin (7) Terri Lloyd (1) The Coup (1) The Global Block Collective (1) The Illuminator (1) Tim McIlrath (1) Tom Morello (3) Tom Weis (1) United Workers (1) Veterans for Peace (2) Xico Gonzalez (1) Yes Men (1) yuumei (1)

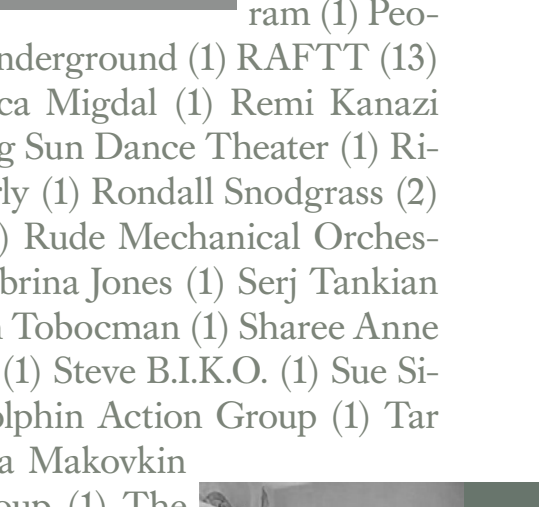

Metamorphoses is the first major monographic exhibition on Paul Gauguin (French, 1848-1903) ever presented at MoMA, and the first major exhibition to focus particularly on the artist's rare and extraordinary prints and transfer drawings and their relationship to his paintings and his sculptures.

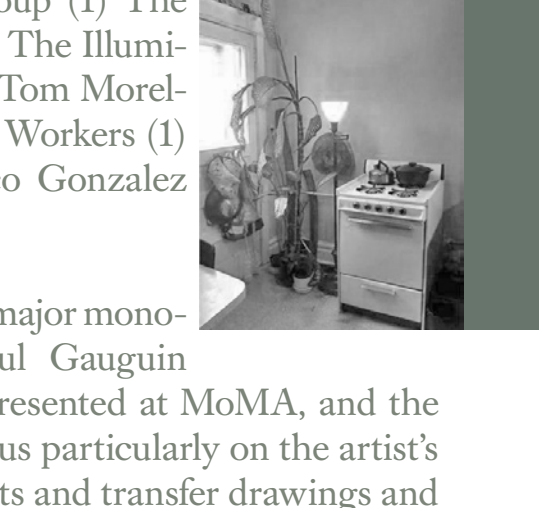

Approximately 160 works, including some 130 works on paper and a critical selection of some 30 related paintings and sculptures, are on view from March 8 through June 8, 2014, in The International Council of The Museum of Modern Art Special Exhibition Gallery. Featuring loans from many different collections national and international, public and private the exhibition offers an extraordinary opportunity to see these works brought together. Many have rarely if ever been shown in the United States.

Hoaxes in academia are nothing new. In 1996, mathematician Alan Sokal riled postmodernists by publishing a nonsense paper in the leading US journal, Social Text. It was laden with meaningless phrases but, as Sokal said, it sounded good to them. Other fields have not been immune. In 1964, critics of modern art were wowed by the work of Pierre Brassau, who turned out to be a four-year-old chimpanzee. In a more convoluted case, Bernard-Henri Lvy, one of France's best-known philosophers, was left to ponder his own expertise after quoting the lectures of Jean-Baptiste Botul as evidence that Kant was a fake, only to find out that Botul was the fake, an invention of a French reporter.

The 17-year-old trainee beautician, known as Teenie, woke up early, had breakfast and drove her 23-year-old husband Brent Miller to work. He was a guard at the notorious Angola prison in the state of Louisiana.

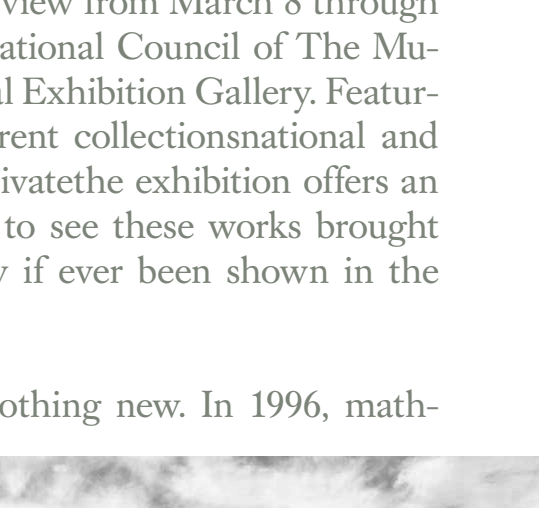

A few hours later, she was sitting in class at the beauty school, when her sister turned up out of the blue.

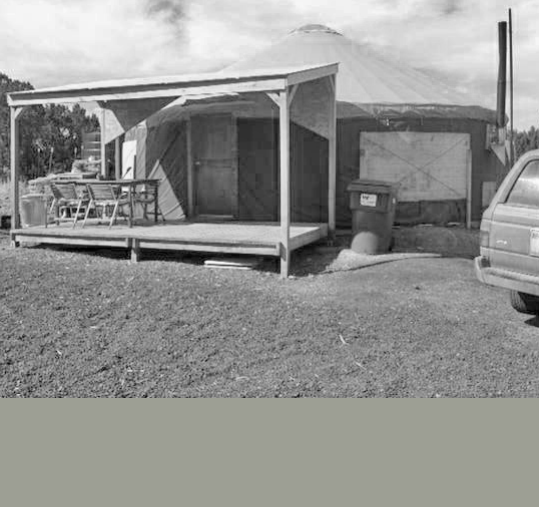

"There's been an accident. Brent is dead," she said.

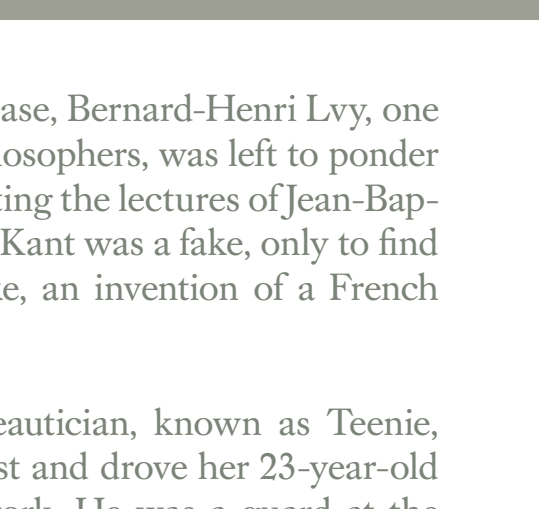

Teenie's world collapsed. The couple had been married for just three months. Brent had been found dead in a cell with multiple stab wounds.

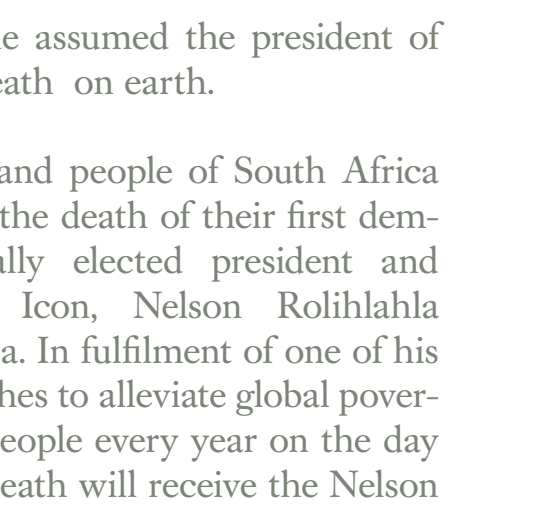

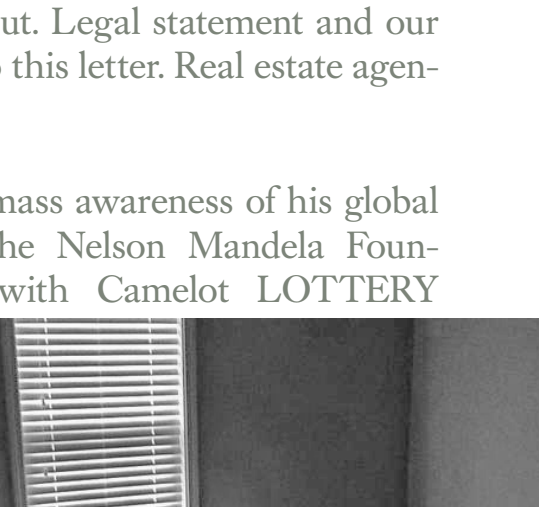

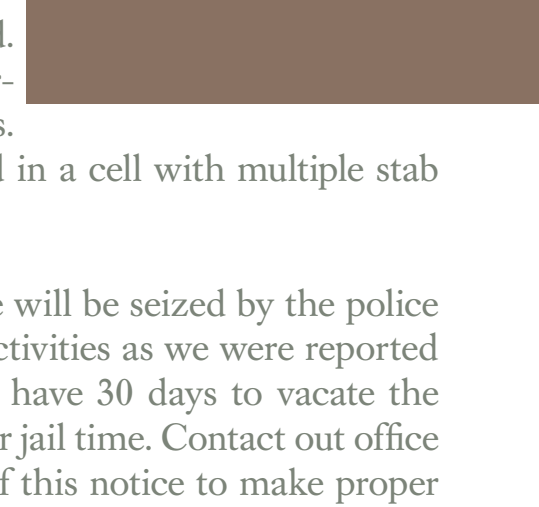

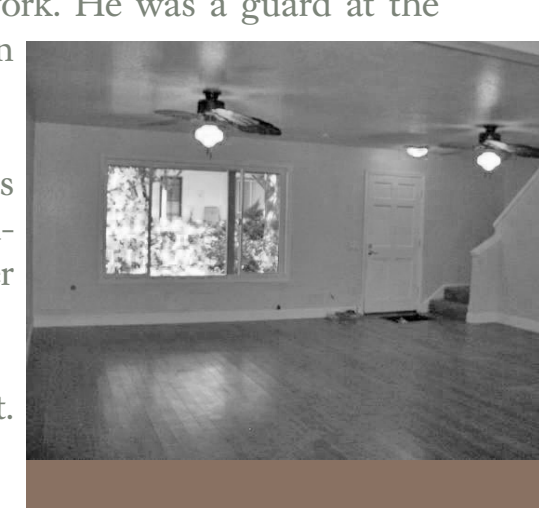

Eviction notice, Your home will be seized by the police under suspicion of illegal activities as we were reported yesterday. As a tenant you have 30 days to vacate the premises or will face fines or jail time. Contact our office immediately after receipt of this notice to make proper arrangements for a move out. Legal statement and our contact info are enclosed to this letter. Real estate agency, Isabella Mason

Towards creating general mass awareness of his global PEACE AWARENESS,(The Nelson Mandela Foundations) in conjunction with Camelot LOTTERY PROMOTIONS United Kingdom has organised a worldwide lottery program with the aim of giving back to the people of the world for their support and regard to our global icon Nelson Mandela towards his stand on global peace and poverty alleviation scheme which has been his slogan from the day he assumed the president of South Africa till his last breath on earth.

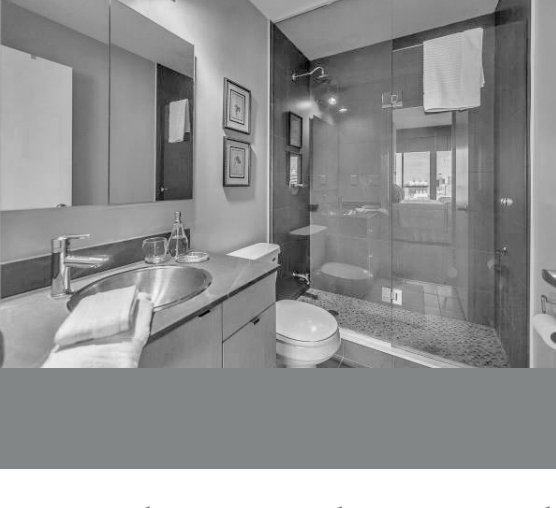

Thus, as the government and people of South Africa mourn the death of their first democratically elected president and Global Icon, Nelson Rolihlahla Mandela. In fulfilment of one of his last wishes to alleviate global poverty, 20 people every year on the day of his death will receive the Nelson Mandela Humanitarian Awards (NMHA).This awards took effect from January 2014 till the end of the year.

The prize awards was organised by the Camelot lottery promotion here in the United Kingdom and the Nelson Mandela Foundations Worldwide agreed to run this program through their London office as all the payments that will be made to all the winners has to come through their United Kingdom office in London with their of the paying banks. A stringent measure has also been taking to see that this program is not abused by unscrupulous agents who capitalised on it to ruin the good cause of Mr Nelson Mandela. Some investigations has equally been made to ascertain the level of decency that is required towards that. You read more of that through the link below.

Moreover, on this Note We are pleased to inform you that Your e-mail address attached to ticket number; 12457851245212 with serial number 24512-LK235, batch number B142/245874120KYT, LOTTERY REFERENCE

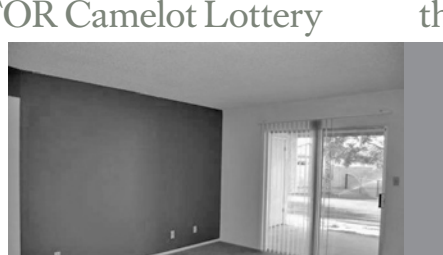

NUMBERS 452632 and drew from lucky numbers 58-7-27-46-47-69 was among the first 10 lucky winners in the 1st category of this program, So you have therefore been approved for a lump sum pay out of GBP1,000,000.00 only,(One Million British Pounds)payable in cash credited to file numbers; YHT/24586/2354/JPA.

Participants of this program were selected through a computer ballot system drawn from Microsoft users from company and individual email addresses users. All winning must be claimed not later than 21 working days from the time of notification. After this date all unclaimed funds will be returned to The Nelson Mandela Trust Funds as unclaimed Prizes. Please note, in order to avoid unnecessary delays and complications please remember to quote your reference number in all correspondence.To begin your claim process, please contact our UK paying agent immediately with the required informations on email

Congratulations from the staff, and thank you for being part of email account users of this program. Sincerely SUSAN DAVIES LOTTERY COORDINATOR Camelot Lottery

UK SOUTH PARK BUSINESS CENTRE 310 GREEN LANE, ILFORD, IG1 1XT, ESSEX. Phone:+44-703-197-5664

During the cyclonic season (November to April), you should check cyclone warnings shown in newspapers or broadcast by the radio or TV. There are three states of warning: * Vigilance cyclonic (cyclone watch): cyclonic risk in more than 24hrs, you should buy in advance enough food and water as well as batteries and candles; * Alerte orange (orange alert): cyclonic risk in the next 24hrs, schools are closed, avoid travel; * Alerte rouge (red alert): cyclonic risk in the next few hours, don't leave your current location and avoid using the phone, stay calm.

We are Obligated to announce to you the result of the just Concluded end monthly draws of the EuroMillions Lottery Online Promotion and your email was Among the 20 Lucky winners who won ^ 935,470.00 (NINE HUNDRED AND THIRTY FIVE THOUSAND FOUR HUNDRED AND SEVENTY EURO) each on the EuroMillions Lottery Promotion dated 04th 0f Feb-2014.

This is from the total prize money of the 42 Million Euros That will be shared Among the 20 lucky winners and you are extremely lucky to be one of the lucky winners, Therefore you are instantly qualified and eligible to receive a Total prize money of ^ 935,470.00 (NINE HUNDRED AND THIRTY FIVE THOUSAND FOUR HUNDRED AND SEVENTY EURO) Following the results we released Yesterday and your email is attached to Reference Number [DB-77182-ESP] Batch Number: (717/DC/91) Ticket Number (343-221 - 8756) and Ballot Serial Number (454-17) and Lucky Star Number (03) (07) Among Others. The online draws was Conducted by a random selection of email addresses from an exclusive list of 290.600 E-mail addresses of Individuals and corporate bodies picked by an advanced automated random computer search from the Internet. However, no tickets sold but all email Were Were Assigned addresses to different ticket numbers for representation and privacy. The selection process was Carried out through random selection of our computerized email selection machine (TOPAZ) from a database of over 290,000 email addresses drawn from all the Continents.

This Lottery program was duly approved by the spanish National Lottery and Also Licensed by the The International Association of Gaming Regulators (IAGR). This lottery is the 3rd of its kind and we Intend to sensitize the public generally of this wonderful initiative. As Indicated by the computerized selection machine, your Lucky Star Numbers Europe falls Within Our Fiduciary Agent in Madrid -Spain and for your security, you are advised to keep your winning details private until your claim is processed and your prize money remitted to you in whatever Manner you deem fit. Please remember to quote your Reference and ticket numbers as above, in every correspondence with us, or your Agent. Furthermore Remember That your agent will be paid 5% of the prize award as Their commission, after You have received your money in your payment option Designated Chosen by you. You are required to call Assigned your agent for confirmation of your winning. To claim your prize money, kindly fill the form below and forward same to our Fiduciary Agent for end verification, afterward you will be directed to the paying bank where a check of ^ 935,470.00 (NINE HUNDRED AND THIRTY FIVE THOUSAND FOUR HUNDRED AND SEVENTY EURO) 've Already been deposited in your menu.

To begin your lottery claims, please contact your agent, Dr.Pedro Sanchez, THE FOREIGN SERVICE MANAGER, FINANCE AND INSURANCE GROUP SA INFINITY ON TEL: (+34) 604-162-688, FAX: (+34) 935-504-317,

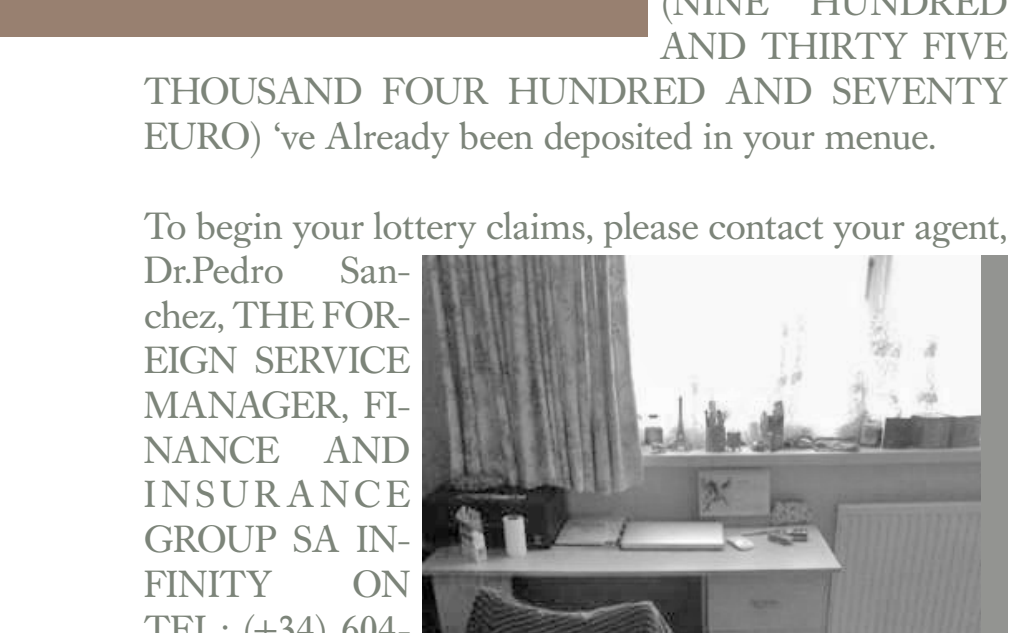

Contact Person: Dr. Pedro Sanchez Contact E-mail address

onlinepromo97@latinmail.com Telephone Number: (+34) 604-162-688, Fax Number: (+34) 935-504-317,

It is worthy of note to keep your winning details away from the public generally, Especially your Lucky Star Number to avoid any discrepancies as EuroMillions Shall not be held responsible of any false claims and its Consequences.

The entire staffs and Management Team of the Euro-

Millions Online Lottery Promotion wish to congratulate you for this lucky jackpot and please spend the money prudently. GOOD LUCK!

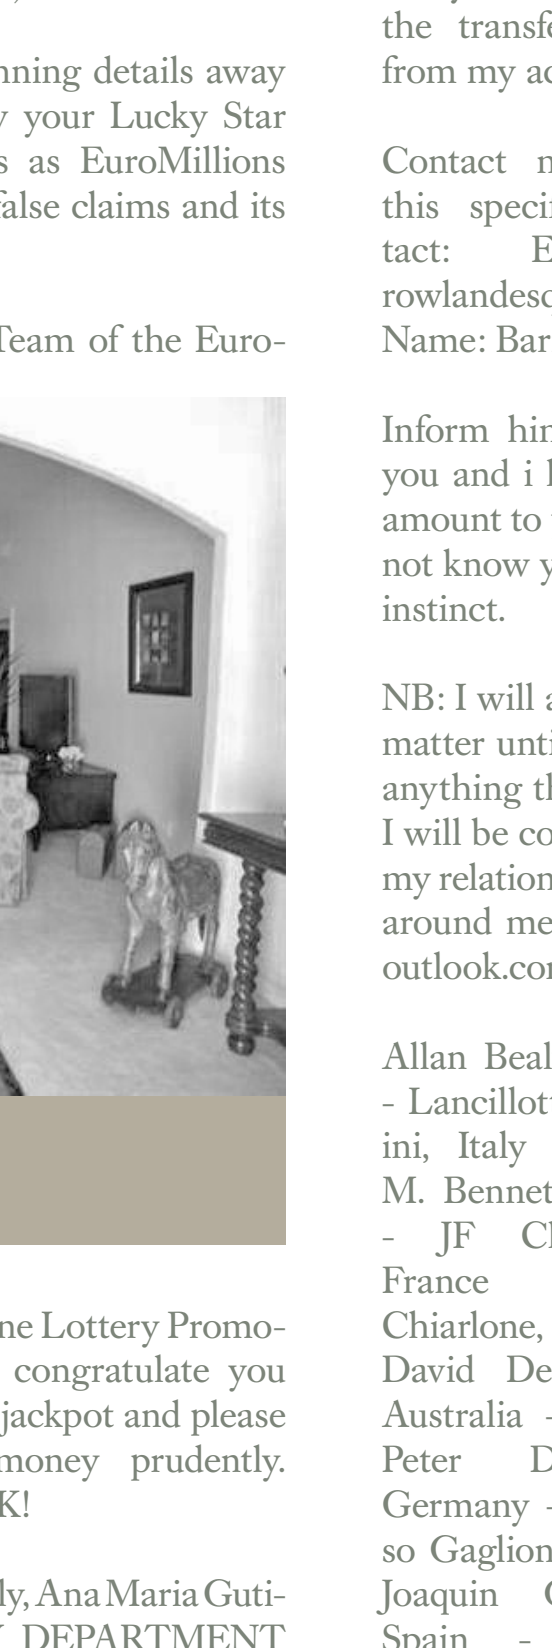

Yours faithfully, Ana Maria Gutierrez HEAD, ONLINE LOTTERY DEPARTMENT THE LOTTERY PROMOTION EUROMILLIONS

All trademarks and registered trademarks are the property of Their respective owners.Copyright 2010-2013-2014. All rights reserved.

In Los Angeles and the sprawling metropolitan area that surrounds the city, there are approximately 800 different gangs, each of them engaged in various levels of violence and criminal activity. To counter the threat, the

1. I wish I'd had the courage to live a life true to myself, not the life others expected of me. 2. I wish I didn't

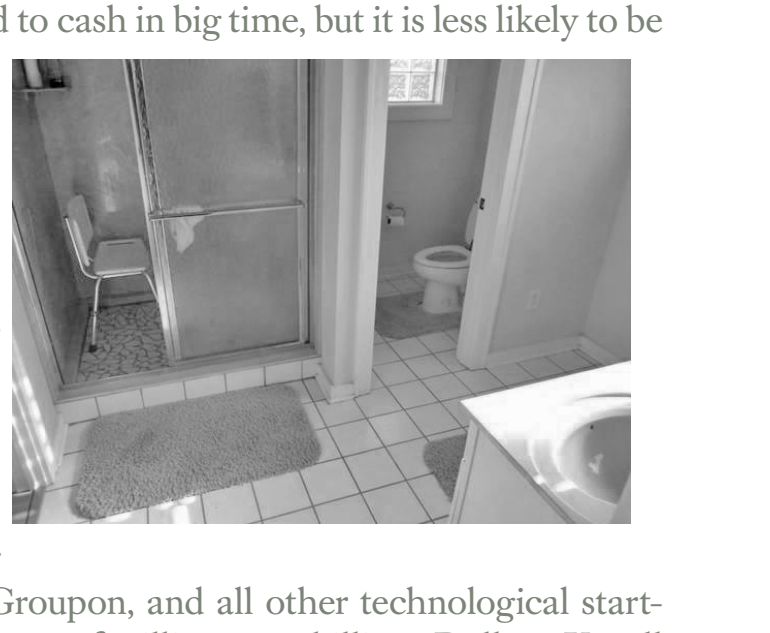

FBI partners with local and state law enforcement organizations and numerous federal agencies. Through a variety of task forces and intelligence platforms, the goal is to leverage all of law enforcement's resources to dismantle the worst gangs from the top down.

Facebook manages to skirt even the most minimal of financial controls. The firm's valuation is six times profits (only two times for Google), and it has accumulated half a billion dollars in cash so it can indulge in new, fancy take-overs. Fact is, that Goldman Sachs was able to finance Facebook out of its own debts (just six month before investing, Goldman Sachs had to fork out $ 550m on settling a case of fraudulent misconduct), and this by luring investors with a prospective IPO of Facebook. When Facebook finally came to Wall Street, it was valued at $ 115bn. Call it a great bargain for those early investors, who're bound to cash in big time, but it is less likely to be a sweat deal for the small investors, as such astro-nomic valuations are fast on their way to cause a phenomenal financial bubble. Early financing for Twitter, Groupon, and all other technological start-ups was a matter of millions, not billions Dollars. Yet all the same, the mechanism which made it possible to milk colossal profits out of 2.0 start-ups' IPOs has begun showing serious structural strains.

This is well illustrated in the analysis of post-IPO transactions in Linkedin (May 2011) and Groupon (November 2012) shares, which (we take as) early signs of the impending collapse of Facebook (###*). The two aforementioned firms had something of a rocky round on the stock exchange, especially Groupon, which had carried out the most important financial operation in the technology sector since Google's IPO in 2004. And soon after the 180 days anti-speculation delay before which trades were not allowed, Linkedin shares also went South, big time. Meanwhile, Groupon shares' devaluation had started right after the IPO, as if the boom-bust (or creation-evaluation-investment-profit-taking) cycle had suddenly accelerated yet again.

Little more than a week after 9/11, Cofer Black gave instructions to his CIA team before their mission. "I don't want Bin Laden and his thugs captured, I want them dead. I want to see photos of their heads on pikes. I want Bin Laden's head shipped back in a box filled with dry ice. I want to show Bin Laden's head to the president. I promised him I would do that."

A storm system tracking across the Deep South will draw moisture northward into unseasonable cold air across the Ohio Valley, central Appalachians and mid-Atlantic setting the stage for late-season snow. Winter Storm Warnings and Winter Weather Advisories are in effect across this region through Monday. Hazardous travel is expected overnight into Monday when roads will be snow-covered.

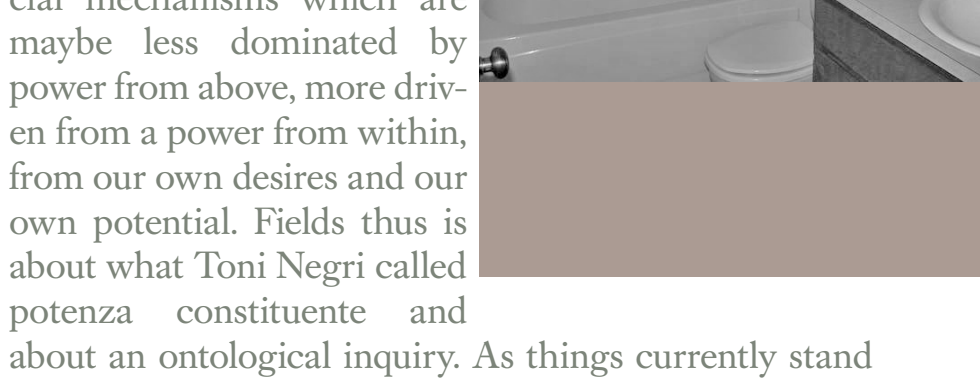

Art produces projections of a different social reality, where the forces of nature are used in new and imaginative ways and in combination with social mechanisms which are maybe less dominated by power from above, more driven from a power from within, from our own desires and our own potential. Fields thus is about what Toni Negri called potenza costituente and about an ontological inquiry. As things currently stand those activities and propositions presented in Fields are quite marginal. However, the big hope is that despite all the forces that are focused on preventing any real change from happening, the power of the multitude would aggregate all those desires and suddenly acquire critical mass, This is one of the characteristics of network society. We don't need to ask permission to change the world, we don't need to look to the state or corporations to do it for us, we can start right now, through or own critical and constructive inquiries. And if that resonates with other people it can go viral, and you suddenly have a new movement (or at least a trending hash-tag).

Last night, at Art Walk, we had two major sales. Art Walk doesn't always generate sales, so it is exciting to see sales at the weekly event. These sales were even more important, however, because they marked the end of a sales slump. Even though we are in the middle of our high season, we had almost ten days without a sale.

If you've been in the art business for any length of time, you've probably experienced a slump yourself. I'm not talking about an overall drop in the market (like the one we've been through for the last five or six years), nor am

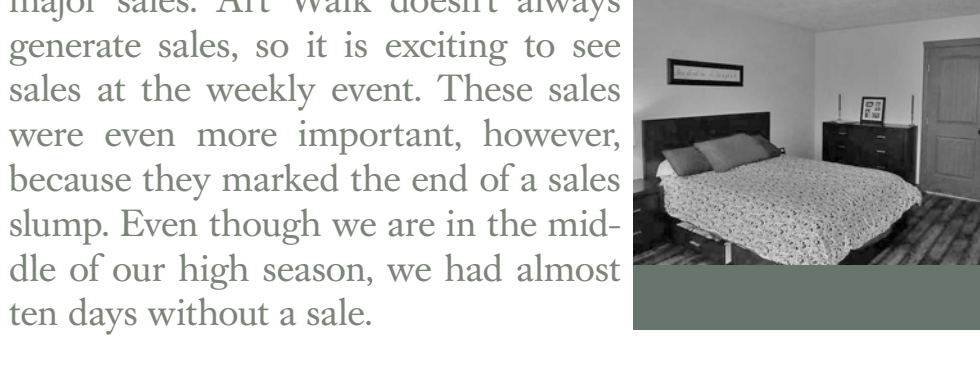

I'm talking about a general lack of exposure and sales opportunities. Those are different issues altogether. What I'm talking about is a sudden decline (or disappearance!) of sales when things had been humming along and sales had been coming at a steady pace.

Dear Sir/Madam, Peace of the lord be with you.

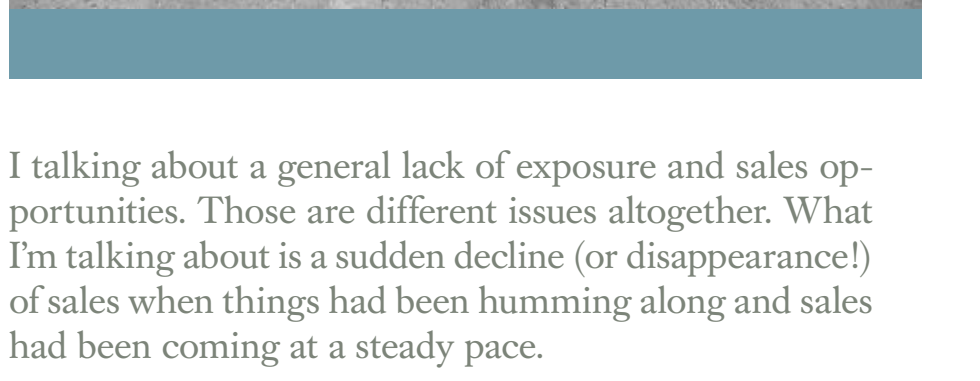

After going through your profile, i decided to contact you for assistance and distribution of my inheritance.

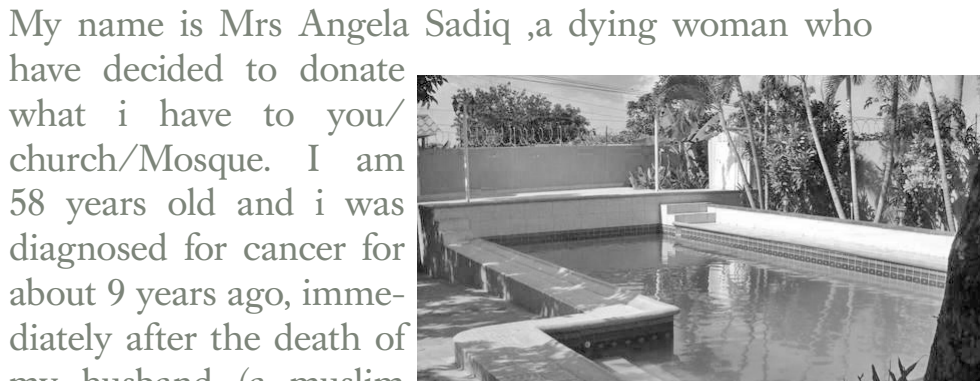

My name is Mrs Angela Sadiq ,a dying woman who have decided to donate what i have to you/ church/Mosque. I am 58 years old and i was diagnosed for cancer for about 9 years ago, immediately after the death of my husband (a muslim man) who lived all his life in Australia, who has left me everything he worked for.

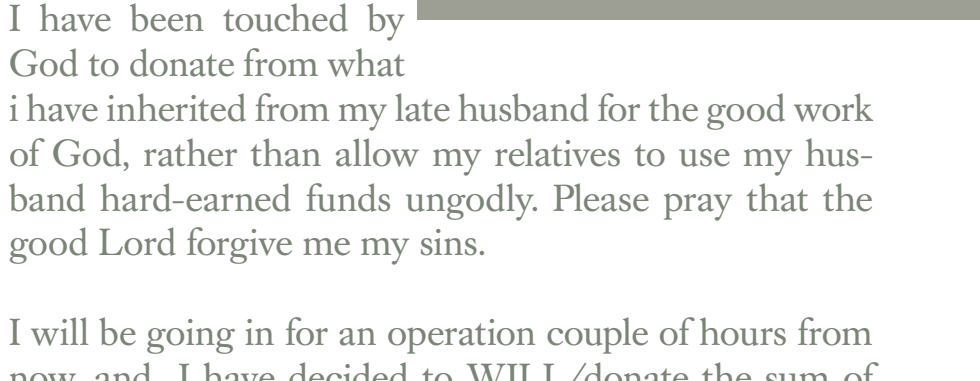

I have been touched by God to donate from what i have inherited from my late husband for the good work of God, rather than allow my relatives to use my husband hard-earned funds ungodly. Please pray that the good Lord forgive me my sins.

I will be going in for an operation couple of hours from now, and I have decided to WILL/donate the sum of $5,500,000 to you for the good work of the lord, and to help the motherless and less privilege and for the assistance of the widows.

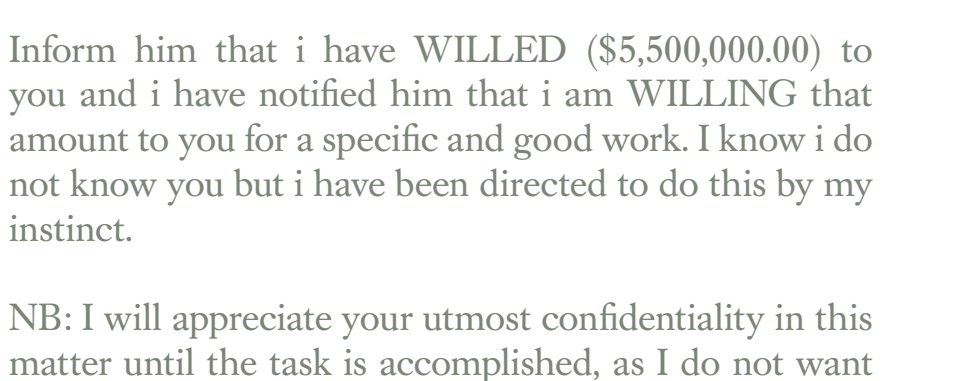

Now i cannot take any telephone calls right now because my relatives are around me. I have adjusted my WILL and my lawyer is aware i have changed my will you and he will arrange the transfer of the funds from my account to you.

Contact my lawyer with this specified email contact: Email: denise.rowlandesq@aol.com deniserowlandlaw@aol.com Name: Barrister Denise Rowland (Esq)

Inform him that i have WILLED ($5,500,000.00) to you and i have notified him that i am WILLING that amount to you for a specific and good work. I know i do not know you but i have been directed to do this by my instinct.

NB: I will appreciate your utmost confidentiality in this matter until the task is accomplished, as I do not want anything that will jeopardize my last wish. In addition, I will be contacting with you by email, as I do not want my relation or anybody to know because they are always around me. Regards, Angela Sadiq (Mrs.) angelaadq@outlook.com work so hard. 3. I wish I'd had the courage to express my feelings. 4. I wish I had stayed in touch with my friends. 5. I wish that I had let myself be happier.

Allan Bell, USA - Lancillotto Bellini, Italy - John M. Bennett, USA - Jeff Chapelle, France Bruno Chialone, Italy - David Dellafiora, Australia - Klaus Peter Dencker, Germany - Picaso Gaglione, USA Joaquin Gomez, Spain - Klaus Groh, Germany - Jennie Hinchcliff, USA - Richard Kostelanetz, USA Mikula Luellwitz, Germany - Serse Luigi, Italy - Leo Morrissey, USA - Juergen Olsrich, Germany - Talyo Restrepo, Columbia - Antonio Sarru, Italy - Skooter, USA - Litsa Spathi, Netherlands Pete Spence, Australia - Carol Stetser, USA - Richard Tipping, Australia.

A powerful storm will move up the Atlantic coast through Wednesday. While the bulk of the precipitation will be offshore, the system is expected to bring snow, heavy at times, and gusty winds to parts of coastal New England through Wednesday. A Blizzard Warning is in effect for Cape Cod, Martha's Vineyard, Nantucket and parts of eastern Maine.

A resident of Blairsville, Pennsylvania has been sentenced in federal court to 240 months in prison, followed by lifetime supervised release, on his conviction of sexually exploiting children by producing sexually explicit images, United States Attorney David J. Hickton announced today.

United States District Judge Nora Barry Fischer imposed the sentence on Charles Joseph Payson, 46. According to information presented to the court, an online undercover investigation detected Payson using a neighbor's wireless Internet connection to distribute sexually explicit images of children online.

Following the seizure of computers and cameras from Payson's home, investigators recovered sexually explicit images of prepubescent children, some of which had been produced by Payson.

Assistant United States Attorney Soo C. Song prosecuted this case on behalf of the government.

The Indiana County District Attorney's Office, together with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, conducted the investigation that led to the prosecution of Payson.

Influential thinkers: *Theodor Adorno * Louis Althusser * Alain Badiou * Roland Barthes * Jean Baudrillard * Walter Benjamin * Lauren Berlant * Judith Butler * Helene Cixous * Gilles Deleuze * Jacques Derrida * Frantz Fanon * Michel Foucault * Erich Fromm * Jrgen Habermas * Donna Haraway * Luce Irigaray * Julia Kristeva * Jacques Lacan * Bruno Latour * Herbert Marcuse * Chantal Mouffe * Edward Said * Eve Sedgwick * Gayatri Spivak * Slavoj Zizek

Another round of weather is expected to bring rain and snow to portions of the Western U.S. on Tuesday.

For most areas near the coastline, rain is expected with up to an inch possible in some spots. For elevations above 3500 feet, snow is expected with up to a foot possible in the highest elevations.

Good day Gabriel I am creative, energetic and cheerful girl. I like to make my days bright, I like to surround myself with new and interesting people www.azura.in.ua/ I like to learn and read a lot. I dream of meeting a man who is ambitious, determined, who knows how to treat a woman. I would like to have a nice, cosy home, have opportunity to travel and see the world together with my beloved man. Make my heart beat fast with your words Felicia

If kids grow kale, kids eat kale. If they grow tomatoes, they eat tomatoes. But when none of this is presented to them, if they're not shown how food affects the mind and the body, they blindly eat whatever you put in front of them.

Kevin S. Kolb, 47, of Fairview, Tennessee, pleaded guilty today in U.S. District Court in Nashville to five counts of production of child pornography, announced David Rivera, United States Attorney for the Middle District of Tennessee. According to testimony at the plea hearing, Kolb took sexually explicit images of a young girl, while in his care, when she was between the age of 7 and 10 years old. Kolb distributed these images via the Internet, and investigators also found approximately 600 sexually explicit images and 12 videos of child pornography in Kolb's possession.

Kolb faces a mandatory minimum sentence of 15 years in prison and up to 150 years for these crimes. Sentencing is scheduled for June 23, 2014, before U.S. District Court Judge Aleta Trauger.

This matter was investigated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and the United States is represented by Assistant U.S. Attorney S. Carran Daughtrey.

2/5 Sterling St. (1 minute walk) Exit the station from the left stairwell, cross Sterling St., and walk 1 block (same direction as the one way auto traffic) along Nostrand Ave. to Lefferts Ave. Cross Lefferts, turn right. 292 is the 6th row house (small tree on sidewalk in front, smaller dogwood tree in garden in front). Main floor, bottom buzzer.

B/Q/S Prospect Park (10 minute walk) Step 1: Exit the Manhattan end of the train on to Flatbush and walk right to the light for Lefferts Ave OR exit the Coney Island end of the train to Lincoln Rd, turn left, turn left on Flatbush, and walk to the light for Lefferts Ave. Step 2: cross Flatbush on the gas station side of Lefferts Ave and walk along Lefferts past Washington Ave and then past Bedford Ave, Rogers Ave, finally arriving at 292 Lefferts, 6 row houses before you get to Nostrand Ave. We are Leading Online Marketing company offering full spectrum of Website Design, SEO & Email Marketing services. We have been able to initiate and formulate internationally acknowledged processes to our clients in USA, UK, Australia, Germany, Italy, Middle East, Canada, Spain and more than 70+ countries with a strong team having vast industrial experience in bespoke technologies and the skill to handle global clients.

Impacts of anthropogenic climatic change are observed worldwide and have been linked to observed climate using rigorous methods. Such impacts have occurred in many ecosystems on land and in the ocean, in glaciers and rivers, and they concern food production and the livelihoods of people in developing countries. Many changes occur in combination with other environmental problems (such as urbanization, air pollution, biodiversity loss), but the role of climate change for them emerges more clearly than before.

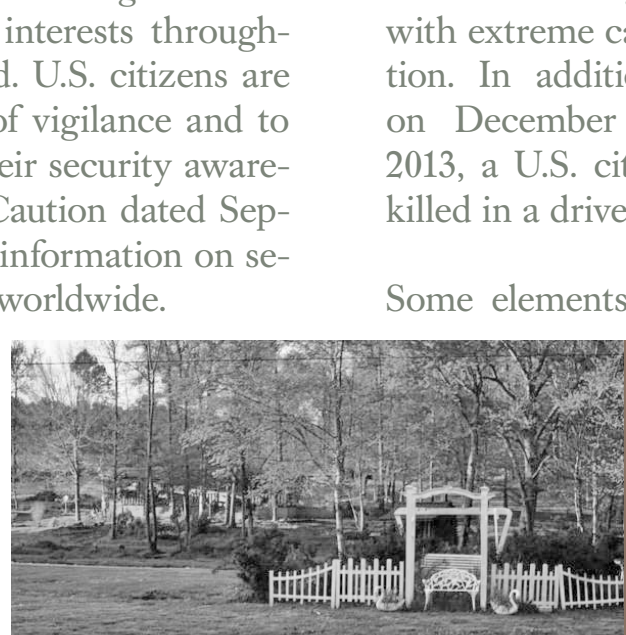

I'm Melissa from Italy and I'm travelling through South America without setting plans, living and enjoying of life day by day and everyday!! I spent more than a month in Brasil and now I'm in Paraguay! I think to go then to brasil again (porto alegre) to go down until uruguay and then argentina until the end of the world!!!! :)

but as I told you before no scheduled plans ;) If someone wants to join me, even for one day/ one bier, one story to share with, I'd be happy!! ;) Now my number in Paraguay is +595986667708 and whatsapp is on! ;) Hope to see you somewhere!! Besos Mel

The Department of State has issued this Worldwide Caution to update information on the continuing threat of terrorist actions and violence against U.S. citizens and interests throughout the world. U.S. citizens are reminded to maintain a high level of vigilance and to take appropriate steps to increase their security awareness. This replaces the Worldwide Caution dated September 25, 2013, to provide updated information on security threats and terrorist activities worldwide.

The Department of State remains concerned about the continued threat of terrorist attacks, demonstrations, and other violent actions against U.S. citizens and interests overseas. Kidnappings and hostage events involving U.S. citizens have become increasingly prevalent as al-Qa'ida and its affiliates have increased attempts to finance their operations through kidnapping for ransom operations. Al-Qa'ida in the Arabian Peninsula (AQAP) and al-Qa'ida in the Islamic Maghreb (AQIM) are particularly effective with kidnapping for ransom and are using ransom money to fund the range of their activities. Kidnapping targets are usually Western citizens from governments or third parties that have established a pattern of paying ransoms for the release of individuals in custody. Current information suggests that al-Qa'ida, its affiliated organizations, and other terrorist groups continue to plan and encourage kidnappings of U.S. citizens and Westerners. U.S. citizens should closely monitor Travel Warnings and Alerts, as well as Country Specific Information, on the Department of State's travel website to review the latest safety and security information for destination countries. Information also suggests that al-Qa'ida and its affiliated organizations continue to plan terrorist attacks against U.S. interests in multiple regions, including Europe, Asia, Africa, and the Middle East. These attacks may employ a wide variety of tactics including suicide operations, assassinations, kidnappings, hijackings, and bombings.

Extremists may elect to use conventional or non-conventional weapons, and target both official and private interests. Examples of such targets include high-profile sporting events, residential areas, business offices, hotels, clubs, restaurants, places of worship, schools, public areas, shopping malls, and other tourist destinations both in the United States and abroad where U.S. citizens gather in large numbers, including during holidays.

In early August 2013, the Department of State instructed certain U.S. embassies and consulates to remain closed or to suspend operations August 4 through August 10 because of security information received. The U.S. government took these precautionary steps out of an abundance of caution and care for our employees and others who may have planned to visit our installations.

U.S. citizens are reminded of the potential for terrorist to attack public transportation systems and other tourist infrastructure. Extremists have targeted and attempted attacks on subway and rail systems, aviation, and maritime services. In the past, these types of attacks have occurred in cities such as Moscow, London, Madrid, Glasgow, and New York City.

EUROPE: Current information suggests that al-Qa'ida, its affiliated organizations, and other terrorist groups continue to plan terrorist attacks against U.S. and Western interests in Europe. Additionally, there is a continuing threat in Europe from unaffiliated persons planning attacks inspired by major terrorist organizations but conducted on an individual basis. In the past several years, organized extremist attacks have been planned or carried out in various European countries. In October 2013 and twice in December 2013, suicide bombers targeted mass transportation in Volgograd, Russia, killing at least 70 people. In May 2013, in London, two Islamic extremists, unaffiliated with any group, killed a British soldier. The reported reason for the attack was to avenge the deaths of Muslims killed by British soldiers. On February 1, 2013, an individual detonated a bomb at a side entrance to the U.S. Embassy in Ankara, killing one Embassy guard and injuring others. The Revolutionary People's Liberation Party/Front (Devrimci Halk Kurtulus Partisi/ Cephesi or DHKP/C) claimed responsibility on its website for the attack. The DHKP/C has stated its intention to commit further attacks against the United States, NATO, and Turkey. European governments have taken action to guard against terrorist attacks, and some have made official declarations regarding heightened threat conditions.

MIDDLE EAST and NORTH AFRICA: Credible information indicates terrorist groups also seek to continue attacks against U.S. interests in the Middle East and North Africa. The U.S. government remains highly concerned about possible attacks against U.S. citizens, facilities, businesses, and perceived U.S. and Western interests. Terrorist organizations continue to be active in Yemen, including al-Qa'ida in the Arabian Peninsula (AQAP). Security threat levels remain high in Yemen due to terrorist activities and civil unrest.

A number of extremist groups operate in Lebanon. As a result of spillover violence from the Syria crisis, Sunni groups are active and Hizballah, a group designated by the U.S. government as a terrorist organization, is also present. Sunni extremists have escalated the frequency and scope of indiscriminate bombings and small arms attacks against Lebanese Shia targets in Beirut, in addition to other locations throughout the country including Hermel and Aarsal in eastern Lebanon. Other incidents, sometimes attributed to sectarian retaliatory actions, have occurred along the coast in Sidon and in Tripoli in northern Lebanon. Many of the attacks have targeted specific individuals or venues, but in all cases have resulted in death and harm to passersby in the vicinity. Although there is no evidence these attacks were directed specifically at U.S. citizens at this time, there is a real possibility of "wrong place, wrong time" harm to U.S. citizens. On February 19, twin suicide car bombings targeting the Iranian Cultural Center in a southern Beirut suburb killed at least seven people and wounded over 128 others. The al-Qa'ida-linked Abdallah Azzam Brigades claimed responsibility for the attack. The same group also claimed responsibility for a double suicide bombing on November 19, 2013 that targeted the Iranian Embassy in south Beirut, which left at least 25 dead, and 150 injured. On December 27, 2013, a car bomb in downtown Beirut killed former Finance Minister Mohammad Chatah, and seven others, while injuring more than 70.

Iraq is experiencing levels of violence not seen since 2007, and Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant (ISIL, formerly known as al-Qa'ida in Iraq (AQI)), is increasingly resurgent. Although U.S. interests have not been targeted directly, the threat of attacks against U.S. citizens, including kidnapping and terrorist violence, continues, even in Baghdad's International Zone. Bahrain continues to see bouts of sectarian violence, with Shi'a insurgents conducting increasingly lethal IED attacks against Bahraini Government targets to include facilities and security forces. Al-Qa'ida in the Lands of the Islamic Maghreb (AQIM) and its affiliates are active throughout North Africa. In Algeria, terrorists sporadically attack Westerners and Algerian government targets, particularly in the Kabylie region, and near Algeria's borders with Libya and Mali. Terrorists have targeted oil processing plants in Algeria, Saudi Arabia, and Yemen. In Libya, various groups have called for attacks against U.S. citizens and U.S. interests. For instance, in October and December 2013, extremist groups in Libya made specific threats against U.S. government officials and U.S. non-governmental organizations (NGOs) operating in Libya. Because of the presumption that foreigners, especially U.S. citizens, in Libya may be associated with the U.S. government or U.S. NGOs, travelers should be aware that they may be targeted by extremist groups seeking to injure or kill U.S. citizens, and should act accordingly with extreme caution. In addition, on December 5, 2013, a U.S. citizen teacher resident in Benghazi was killed in a drive-by shooting near his home.

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware that there may be a more aggressive focus by the Iranian government on terrorist activity against U.S. citizens. Continuing political and social unrest in Egypt has led to large demonstrations that have turned violent. No

Some elements in Iran remain hostile to the United States. U.S. citizens should remain cautious and be aware

part of Syria should be considered immune from violence, and throughout the country the potential exists for unpredictable and hostile acts, including kidnappings, sniper assaults, large and small-scale bombings, and chemical attacks, as well as arbitrary arrest, detention, and torture. There is also Hamah, Dara, Homs, Idlib, and Dayr al-Zawr. Public places, such as government buildings, shopping areas, and open spaces, have been targeted. Since the start of the uprising against Syrian President Bashar al-Assad's regime in March 2011, the United States has received reports of 256 foreigners kidnapped in Syria, 80 of whom are still in captivity. The majority of the victims are journalists and aid workers.

AFRICA: A number of al-Qa'ida operatives and other extremists are believed to be operating in and around Africa. In February 2012, the emir of U.S.-designated Foreign Terrorist Organization al-Shabaab and al-Qa'ida's leader, Ayman al-Zawahiri, announced the alliance of the two organizations. Al-Shabaab has taken credit for the attack on the shopping mall in Nairobi, Kenya on September 21, 2013, which claimed the lives of over 60 people and injured over a hundred more, including U.S. citizens. In the past year and a half, there have been numerous other attacks involving shootings, grenades, or explosive devices in Kenya. Over 100 people died in these attacks, and more than 200 people were injured. No U.S. citizens were among the casualties. Fourteen grenade and improvised explosive device (IED) attacks have occurred in Nairobi, illustrating an increase in the number of attacks and an advance in the sophistication of attacks.

Al-Shabaab assassinations, suicide bombings, hostage taking, and indiscriminate attacks in civilian-populated areas are also frequent in Somalia. Terrorist operatives and armed groups in Somalia have demonstrated their intent to attack Somali authorities, the African Union Mission in Somalia, and non-military targets such as international donor offices and humanitarian assistance providers. Additionally, the terrorist group al-Qa'ida in the Lands of the Islamic Maghreb (AQIM) has declared its intention to attack Western targets throughout the Sahel (an area that stretches across the African continent between the Atlantic Ocean and the Red Sea to include Senegal, Mali, Algeria, Niger, Chad, Sudan, and Eritrea). It has claimed responsibility for kidnappings, attempted kidnappings, and the murder of several Westerners throughout the region, including southern Algeria. Violent extremist elements including, but not limited to Ansar al-

Dine, the Movement for Oneness and Jihad (MUJAO), al-Qa'ida in the Lands of Islamic Maghreb (AQIM), and extremists tied to the newly formed al-Murabitun, remain active in the region. AQIM-related threats against Westerners in Mali and elsewhere increased following the initiation of the U.S.-supported, French-led intervention in northern and central Mali, where the security environment remains fluid. In neighboring Niger, terrorists formerly associated with AQIM conducted suicide attacks targeting a French mining facility and a Nigerian military compound in Agadez in late May of 2013.

The loosely organized group of factions known as

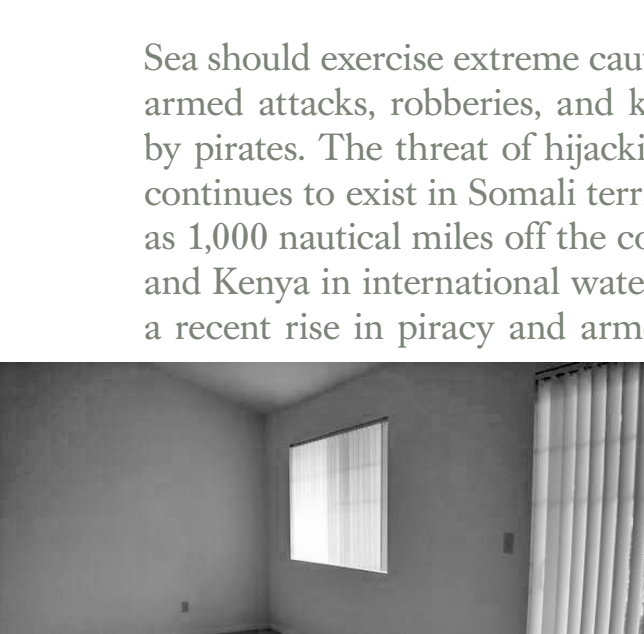

Boko Haram continues to carry out significant improvised explosive device and suicide bombings in northern Nigeria, mainly targeting government forces and innocent civilians. Boko Haram and splinter group Ansaru have also claimed responsibility for the kidnappings of several Western workers and tourists, both in northern Nigeria and northern Cameroon; Ansaru has murdered virtually all of its hostages in the face of real or perceived rescue attempts, while Boko Haram allegedly received a large ransom payment for the release of a French family abducted near a tourist park in northern Cameroon. Late 2013 saw an increase in Boko Haram attacks and clashes with Nigerian government security forces in northern Nigeria. Boko Haram has also targeted women and children for kidnapping, reportedly kidnapping women in northern states for marriage as "slave brides." Boko Haram is known to descend on whole towns, robbing banks and businesses, attacking police and military installations, and setting fire to private homes. In 2013, extremists have also targeted both Nigerians and foreign nationals involved in polio eradication efforts in northern Nigeria. Extremists attacked a school in northeast Nigeria, killing over 40 students, and have called for further attacks on educational institutions. Several agencies that have partnered with the U.S. government in the field of public health development in northern Nigeria have curtailed their activities in response to these threats. The president of Nigeria declared a state of emergency in three northeastern states in response to activities of extremist groups.

U.S. citizens considering travel by sea near the Horn of Africa, the Gulf of Guinea, or in the southern Red Sea should exercise extreme caution, as there have been armed attacks, robberies, and kidnappings for ransom by pirates. The threat of hijacking to merchant vessels continues to exist in Somali territorial waters and as far as 1,000 nautical miles off the coast of Somalia, Yemen, and Kenya in international waters. There has also been a recent rise in piracy and armed robbery in the Gulf of Guinea, including hijackings.

U.S. government maritime authorities advise mariners to avoid the port of Mogadishu and to remain at least 200 nautical miles off the coast of Somalia. In addition, when transiting around the Horn of Africa, the Gulf of Guinea, or in the Red Sea, it is strongly recommended that vessels travel in convoys and maintain good communications at all times. U.S. citizens traveling on commercial passenger vessels should consult with the shipping or cruise ship company regarding precautions that will be taken to avoid hijacking incidents. Commercial vessels should review the Department of Transportation Maritime Administration's Horn of Africa Piracy page for information on maritime advisories, self-protection measures, and naval forces in the region. Review our International Maritime Piracy Fact Sheet for information on piracy in the southern Red Sea, the Gulf of Aden, and the Indian Ocean.

SOUTH ASIA: The U.S. government continues to receive information that terrorist groups in South Asia may also be planning attacks in the region, possibly against U.S. government facilities, U.S. citizens, or U.S. interests. The presence of al-Qa'ida, Taliban elements, Lashkar-e-Tayyiba, indigenous sectarian groups, and other terror organizations, many of which are on the U.S. government's list of designated Foreign Terrorist Organizations, poses a potential danger to U.S. citizens in the region. Terrorists and their sympathizers have demonstrated their willingness and ability to attack locations where U.S. citizens or Westerners are known to congregate or visit. Their actions may include, but are not limited to, vehicle-borne explosive attacks, improvised explosive device attacks, assassinations, carjackings, rocket attacks, assaults, or kidnappings.

Such attacks have occurred in a number of South Asian states, including Pakistan, where a number of extremist groups continue to target

U.S. and other Western citizens and interests, and Pakistani government and military/law enforcement personnel. Suicide bombing attacks continue to occur throughout the country on a regular basis, often targeting government authorities such as police checkpoints and military installations, as well as public areas such as mosques, and shopping areas. U.S. citizens are increasingly targeted for kidnapping. No part of Afghanistan should be considered immune from violence, and throughout the country the potential exists for hostile acts, either targeted or random, against U.S. and other Western nationals at any time. Elements of the Taliban and the al-Qa'ida terrorist network, as well as other insurgent groups hostile to the Government of the Islamic Republic of Afghanistan, remain active. Insurgents continue to target various U.S. and Afghan government facilities, including a sophisticated, multiple-explosives and small-arms assault against the U.S. Consulate in Herat which killed two security guards and injured another 20 in September 2013. Insurgents also are increasingly targeting U.S. and foreign security convoys traveling in Kabul. In early February 2014, a lone vehicle borne improvised explosive device detonated in close proximity to a U.S. security convoy, killing three civilian contractors. There is an ongoing threat of kidnapping and assassination of U.S. citizens and non-governmental organization (NGO) workers throughout the country.

India has experienced terrorist and insurgent activities that may affect U.S. citizens directly or indirectly. Anti-Western terrorist groups, some of which are on the U.S. government's list of designated Foreign Terrorist Organizations, have been active in India, including Islamist extremist groups such as Harkat-ul-Jihad-i-Islami, Harakat ul-Mujahidin, Indian Mujahideen, Jaish-e-Mohammed, and the Pakistan-based Lashkar-e Tayyiba. Terrorists have targeted public places in India frequented by Westerners, including luxury and other hotels, trains, train stations, markets, cinemas, mosques, and restaurants in large urban areas.

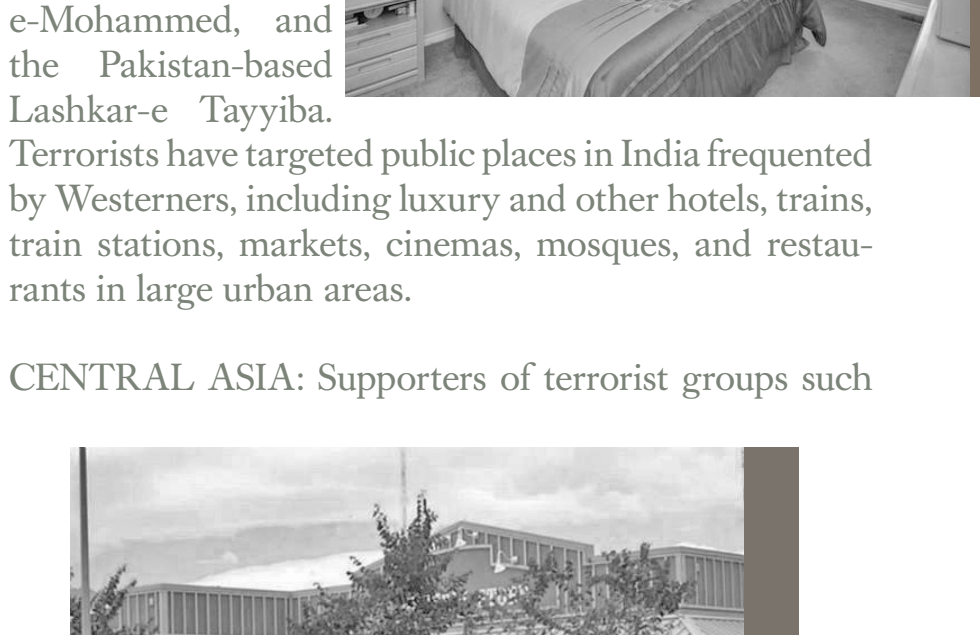

CENTRAL ASIA: Supporters of terrorist groups such as the Islamic Movement of Uzbekistan, al-Qa'ida, the Islamic Jihad Union, and the Eastern Turkistan Islamic Movement remain active in Central Asia. These groups have expressed anti-U.S. sentiments and may attempt to target U.S. government interests.

EAST ASIA AND PACIFIC: Information from confirmed sources suggests that there is a continued risk of armed terrorist and criminal groups operating and planning attacks against foreigners, including U.S. citizens, in the East Asian and Pacific region. Extremist groups in the region have demonstrated the capability to carry out attacks in locations where Westerners congregate.

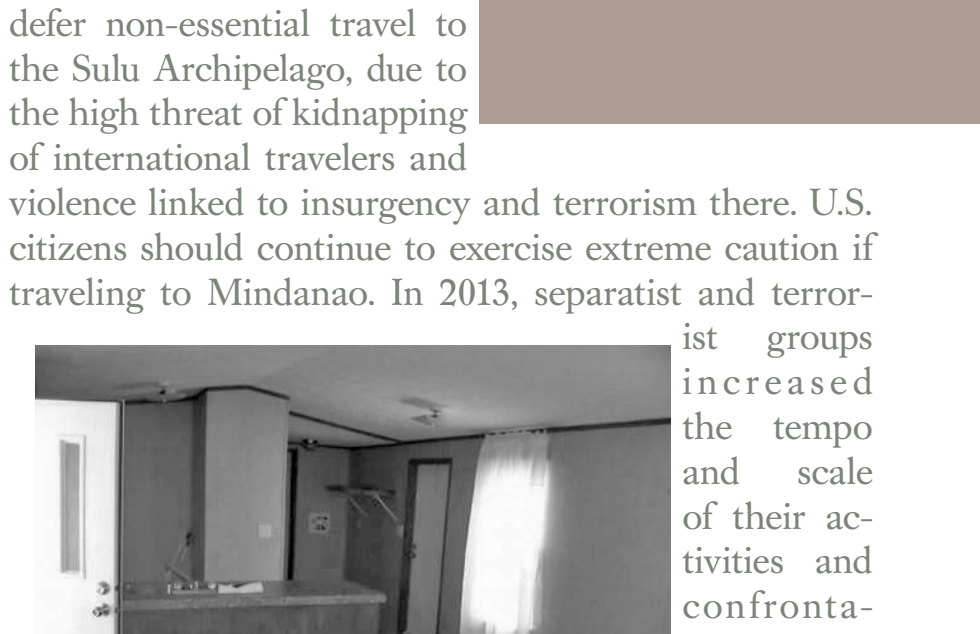

There is a risk of travel to the southern Philippines, specifically related to kidnapping threats in the Sulu Archipelago and the ongoing threat of violence on the island of Mindanao, particularly in Central Mindanao. U.S. citizens should defer non-essential travel to the Sulu Archipelago, due to the high threat of kidnapping of international travelers and violence linked to insurgency and terrorism there. U.S. citizens should continue to exercise extreme caution if traveling to Mindanao. In 2013, separatist and terrorist groups increased the tempo and scale of their activities and confrontations with Philippine security forces, with increased bombings, attacks on civilians and political leaders, and battles with security forces. In September 2013, elements of the Moro National Liberation Front (MNLF) occupied portions of the city of Zamboanga and engaged in a lengthy battle with security forces which reduced large parts of the city to rubble.

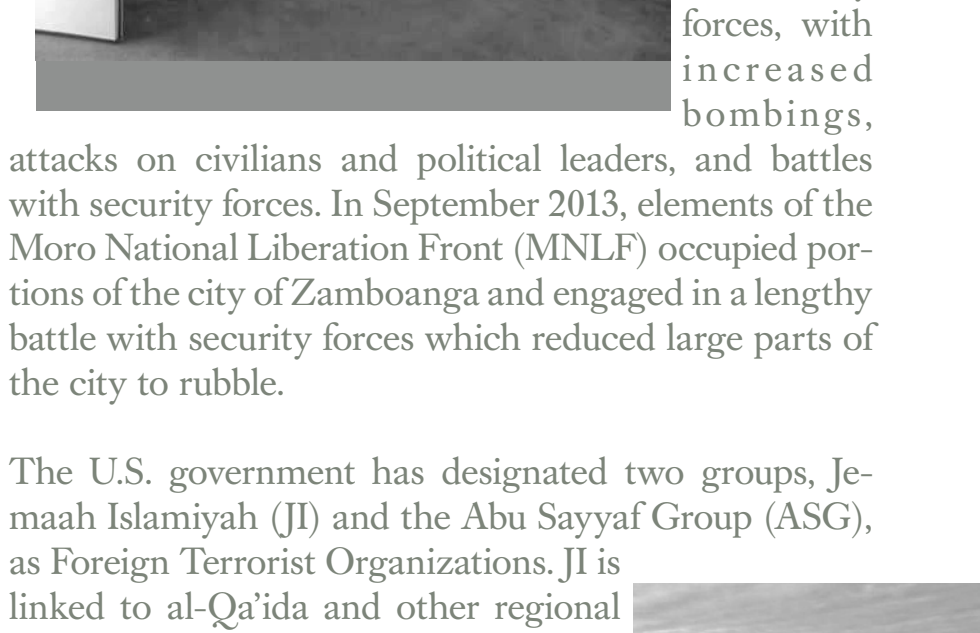

The U.S. government has designated two groups, Jemaah Islamiyah (JI) and the Abu Sayyaf Group (ASG), as Foreign Terrorist Organizations. JI is linked to al-Qa'ida and other regional terrorist groups and has cells operating throughout Southeast Asia. On November 15, 2013, gunmen, linked to the Abu Sayyaf Group, raided a resort on Pom Pom Island off the eastern coast of Sabah, killing a tourist from Taiwan and taking his wife hostage. On December 20, Philippine authorities recovered her in a forest near the village of Talipao on the island of Jolo. Some media reports indicated she was released in exchange for a ransom payment. On December 2, Royal Malaysia Police announced the arrest of two suspects

Hello Dear, Compliments of the day. I came across your contact address while searching for someone to help me, I lost my parents and want you to stand as my foreign trustee to retrieve and invest USD$6.5 Million which I inherited from my late parent. I tried to get this money out from the bank , but the management refused because of my age. I am ready to give you 25% of the whole money at the completion of the transaction, write me back for more details. Regards, Miss.Mary Anderson.

Taxpayers are paying billions of dollars for a swindle pulled off by the world's biggest banks, using a form of derivative called interest-rate swaps; and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation has now joined a chorus of litigants suing over it. According to a SEIU report: Derivatives . . . have turned into a windfall for banks and a nightmare for taxpayers. . . . While banks are still collecting fixed rates of 3 to 6 percent, they are now regularly paying public entities as little as a tenth of one percent on the outstanding bonds, with rates expected to remain low in the future. Over the life of the deals, banks are now projected to collect billions more than they pay state and local governments -- an outcome which amounts to a second bailout for banks, this one paid directly out of state and local budgets.

Prosecutors in South Korea are currently pursuing an arrest warrant for the captain of the ferry that capsized on Wednesday after it was revealed that he was not at the helm during the incident. The capsized South Korean ferry with 270 missing is now completely underwater, and the death toll rose to 28 as of Friday morning. The vice principal of the high school where most of the missing came from was found hanged Friday in an apparent suicide. The principal had been rescued on one of the first boats. Divers and rescue works were able to breach the hull of the ferry and enter the second deck, but tough water conditions forced them to exit and they failed to find any more of the missing. There are heavy currents in the area. So the vessel itself is not stable in the water. So you are, by default, putting divers at risk.

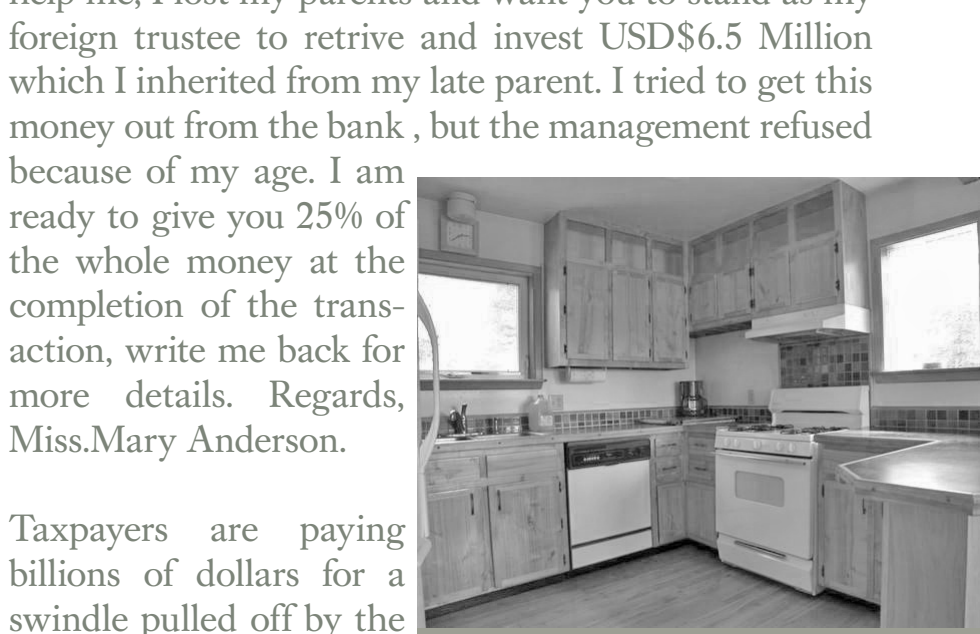

The federal lands grazing program is like supercharged food stamps for bovines. And it is massively subsidized. As the U.S. Government Accountability Office reported in 2005, the program brought in $21 million in fees paid by ranchers, but cost $144 million to run.

Once upon a time, off-the-books assassination was generally a rare act of state and always one that presidents could deny responsibility for. Now, it is part of everyday life in the White House and at the CIA. The president's role as assassin-in-chief, as the man who quite literally makes the final decision on whom to kill, has been all-but-publicly promoted as a political plus.

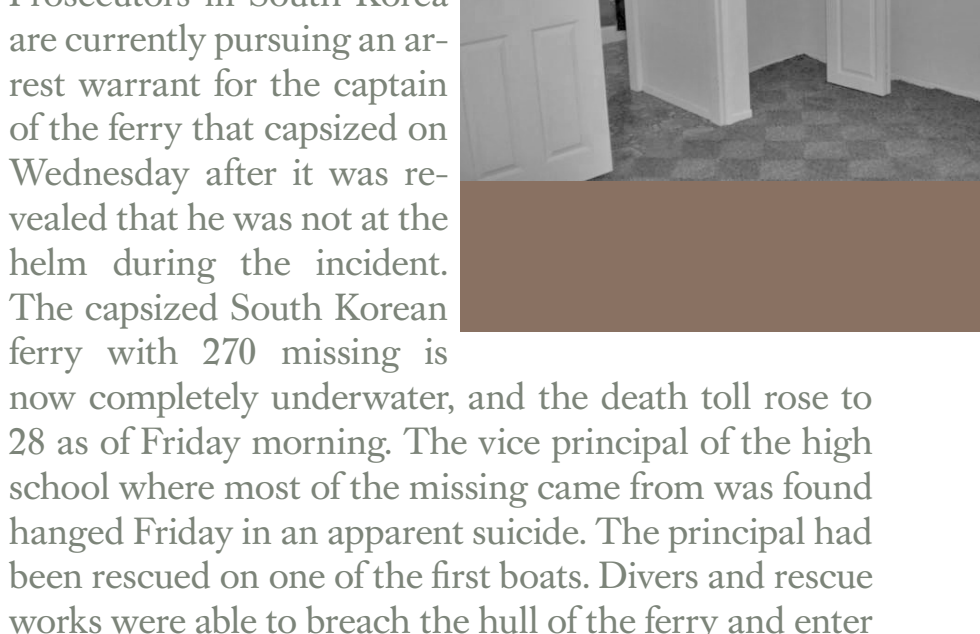

The drone assassination campaigns in Pakistan, Yemen, and Somalia, though "covert" and run by a civilian agency (with much secret help from the U.S. Air Force) are openly reported on in the media and discussed as a seeming point of pride by those involved. In 2009, for in-

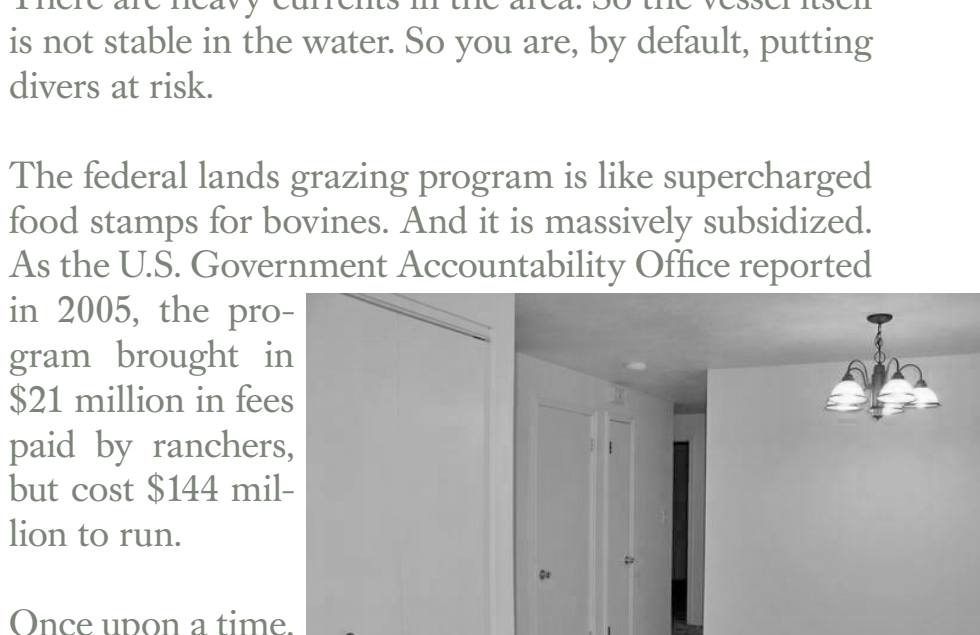

Lashkar-e-Tayyiba, indigenous sectarian groups, and other terror organizations, many of which are on the U.S. government's list of designated Foreign Terrorist Organizations, poses a potential danger to U.S. citizens in the region. Terrorists and their sympathizers have demonstrated their willingness and ability to attack locations where U.S. citizens or Westerners are known to congregate or visit. Their actions may include, but are not limited to, vehicle-borne explosive attacks, improvised explosive device attacks, assassinations, carjackings, rocket attacks, assaults, or kidnappings.

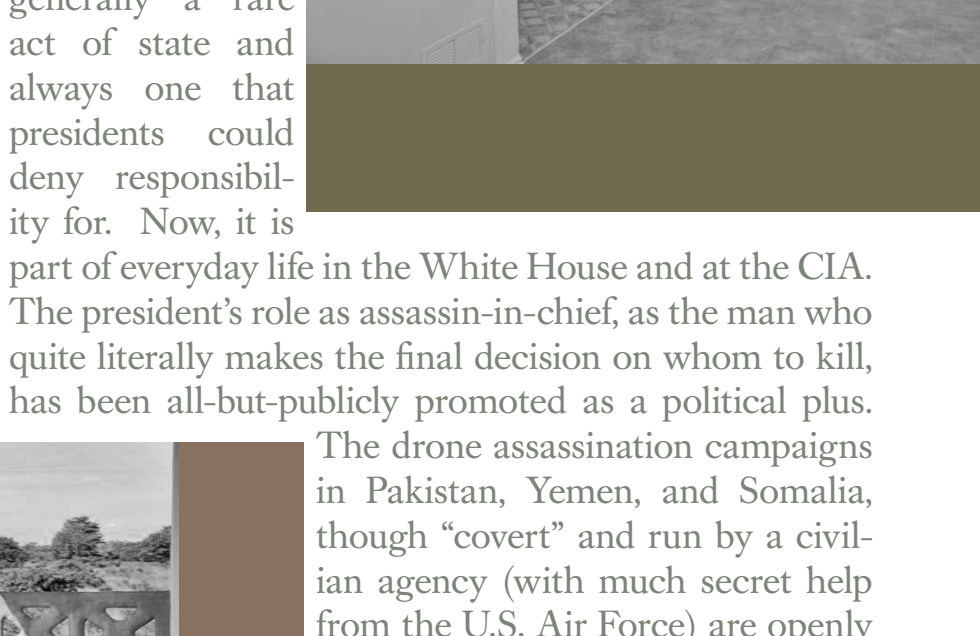

Such attacks have occurred in a number of South Asian states, including Pakistan, where a number of extremist groups continue to target

U.S. and other Western citizens and interests, and Pakistani government and military/law enforcement personnel. Suicide bombing attacks continue to occur throughout the country on a regular basis, often targeting government authorities such as police checkpoints and military installations, as well as public areas such as mosques, and shopping areas. U.S. citizens are increasingly targeted for kidnapping. No part of Afghanistan should be considered immune from violence, and throughout the country the potential exists for hostile acts, either targeted or random, against U.S. and other Western nationals at any time. Elements of the Taliban and the al-Qa'ida terrorist network, as well as other insurgent groups hostile to the Government of the Islamic Republic of Afghanistan, remain active. Insurgents continue to target various U.S. and Afghan government facilities, including a sophisticated, multiple-explosives and small-arms assault against the U.S. Consulate in Herat which killed two security guards and injured another 20 in September 2013. Insurgents also are increasingly targeting U.S. and foreign security convoys traveling in Kabul. In early February 2014, a lone vehicle borne improvised explosive device detonated in close proximity to a U.S. security convoy, killing three civilian contractors. There is an ongoing threat of kidnapping and assassination of U.S. citizens and non-governmental organization (NGO) workers throughout the country.

India has experienced terrorist and insurgent activities that may affect U.S. citizens directly or indirectly. Anti-Western terrorist groups, some of which are on the U.S. government's list of designated Foreign Terrorist Organizations, have been active in India, including Islamist extremist groups such as Harkat-ul-Jihad-i-Islami, Harakat ul-Mujahidin, Indian Mujahideen, Jaish-e-Mohammed, and the Pakistan-based Lashkar-e Tayyiba. Terrorists have targeted public places in India frequented by Westerners, including luxury and other hotels, trains, train stations, markets, cinemas, mosques, and restaurants in large urban areas.

